CLOSED SHOP CAUSES TROUBLE IN PRINTING BUREAU AT CAPITAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, April 3.—A technical shortage of $600,- or more in securities, due to closed-shop mismanagement, disclosed by high officials of the treasury to be the real reason for summary action by President Harding last Friday in removing from the service the director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and more than a score of his assistants.

No one in authority will attempt to say what the actual loss in dollars and cents is and no charges of criminal character have been made nor are any being considered, so far as can be learned. No actual dishonesty has been uncovered and no single individual is blamed. The loss, whatever it may be finally determined to aggregate, is due to a long period of low efficiency, union domination and ineffective discipline. In addition to the report of a loss in securities there is also a statement in circulation, that there has been found a shortage in safety paper on which currency of the United States is printed. Some time ago a check-up of the inventory of this stock was made and reports from reliable sources indicate that the actual count did not tally as high as the books indicated.

Protests have also been made, because through a desire for economy the Budget Commission ordered discontinued an extra count of all paper money when it was transferred from the Bureau of Engraving to the Treasurer's office where the seals and signatures which make it legal tender are affixed. How much importance this last count is held by the department officials could not be learned tonight, but apparently the whole basis for President Harding's action was to terminate for all time a long period of laxness and failure to effectively check the materials and finished products of this bureau, where all paper money, stamps and securities of the Federal government are made.

BADLY MANAGED

An investigation going to the bottom of the whole matter is now under way under the new regime to verify and secure details of inefficient management disclosed by a preliminary hearing on which the President acted. Scores of affidavits of loose management and careless checking are on file with the investigators and most, if not all, of the technical loss in securities is made up in duplicates of securities of various denominations which were run off in great quantities at times when the forces were in three shifts of eight hours each and the plant was running continuously night and day.

It is the understanding of those in a position to know that bonds which were run through the presses improperly and the imprints were not exactly true to register or were otherwise defective in alignment were allowed to go through instead of being spoiled and returned to stock for credit. At the same time it is said that the serial number was set back and a perfectly engraved bond would also be sent through bearing the same number as the defective one

"Friend Unto Death," Says Slayer as He Kills Relative

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

HERRIN (Ill.) April 3.—When Charles Williamson said only a portion of the board bill he owed Albert Blevins, whose niece he had married, and promised to settle for the balance when the coal miners' strike ends, the men quarreled. Blevins was stabbed to death last night while walking on a side street. The Coroner's jury today held Williamson for murder. A woman testified that she saw Williamson embrace Blevins and heard him say he was the friend of his uncle unto death. Blevins immediately fell to the sidewalk, a knife having penetrated his jugular vein. Williamson is in jail. Both men worked in the mines until Saturday.

TORCH LIT IN ULSTER; BURN CARS

BY PAUL WILLIAMS

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DUNDALK (County Louth, Ireland) April 3.—The boycott of North and East Ulster, is on with a vengeance. This economic reprisal, removed by the Dail, after Sir James Craig and Michael Collins's first agreement, was restored by the army executive council.

Armed men are obeying the council orders, and are destroying goods from the banned area by the wholesale. During the weekend they held up trains and raided warehouses of nearly every railroad leading to the south and west.

Dundalk is the first important point in side the southern border along the main line of the Belfast-Dublin Railway.

ROB AND BURN

Men from here first began to enforce the unofficial boycott by stopping trains, burning freight cars containing shipments from Belfast, and carrying off the mails. They were partially inspired by the continuation of disorder in the northeastern capital.

Seven dead and twelve wounded is the toll of the week-end to April 3, and the Republicans say that as long as this keeps up they will make it impossible for Belfast merchants to do as much business in the provisional government's area as they did during the old boycott. Furthermore, they declare, if life does not become safer in Belfast, night raiders may start to destroy something more precious than chattels.

TRAINS HELD UP

Last night five carloads of goods were removed from a storehouse in Barracks street and burned. The mails were robbed from southbound trains at Dromin Junction, and an early morning freight train was stopped at Dundalk Junction, and four cars burned.

The army council's work is rapidly breaking up the business relations so recently renewed between the north and the south. Trade is almost impossible now. There is little, if any buying, orders have been canceled, and the Ulster traveling men have been called in.

"PEACE WITH HONOR"

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BELFAST, April 3.—An important movement was launched by Ulster business men today, when an organization known as the "Ulster Peace With Honor Association" was formed at a mass meeting. The meeting was addressed in private by a representative of Sir James Craig.

The 3000 persons present pledged their support to the Premier in making peace, establishing order and suppressing crime. Propaganda will be instituted to defend the north from alleged slanders disseminated throughout the world by enemies of the northern government.

The movement has the solid backing of the Ulster commercial community, which indorsed Sir Henry Wilson's advice to make Ulster's case more widely known.

HOLD FIVE FOR DISASTER

Tragedy in Washington Theater in Which Ninety-eight Lost Lives Is Laid to Accused

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Five of the nine men held by the Coroner's jury as responsible for the collapse January 28 of the Knickerbocker Theater, with a loss of ninety-eight lives, were indicted today by the grand jury on charges of manslaughter.

The four others were exonerated, the grand jurors determining their connection with the construction of the building not sufficient to make them criminally liable.

Those indicted are: Reginald W. Geare, architect of the theater; John Hayward Ford of the Union Iron Works, who revised the original plans for the steel roof structure; Donald Wallace, general foreman for Frank L. Wagner, contractor for the construction of the theater; Richard G. Fletcher, foreman for the Hammet Fireproofing Company, which had the subcontract for cement and mason work, and Julian R. Dowman, assistant building inspector during the period of the theater's construction.

The five are charged with causing the death of Mrs. Mary E. Atkinson, over whose body the inquest was held, and the ninety-seven others.

Those relieved of responsibility by the grand jury are: Morris Hacker, former building inspector; Frank L. Wagner, general contractor; John L. McDonald, contractor for the erection of the steel framing for the roof, and Thomas L. Costigan, engineer and computer for the building inspector's office at the time application for permit to build the theater was made.

The theory of the prosecution, as outlined in the indictments, is that the five men held were engaged in a gigantic task which required that each knew what the other was doing, what it was his business and duty to do, and were so related in these duties that they knew or ought to have known whether each performed properly his portion of the work, and if it was neglected or negligently performed.

U. S. Atty.-Gen. Gordon contends that the duty to notify of the unsafe character of the building still existed on the day of the disaster, and because of the failure of the accused to make known the condition of the building, the five are liable criminally for the resulting tragedy.

BANDITS WORK FAST; STAGE FOUR HOLD-UPS

One bandit held up two men within two minutes in the same block late last night. He stepped into the Francisco Garage, Francisco and Tenth streets, and held up J. H. Gaffney, an employee, obtaining $10. Then he walked half a square away and held up a pedestrian, W. H. Meyer of 506 Temple street. Mr. Meyer lost $16.

As he was returning home late last night, E. A. Shewmaker of 1122 South San Julian street was held up on Santee near Tenth street by two footpads and robbed of his government pay check for $65 and several dollars in silver.

Two armed bandits entered the Bryson garage at 633 South Rampart Boulevard and robbed Dudley Dyers, the night man, of $40.

She was talking, when this photograph was taken, with the government station at Fort MacPherson, in the same State. Her husband, Efrem Zimbalist, the famous violinist, also used this instrument. Interest in Los Angeles in the radiophone is heightened by the fact that The Times is installing a complete and modern plant for the broadcasting of news and facts regarding other events that will prove interesting to those having receiving instruments.

JAPS TO QUIT SIBERIA

Evacuation Decided Upon by Cabinet, According to Tokio Press; Reds Scare Them Out

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

TOKIO, April 3.—Immediate evacuation of Siberia was decided upon at the last meeting of the Japanese Cabinet, according to Tokio newspapers today. The Asahi Shimbun, in publishing the report, attributes the decision to activity of the Reds in the maritime province, which, it says, places the Japanese forces in a position of having to fight the soviet troops or make peace.

"In either case, Japan would suffer," says the Asahi. "If they fight the situation would become further complicated. If they shake hands the maintenance of troops there for the last five years loses its significance."

The Asahi says that the representatives at Dairen have been notified of Japan's intention to evacuate.

Reports from Vladivostok today said the Red forces of the Chita government, advancing southward along the Usuri Railway in pursuit of Vladivostok government troops, had reached Spasskoye.

The Vladivostok troops, as fast as they are forced to retire into territory guarded by the Japanese, are being disarmed by the Japanese forces, dispatches said. Some thousands of Red troops are said to have invaded Japanese neutral territory, the Japanese hesitating to open hostilities, in view of the negotiations that have been pending some time at Dairen between the Japanese government and the Chita soviet republic.

COMMONS UPHOLDS PREMIER

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, April 3.—The House of Commons tonight, after an unexciting debate, adopted by the substantial majority of 278 Premier Lloyd George's resolution calling for confidence in the government's policy on the coming economic conference at Genoa. The vote was 372 to 94.

Prior to this the House, by a vote of 379 to 84, rejected an amendment proposed by John Robert Clynes, Laborite, which, while approving an international economic and financial conference, declared that the government was not competent to represent the country at such a conference and did not have the confidence of the country.

TENSE MOMENTS.

In the earlier part of the session, the House passed an hour and twenty minutes of such tenseness as it had not experienced for many months, and when the Prime Minister, fresh from his retirement in the country, threw down the gauntlet to his opponents and declared that a vote on the hitherto inocuous Genoa resolution was tantamount to a vote of confidence or lack of confidence in the government.

If Lloyd George has tired of office as his son announced Saturday, certainly he appeared in fighting mood as he entered the House amidst a storm of cheering. His rest had plainly benefited him as evidenced by his bronzed face and quick step, and as he strode to the Ministerial bench with a somewhat defiant attitude, his whole bearing was that of a man entering upon a great fight with every determination to win and with confidence in his own powers.

HOUSE IS CROWDED

The House was crowded, it being accentuated by conflicting reports on whether the Premier would demand a vote of confidence in connection with the Genoa resolution or whether, in view of the delicate political situation, he would sidestep the issue.

Great crowds of people vainly bombarded the Commons officials for passes admitting them to the proceedings, and the galleries were filled with the more fortunate.

Among the distinguished persons present were American Ambassador Harvey, who frequently smiled broadly at the Premier's quaint or biting humor.

MASTERLY HANDLING

Lloyd George's speech obviously was not an attempt at oratory, such as he is capable of, but was, rather, an exhibition of what the critics in the gallery called "masterly handling" of his audience. He coaxed, cajoled, joked and defied in turn, but each phase of the speech fitted in with the preceding like a carpenter's joint.

Step by step he built up his defense, sometimes with laughter as vehicle, often with the most serious declaration, but always aiming at the same goal—the continued life of his government. Rarely did he encounter a hostile voice, while, on the other hand, many times opponents made good-natured interpolations, which were taken as admissions that his foil had reached home.

Frequently there arose above the rumble of applause, Lady Astor's clear "hear, hear" of approval.

MESSAGE OF DEFIANCE

The Premier began in a commonplace manner, and then after a few moments suddenly hurled into the House his message of defiance—"if the Genoa resolution was defeated, it meant a vote of no confidence in the government —" he delivered his ultimatum in

Crowded Pico Cafe Held Up by Two Thugs

Two men, one of them carrying a brace of automatic pistols, late last night held up and robbed the Pico Cafe at 149 West Pico street of $150 cash.

The robbery was perpetrated while half a dozen patrons were dining at the counter and tables. The proprietor, B. V. Brasher, and the cashier, W. M. Plummer, were standing near the cash register in the front of the cafe when the bandits, after driving up to the curb in a large automobile, entered the establishment. One of the pair with an automatic pistol in each hand immediately threatened to "plug anyone who made a move" while his partner opened the cash register and scooped up the money within. Two waitresses, Anne Mooney and Laura Deegan, were back of the counter at the time.

Making no attempt to molest any of the diners the robbers then rushed out the street door, leaped into their car and escaped. One of the bandits was described as an Italian while Mr. Brasher said his partner looked like a Japanese.

Within two blocks of his home at 913 Witmer street, J. W. Bachman was held up by two youths late last night and robbed of $39. The robbery took place at the corner of Witmer and Orange streets. One of the footpads threatened Mr. Bachman with a revolver while the other rifled his pockets.

Murder Victims in Cold Blood; Steal $20,000 and Flee

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, April 3.—In a $20,000 hold-up tonight within eye range of hundreds of persons in the heart of South Chicago's business district, Policeman Ernest H. Cassidy and Philip Sommers, treasurer of the Royal Building and Loan Association, were killed by one of five bandits who escaped in an auto amid a fusillade of bullets.

The remarkable daring displayed by the bandits is indicated by the circumstances that the scene of the crime corresponds to Chicago's loop — except that on Monday night, which is pay day in many of the big industries there—the streets are crowded. Stores, shops and restaurants were open. Theaters were open, and only a short distance away was the police station.

COLD-BLOODED MURDER

Eyewitnesses say the double murder was committed in cold blood. Both men were shot without warning. Cassidy did not even have a chance to defend himself. He was shot in the back. Neither of the victims regained sufficient consciousness to make a statement.

Although an automobile with a shotgun squad took the trail of the bandits within ten minutes, it did not come within firing distance of them. So far as known nobody obtained the license number of the bandit car, which is said to be a Paige.

Mr. Summers had been with the building and loan association for twenty-two years. It was his custom for the last fifteen years to walk each Monday evening to the Calumet National Bank and deposit the day's receipts. He was always accompanied by a policeman as guard.

Tonight he left the association at 8:30 o'clock. Cassidy walked about three steps behind him. The bank is a short block away. The street is brilliantly lighted.

SHOT WITHOUT WARNING

Sommers and his escort were proceeding through the crowded street when a machine drove up alongside them and four of the five bandits leaped out. Without a word of warning they began shooting. Officer Cassidy was instantly killed by a shot in the spine and Cashier Sommers fell with two shots in the chest.

One of the robbers seized the satchel containing the money as Sommers toppled over. The crowd was paralyzed by the deed and no one made a move. The bandits shouldered their way through the crowd, waving their smoking pistols in the faces of spectators, who quickly made way. They leaped into their car, the engine of which was running, and drove away. Instantly people in the crowd and nearby buildings regained their senses and opened fire. From the speeding car came a volley of bullets from five magazine pistols. The bandit on the running board was heard to say to his comrades "I'm hit" but the others reached out and dragged him into the car, which was soon lost in the maze of automobiles in Commercial avenue.

Mr. Sommers was 56 years old. He was one of South Chicago's most prominent citizens. He is survived by his widow, Julia; a daughter, Elsie, and Phillip, Jr.

Cassidy had been on the police force but a year. He had a commendable overseas record. He was a member of Co. B, One Hundred and Second Infantry. He was 28 years old and single.

SOVIET TO REPUDIATE RUSS DEBT

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, April 3.—Apparently reflecting the frame of mind of the soviet delegates en route to Genoa, War Minister Trotzky told the Moscow correspondent of the Paris Journal and the Excelsior that his Russian government would not recognize the Czarist debts and that Russia would, if need be, get along without the Genoa conference.

This latter point he made clear when asked what would be Russia's attitude of the soviets if the conference was a failure.

TROTZKY ARROGANT

"You foreigners," he said, "have exaggerated notions of Russia's ills. With or without Genoa we would pull through. The conference it not indispensable to the revival of Russia. We only consented to participate on being guaranteed that the delegations meant business and that the conference was not merely an electioneering dodge of Lloyd George."

Trotzky admitted that negotiations are in progress to grant British firms big concessions in order to develop the port of Petrograd. Then turning to France and the recent political developments there he continued:

"The national bloc in the Paris chamber strangles free expression of thought in France. The bloc is not representative of the French people, though we admit the latter are far from being Communistic.

VIEWS ON POINCARE

"As for Premier Poincare, the attitude of that statesman has perforces to be modified by events. It would be stupid to attempt to foretell Poincare's future acts simply because we know his past.

"We are prepared to meet considerable hostility in France, chiefly over our refusal to take over all Russian property in France and redistribute it among French workers. Then we would be quits.

"Why should we recognize these debts? Fifteen years ago as president of the Petrograd syndicate, I warned foreign governments that the Russian people would not repay the debts being incurred by the Czar for the subjection of the Russian people.

ERUPTION IN RUSSIA

"Supposing French industrials went into business at Naples and that an eruption of Vesuvius ruined their property. Would the Italian industrials repay those industrials? Well, we have had an eruption in Russia."

Trotzky concluded the interview by asserting that the Red army is in first-rate condition, but would be used only for defensive purposes. He thinks Lithuania, Esthonia and Latvia, which left the Russian state, will one day beg to be taken back. As for Poland, he referred to that country as a "declassed democracy."

STANDARD OIL PROFITS

Net Return of 14.25 Per Cent Last Year on Invested Capital; Production Record Set

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—The annual statement of the Standard Oil Company of California for 1921, issued here today, shows the company made a net profit of $35,-588,230.98, or 14.25 per cent on an invested capital and surplus of $235,650,645.

The statement said that with a return to normal business conditions the present production of crude oil in California will be no more than enough to meet current demands. The company's statement said there was an improvement in business conditions last year and that it was able to build up its reserve stocks of crude oil.

The company broke its record for crude-oil production by producing 36,696,916 barrels gross, a daily average of 100,539 barrels, against 79,436 barrels daily in 1920, which it is declared was also a record.

The statement said the company is extending production in this country and abroad. Two wells are being drilled in the Philippines. Through a subsidiary organization, the California Company, the Standard Oil Company has begun drilling on 21,353 acres in Montana.

Through operation of the company's stock investment plan, the statement said, employees last year accumulated $3,695,833 worth of stock, or 41,368 shares. On Dec. 31, 1921, the company had 16,962 employees, 15 per cent more than in 1920. The statement said the company hospital at Colfax, Cal., had been completed and that fifty-two employees were treated last year, eighteen of whom returned to work cured. Forty-five per cent of the company's stockholders are women and 98 per cent American residents, it was declared.

Last year's earnings amounted to $50,530,409.28 after deducting operating and marketing expenses. The sum of $14,192,296.59 was written off for depreciation and depletion. The interest paid on the company's gold debentures was $1,670,781.71. Federal, excess and income taxes totaled $1,079,000, leaving the $33,558,330.98 announced as net profit.

The amount paid in cash dividends was $15,499,546.20.

OVER HALF-MILLION MEN IDLE IN COAL STRIKE

Both Sides Standing Firm With Over 6000 Mines Shut Down; Nonunion Men at Work

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Both operators and miners stand firm in the country-wide strike which has closed more than 6000 mines, leaving over 500,000 men idle.

Operators claim many nonunion miners who were idle Saturday in observance of the anniversary of the eight-hour day have returned to work.

Both sides agree, however, that the strike is practically 100 per cent perfect in the great central competitive fields of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Western Pennsylvania.

Operators assert many pits are in operation in West Virginia, Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and Alabama.

The Southwestern Coal Operators' Association of Kansas agreed late yesterday to carry out the order of the Kansas Industrial Court to continue the present wage agreement in the Kansas mines for thirty days, according to Massey Holmes, counsel for the Central Coal and Coke Company.

Union leaders claim victory for striking anthracite miners through offers of several independent companies to grant the miners' wage demands if the men return to work immediately.

President John L. Lewis of the miners tells House Labor Committee miners are prepared to "stay out indefinitely, if need be, until the operators sign up a basic wage contract for the central competitive field."

COAL MINERS DEFENDED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 3. — Discussing before the House Labor Committee today reasons why 600,000 anthracite and bituminous coal miners stopped work last Saturday in the United States and Canada, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America and official leader of the strike, declared that the anthracite workers had gone out merely to await the results of a peaceful negotiation with their employers over a new wage scale. The bituminous workers, however, were out indefinitely, if need be, to obtain the signing of a basic wage contract, he said.

The bituminous workers, Lewis declared before the committee, which is considering the Bland resolution to direct appointment by the President of a commission to investigate the coal industry, are out to "stay indefinitely, if need be, until the operators of the central competitive field of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Western Pennsylvania sign up a basic wage contract, according to their pledge on which the other coal-mining districts of the United States can settle.

NO LOCAL SCALE

In reply to questions by Representative Black, Democrat, Texas, as to why the union would not settle with operators in States and districts where work could be resumed under satisfactory conditions, Lewis insisted that competition would not permit the operators to fix wages locally without a knowledge of the wage scales their competitors would have.

"Even if the operators of Illinois, for instance," he added, "are willing to sign up a new scale for themselves, without regard to competitors, the United Mine Workers are unwilling to have its members in Ohio, Western Pennsylvania, Indiana and West Virginia dragged into the suffering of a long strike, while the Illinois mine owners take the markets."

ADVISES NEGOTIATIONS

Although holding that a national wage scale was the first essential, Lewis told Chairman Nolan of the House Committee, if Congress or anybody else could get a "representative number of operators from all the central fields into a conference, those controlling a substantial tonnage, I mean, I shall advise the United Mine Workers—and I think they will take my advice—to negotiate with them for a new contract."

Short of this step, he added, miners and operators conferring by districts would "just be talking—doing no good."

In speaking of the general condition of the industry, Lewis referred for the most part to bituminous matters, in view of the wider scope and importance of that industry as compared with the anthracite industry. Although the United Mine Workers "stood for nationalization of coal mines, with adequate assurance to property owners involved" he classed "government ownership as impossible at this time."

MUST SOLVE PROBLEM

"Miners know that they cannot hope to get more than 215 days work a year as things stand," he declared, "and that part-time operation tends to increase its scope year after year. Loath as some people may be to see the difficulties and hazards, if private industry cannot work out this problem, regularize employment and stabilize outputs, it may be necessary for the government to assume the burden. I believe Congress could well set up a tribunal or a bureau to investigate at least, and give the facts which might determine a policy."

Lewis paid his respects to what he termed "a general financial demand for liquidation of labor and deflation of wages" by declaring that there was "nothing constructive in the business viewpoint today, and depression cannot be overcome by cutting wages, and further lowering the purchasing power of labor."

The nonunion operators, especially those of West Virginia, he said, "were Ishmaelites of industry, whose hand is against industry, who are fomenting industrial difficulties that they may get high prices."

PUBLIC FOOTS BILL

"Be sure that if this do-nothing policy of business leaves issues to be fought out," he said, "with the government standing aside as a neutral observer, the public will have to foot the bill."

The industry itself was "tremendously wasteful," he asserted, in its intermittent operation and likewise "operators got used to large margins of profits during the war, and want to retain them."

In general, he declared that neither the anthracite nor the bituminous miners had "secured wage scales which kept pace with the advances of the cost of living during and after the war and surely now they cannot be asked to accept less than the small declines in living costs allow, which sum would be so small as not to affect the consumers price, even if it excepted the middlemen in the markets." Profits in recent years, in some mines, he said, in some cases exceeded the total mine cost of production of coal.

DEGREE OF REGULATION

Asked to outline the degree of regulation he thought the government might apply to the industry, Lewis sharply opposed the setting up of wage fixing tribunals, and likewise said he was not suggesting that the government fix prices. The question was not finished when he left the stand for the day to resume tomorrow.

Representative Bland, Republican, Indiana, author of the bill before the committee, asked the strike leader to give his views of the prospects in the strike.

"I assume that in due time the operators will be compelled," Mr. Lewis responded, "to recognize the obligation assumed in their old contract to confer with the United Mine Workers for a new central scale, and to recognize equally the desirability of such a new contract. I cannot conceive that they can long withstand the power of public opinion in the matter."

POLICE BUSY ON "BLUE" SUNDAY

First Day of Enforcement Results in Arrests in Victoria few days are withheld this much has been learned.

Germany and soviet Russia, to a large extent will support each other's proposals before the conference. Likewise it is learned that the Russians and Germans have reached an agreement on Germany's participation in the rehabilitation of Russia's economic life.

This arrangement follows upon the withdrawal of Walter Rathenau's plan for the exploitation of the prostrate empire, which is met with strong resistance from the soviet and provoked bitter feeling against Germany in the Russian press.

It is said here the Germany's first plan was so unsatisfactory that it brought about the recent overtures to France. Whatever lack of success attended the advances to France it is certain that they had the effect of forcing Rathenau to revise his original program to the satisfaction of Moscow.

MRS. LYDIG TOO ILL TO APPEAR IN COURT

WILLIAM TRAVERS JEROME ENTERS NOTED CASE AS HER COUNSEL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK April 3. — Mrs. Rita Decosta Lydig, society leader, subpoenaed as a witness in the suit of Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes to recover her dower rights in William E. D. Stokes $10,000,000 estate, was too ill to appear in the Supreme Court today without endangering her life, according to affidavits presented to Justice Cohalan by her attorney, William Travers Jerome.

The appearance of former Dist.-Atty. Jerome in the case caused surprise. He handed Justice Cohalan affidavits from physicians who today examined Mrs. Lydig at her home and swore that she was seriously ill from pernicious anaemia, and that any excitement in her weakened condition might prove fatal.

Government's Policy Upheld by House of Commons

Labor Party Amendment is Lost by Large Majority measured tones, with head erect, iron gray hair thrown back and eye flashing.

Every word was followed amid impressive silence. It was a moment that thrilled even his opponents—the little Welsh Napoleon thus throwing his government and perhaps his own career into the balance.

There was no ironical hoots as so often greet a ministerial declaration from the opposition. They respected his courage.

Then, calmly, analytically he built up his argument, now leaning in confidential attitude against the desk, and again standing back and thrusting home some point with clenched fists and as his voice vibrated with emotion.

PEACE NECESSARY

Peace was necessary for the re-establishment of Europe, the Genoa conference was necessary for the re-establishment of peace and interlocked with this was the fate of the present British government.

He denied that his resolution had been altered from the original and weakened because of differences in the Cabinet. Twice he referred to predictions about fall of his government, and jokingly gave some advice as a "dying Minister."

In the midst of his reference to Russia, he took a sly jibe at Churchill, who sat next to him on the bench, hunched up with his chin on his chest in his usual attitude. hlaeodidnwETAOIN attitude. It had been widely published that Churchill differed greatly with the Premier on the policy of partial recognition of the soviet. The Premier in drawing a parallel with the French revolution, cited how Pitt had failed to make peace with the revolutionists, and, after a slight pause, added with a smile:

"I believe he met with opposition from one of the most influential in his Cabinet."

CHURCHILL JOINS IN

Churchill joined with the House in the roar of laughter at his expense, which was renewed when Lloyd George remarked:

"Fortunately I have no such opposition," and turned to Churchill as he spoke.

The Premier sat down amid another burst of applause and the debate was begun.

END INSERT

This result is regarded as exceedingly satisfactory for the Prime Minister, as the combined Laborites and independent Liberals number about 100 and the "die hards" about fifty, all of whom might have been expected to oppose the Premier's resolution.

NOTEWORTHY SPEECH

The Prime Minister's speech inviting Parliament to vote confidence in the government's Genoa policy was noteworthy inasmuch as it touched only lightly upon the political crisis at home and because it indorsed the French policy toward Russia, although Lloyd George himself displayed much sympathy for an entirely conciliatory attitude toward Russia, and further, in that it sought accommodation with the soviet government, lest by waiting it might eventually be necessary to deal with a still more irreconcilable or militarist regime, which might embroil the whole of Europe.

While emphasizing that nothing could be gained by waiting for the overthrow of the soviet administration, the Prime Minister accepted the French standpoint, demanding guarantees with respect to Russia's debts and obligations and stipulating a period of probation of six months or a year, but less if Russia gave the necessary guarantees before full recognition was accorded.

NO FAITH IN LENIN.

The Premier indicated his belief in the insincerity of the conversion of Nikolai Lenin and the soviet to a diluted form of Communism.

Perhaps the most interesting of Lloyd George's proposals was that exchanges should be stabilized at some maintainable figure, but no details were given as to how he proposed to effect this, except that it might be attained by some form of international co-operation and pressure.

The debate which followed the Premier's speech was rather tame. It was early realized that there would be no breakaway of the Unionists which would endanger the confidence resolution, hence interest dwindled until division was taken.

The rather unusual course of demanding division on the main resolution was followed after the Clynes amendment was defeated, when finally ninety-four members recorded their opposition to the resolution of confidence.

The Prime Minister and his supporters managed to keep the whole question on the Genoa decision, but a motion will be moved on Wednesday by Sir William Joynson Hicks, Unionist, to the effect that a coalition government can only be remedied by the establishment of a Ministry composed of men united by identity of political principles."

LOUIS SCHWABE MAY GET FEDERAL PLACE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Senator Shortridge has recommended the immediate appointment of Louis Schwabe of Los Angeles to be Collector of Customs for the port of Los Angeles, and it is expected that the nomination will be formally sent to the Senate in a few days. It is understood there will be no objection to this appointment, though for a time some of the union labor friends of Joe Nolan have been urging his appointment.

Schwabe is indorsed by the Republican patronage and other Republican organizations of Los Angeles. His nomination fills the last of the more important Federal offices in Southern California.

"LITTLE NAVY" MEN HEDGING

Revolt Against Program is Growing Large

McArthur Visits President Over Matter

Many Don't Care to Embarrass Administration

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The revolt in the House against the Appropriations Committee's "little navy" program grew formidable today with President Harding's backing.

The Navy bill will not be ready for consideration by the House until next Saturday. Though, too early to forecast final results, it would be no surprise of the Appropriations Committee got a decisive drubbing. The discontent originating when the committee forced through its drastic cut in the size of the Army has been increasing rapidly, and the supporters of the Navy are confident they will be able to wage a far more effective fight than was waged in behalf of the Army.

PAYS PRESIDENT VISIT.

Representative McArthur, Oregon, one of the leaders of the fight to maintain a first-class Navy, called on President Harding at the White House today and assured him that sentiment in the House was turning against the Appropriations Committee's program. He told the President he felt sure that the House would ultimately give its consent to a bill providing for 86,000 enlisted personnel for the Navy.

The Appropriations Committee wants to cut the enlisted personnel to 67,000 men. Up to a few days ago it wanted to allow 65,000 men, but upon further consideration agreed to add 2000 to the number. Mr. McArthur declared today this action indicated a growing realization by the committee of the weakness of its position.

Representative Mondell, Wyoming, Republican leader and "little Navy" man, also conferred with the President about the size of the Army. He declined to discuss the conference other than to repeat that he would support the Appropriations Committee's bill.

SEVERAL WOBBLY.

Many members who have been counted upon to support the small Navy plan are beginning to show concern over the prospect of cutting below the 5-5-3 ratio, fixed by the Washington conference. They want to cut the Navy to the lowest possible minimum, but at the same time they don't want to embarrass the President in his foreign policy, which they realize is based upon the 5-5-3 ratio. Some of them are saying that they must be shown that the Appropriations Committee's bill will not lower America's standing in the 5-5-3 arrangement.

Representative Kelley, Michigan, chairman of the subcommittee in charge of the naval bill, says he can show them. He promises to furnish the House with complete data, showing that 67,000 enlisted personnel will adequately man all the vessels the United States is permitted to retain under the terms of the naval treaty.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING IS GROWING

National Campaigns Are Being Pushed in This Way More Than Ever Before

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, April 3.—National advertising campaigns in newspapers are sweeping the country, F. Guy Davis, western manager of the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, declared in a speech here today.

"Business houses that never before used any extensive newspaper space are doubling and tripling their newspaper appropriations for this year," he said. "This has grown not from propaganda but from the necessities of the present-day situation.

"There was one firm in 1920 that started to use newspaper space for national advertising for the first time. Last year this firm, using space in forty American newspapers, was enabled to declare a 7 per cent dividend, and this year it is planning to advertise in 200 American cities.

"A magazine increased its circulation from 450,000 to 1,500,000 through its national newspaper advertising."

NEW MINIMUM WAGE IS BEING CONSIDERED

COMMISSION, HOWEVER, SEEKS MORE LIGHT ON LIVING COSTS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—A proposed new minimum wage for California women workers was considered at an all-day meeting today of the Industrial Welfare Commission, but final determination was continued until Tuesday, the 11th inst., in order that additional light might be shed upon a budget prepared last week, supposedly based upon present living costs. The commission authorized Mrs. Katherine Phillips Edson, its executive officer, to check carefully the items in this budget, which was submitted to the minimum wage board, including representatives of employers and employees here last week. The board, being unable to agree upon a minimum wage, passed resolutions containing a recommendation that the commission fix the minimum at a figure based upon a fair budget.

The present minimum wage is $16 per week. The budget which will be minutely gone over by Mrs. Edson, should it be adopted would mean the cutting down of the wage to $15 per week.

and that thus two bonds of the same face value and both bearing the same number got through the plant and on the market without the error being detected. From as far away as the Pacific Coast in the past months have come reports of duplicate bonds. The charge is not made that the government did not receive pay for both, but in the redemption of the short-term bonds some of these duplicates have turned up and this led to a fine-tooth comb being run through the Bureau of Engraving.

IS CLOSED SHOP

Investigation revealed that a little group of men who had been in the service for years apparently were in complete control of the plant and that they were powerful enough to blunt the force of inquiry and neutralize any attempt at discipline or reorganization of methods within the plant to safeguard against repetitions of the trouble. It is charged that the plate printers' union and its affiliated organizations were well intrenched in power and contributed to the condition which made it difficult to get at the real facts. In effect the bureau has been a closed shop.

Efforts made in both houses today to impute political methods to the changes and the action of the President, flattened out greatly and the resolutions asking for facts were rather tame and the fire was all out of what was expected to be a political demonstration of eloquence and fire. As soon as the present inquiry is completed, it is expected that a formal statement will be made either at the White House or at the Treasury Department, which will give the public all the facts leading up to the change.

Some time ago Representative Lineberger introduced a resolution to investigate the alleged domination of the government printing office by members of the labor unions there, but the matter was not urged owing to the press of other business. The latest development in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, which is a distinct establishment may precipitate a further stir in the activity of the unions in both the printing office and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

OTHER SHAKE-UPS

On the heels of the shake-up at the bureau came circumstantial statements that a complete reorganization of the Bureau of Internal Revenue is to be made at once and some of the principal chiefs who have held over from the previous administration will be replaced with men of experience and ability who have the utmost confidence of the present executive officials.

This reorganization has been under way for some time, but no announcement has been made of the new personnel. The upheaval, in the engraving plant is expected to result in an announcement of the new slate. Deputy Commissioner of Internal Revenue Batson in charge of the income tax division of the Internal Revenue office, perhaps the most important post in this service, is to be replaced and numerous other changes in the important administrative places will follow.

Representatives and Senators have been complaining bitterly for months that the responsible men in this bureau were men appointed by a Democratic administration, and that in spite of the most conscientious conduct of the office unconscious favoritism was a matter of common knowledge. Many of the places in the field service of this unit were held by avowed Democrats with the point of view of an entirely different school of economics, and the Republicans have insisted on a thorough housecleaning, which, according to all appearances, is near at hand.

NO CHARGES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 3.— Reorganization of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing through the executive order issued Friday by President Harding, removing James L. Wilmeth, its director, and twenty-eight other officials, was explained today on the grounds of efficiency, by Secretary Mellon. No charges involving the honesty of any of the dismissed bureau officials have been filed, he stated.

Mr. Mellon's explanation of the sweeping changes made in the administrative personnel of the bureau was the first official light thrown upon the President's action, since the announcement of the order at the White House.

Meanwhile, speculation has been rife in official circles over the sudden removal of the officials and resolutions were introduced in both the Senate and House today seeking to elicit further information from the President.

Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, introduced a resolution calling upon President Harding to inform the Senate if not incompatible with the public interest, as to the causes for the action taken in the bureau, and under what authority of law the changes were made. Representative Moore, Democrat, Virginia, introduced a resolution for the appointment of a special House committee to investigate the changes.

Efforts to obtain a Presidential explanation for their dismissal were made by Mr. Wilmeth, and a delegation of former bureau officials who called at the White House, but without appointment, and therefore, failed to see the President, who was golfing. They left a memorandum stating the object of their visit, and indicated they would return any time Mr. Harding would see them, declaring they wanted to know why they were discharged, and to have the opportunity of meeting any charges which might have been made, and knowing who preferred them. They asserted they were at a complete loss to know why they were discharged.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Wadsworth, Mr. Mellon said, made a number of investigations of the bureau, as did other Treasury officials, while Director of the Budget Dawes brought A. R. Barnes on from Chicago to look into the efficiency of the output of the plant.

Mr. Barnes, he declared, was the proprietor of an engraving establishment somewhat approaching the magnitude of the government plant, and was considered an expert on the subject.

HEAVY WASTES

These various investigations made from time to time, Mr. Mellon continued, disclosed conditions in the bureau warranting the changes. Waste was found, he said, losses to the government running into large sums because of sheets of paper being spoiled in the new presses, lack of modern methods for keeping plates and other unsatisfactory conditions.

Reports of these investigations were made, he added, and it was thought that Lewis A. Hill, the new director, was the appropriate men to be put in charge of the bureau.

Assignment of Justice Department agents to the bureau by Atty.-Gen. Daugherty, Mr. Mellon declared, was merely a matter of precaution in going over the stock in the plant, as there were no specific charges of irregularity or defalcation against any of the dismissed employees.

Nothing was now pending in the bureau, Mr. Mellon stated, involving the honesty of any group of former employees, and there was nothing pointing to any individual. He said that while the politics of the former officials were known in a general way, in reality most of the employees of the bureau could be said to have no politics, as they had no vote.

Amplifying their formal statement to newspaper men at the White House, members of the delegation of dismissed bureau officials declared they had no idea of the charges upon which they were dismissed, stating that they knew of "no clique" in the bureau except discharged employees who have been fomenting discontent and are now back in places of authority.

JACK JOHNSON AGAIN IS FACING TROUBLE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, April 3.—John Arthur (Jack) Johnson, former heavyweight champion of the world, is in trouble again. Supreme Court Justice Cohalan will determine tomorrow whether the pugilist should be adjudged guilty of contempt of court for failing to appear March 20 in response to an order issued in a civil action.

Attorneys for Barbey Gerard and the estate of Henry C. Minor, Inc., obtained the order, claiming Johnson had paid only $1000 on a judgment of $3679. Johnson has been appearing in vaudeville in recent months.

WOULD CHANGE CHAOTIC LAWS

Joint Resolution Goes to Senate and House

Seeks to Define Limits of Combinations

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Investigation of the chaotic legal situation affecting trade combinations is provided for in a joint resolution introduced in the Senate today by Senator Edge of New Jersey and in the House by Representative McArthur of Oregon.

The resolution provides for the appointment of a committee composed of three Senators and three Representatives to make a study of the subject and recommend legislation "to define the rights and limitations of co-operative organizations as distinguished from illicit combinations in restraint of trade." The committee would make its final report to Congress not later than Dec. 4, 1922.

WOULD DEFINE RIGHTS

Senator Edge also introduced a bill defining the rights of trade associations which he offers as a suggestion for the consideration of the investigating committee.

The object Senator Edge has in view is to clear up the confused condition caused by decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States in the hardwood and other cases.

In explaining his resolution, Senator Edge said that the present situation is intolerable and must be remedied.

INDUSTRY CONFUSED

"The decisions recently handed down by the Supreme Court in the hardwood and other cases, divided as they have been, have naturally had the tendency to confuse industry and trade associations and co-operative business organizations naturally hesitate to proceed in any direction," he said. This greatly retards industrial development and it is a situation demanding relief.

"The policy of the present Congress in this direction has been demonstrated through the legislation already enacted authorizing co-operative marketing by agricultural associations.

"This legislation received virtually the unanimous support of Congress and if a method can be devised which will give industry a similar opportunity and still prevent monopoly and restraint of trade as already prohibited under existing statutes, Congress will certainly be contributing toward the solution of existing economical ills."

PAPA RECEIVED DESIRED THRILL

Never Experienced Arrest; His Little Daughter Obliged Him

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, April 3.—Walter Gurach bragged before his family Saturday that he never had been arrested. Today he stood before a Chicago judge, charged with disorderly conduct.

Officers said they arrested him after his 11-year-old daughter told them, "Father is beating mother."

"It's all a joke," the little girl told the judge. "I didn't want papa to miss any thrills, so I called the police."

Gurach was discharged.

Forced to Kill Two Dogs; Risk Lives in Vain

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

STONE MOUNTAIN (Ga.) April 3.—After their owners had several times risked death, dangling in mid-air at the end of a 400-foot rope in an effort to rescue them, two foxhounds which had become imprisoned in a crevice far down the side of Stone Mountain, were shot yesterday to save them from starvation. Thousands of people, gathere to witness another attempt at rescue, saw the sacrifice instead. The dogs went over the edge of the gigantic rock Thursday, while chasing a fox, and slipped, with but slight injury, into a crevice several hundred feet down the side.

W. O. and Ronald Venable, owners of the dogs, procured ropes and Friday let themselves off into space in an effort to reach the crevice. The effort was repeated Saturday despite a high wind, which swung the figures at the end of the long rope to and fro against the face of the rock, rising sheer from the surrounding country. The attempts were abandoned finally, and the assistance of an expert marksman from Fort McPherson was secured to bring a quick end to the suffering dogs.

Opening Races at Longchamps Society Fiasco

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, April 3.—About 5000 caught cold, 200,000 francs' worth of spring hats were ruined, and several tons of mud were gathered up by dainty cutaway slippers at the opening of the Longchamps races yesterday during a steady downpour.

Despite the rain a tremendous society crowd jammed the paddock, but the mannequins of the Paris fashion houses swathed themselves in sables smelling of moth balls, as winter things had been put away and were taken out with the change to chilly weather.

News photographers had to implore the models to slip off their coats and capes and be snapped in their filmy, summery, sleeveless, low-cut gowns. The mannequins then hopped back into their furs immediately.

Shod in slippers composed of a sole and a couple of straps, the women paddled in the mud looking at the horses and lining up at the betting booths. Then they took refuge at the bars under the grand stands, drinking hot grog a la Americaine.

The American colored jockey, Jimmy Winkfield, won two races, one paying 50 to 1.

BUSINESS FAILURES SHOW AN INCREASE

TOTAL CAPITAL INVOLVED IN MARCH LESS THAN YEAR AGO

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, April 3.—Business failures in the United States in March increased in number over those of March, 1921, but decreased in the total amount of capital involved, said a report issued today by Bradstreet's.

There were 2207 failures, for a total of $57,513,590 last month, as against 1500 for a total of $68,698,350, in March, 1921.

For the first quarter year, there were 7111 failures for $230,219,107, as against 4933 failures for $222,768,120 in the same period of 1921.

RAYMOND BENJAMIN GETS FEDERAL POST

CALIFORNIA REPUBLICAN WILL HAVE CHARGE OF INDIAN CASES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3. — Raymond Benjamin, western regional director for the Republican party in the 1920 campaign, announced today his appointment by Atty.-Gen. Daugherty as special assistant to the Attorney-General in charge of Indian cases.

His principal work, he said, will be the investigation of conspiracies antagonistic to the government in connection with Indian reservations. The appointment was made on recommendation of Secretary Fall of the Department of the Interior.

Para beneficio de los muchos amigos de habla castellana que tiene el Times, asi como también para ayudar á los estudiantes de este idioma en Los Angeles, el Times tiene el gusto de ofrecerles una serie de noticias importantes de última hora, en español. El conocimiento de este idioma, expuesto en una forma sencilla, usando frases de uso diario, es de gran valor, especialmente para los residentes del suroeste del Estado. En esta ciudad actualmente hay más de 15,000 personas que se dedican al estudio de la lengua española.

NOTAS TELEGRAFICAS

Noticias de Washington

WASHINGTON, abril 3.—El cese sensacional dado por el Ejecutivo a los empleados y jefes de la oficina de impresión y grabado sigue intrigando y causando disgusto a los miembros del Congreso. La orden se ha calificado de golpe asestado a los empleados civiles y de "procedimiento tras de bastidores," pues oficialmente se ha desmentido que exista falta de honradez por parte de los empleados despedidos, quienes hoy apelaron al Presidente Harding para que éste se sirva decirles los motivos por que han sido sumariamente separados del servicio.

El Presidente Harding quiere un mínimo de 140,000 para el ejército. Las audiencias comenzarán el miércoles ante la Comisión de Asuntos Militares del Senado.

El Senador Frelinghuysen de New Jersey manifestó hoy su inconformidad con el proyecto de ley de gratificación del soldado, tal como fué aprobado por la Cámara.

John Lewis, Presidente de la Unión de Operarios Mineros, echó a los empresarios la culpa del paro de trabajos en las minas de carbón ante la Comisión del Trabajo de la Cámara de Diputados.

Ha sido de gran sensación en el centro de la ciudad una intentona de robo en un banco, así como un atraco en una lujosa casa de departamentos. Ambos acontecimientos tuvieron lugar a medio día. El ladrón de bancos fué capturado; el otro bandido escapó.

Serán Juzgados Como Bandidos

NOGALES (Ariz.) Abril 3.—Manuel Martínez y Plácido Silva, a quienes se acusa de pertenecer a la cuadrilla que cruzó la frontera el 26 de agosto último, asesinando al Administrador de Correos, y a la Sra. J. F. Pearson, en Ruby, han sido traídos a ésta desde Tucson, y serán juzgados por nuestra Suprema Corte. También se les acusa por las autoridades federales de robo en una oficina de correos.

Finanzas Mexicanas

NUEVA YORK, abril 3.—El gobierno mexicano anunció hoy, por conducto de su agencia financiera local, que se han completado los arreglos para una junta entre Adolfo de la Huerta, Ministro de Hacienda de México, y los representantes del comité internacional de banqueros acreedores de México. Se discutirán en ella las cuestiones relativas a la deuda exterior del gobierno de México.

NOTAS LOCALES

Se Aumenta la Eficacia de los Albañales.

Ayer hizo el Alcalde Cryer una declaración en la que recomienda el uso de bombas impelentes para aumentar la capacidad de los albañales de drenaje de la ciudad, haciendo así frente al problema de atarjeas que tiene que resolver Los Angeles. Duda que sean votados los $12,800,000 de bonos para atarjeas, en las primarias de agosto. Dicen los ingenieros que las bombas impelentes podrían aumentar la capacidad del actual colector, de 90 a 120 o 130 pies por segundo, al paso que las demandas actuales, en carga máxima, exigen 110 pies por segundo para el colector, según manifesta el Alcalde.

Queda Cesante Todo el Jurado.

Todo el jurado que se había insaculado para ver la causa de Arthur C. Burch, presunto asesino de J. Belton Kennedy, sacrificado en agosto último, fué disuelto ayer por el Juez Superior Reve, al saberse de modo positivo que el llamado "investigador" del Ministerio Público, había estado en la casa de la jurado, Srita. Zoe Rutherford, y había hablado allí de la culpabilidad de Burch. El Agente del Ministerio Público Woolwine dijo francamente al tribunal que había sabido que un detective particular, alquilado por su oficina, había ido a casa de la jurado, y hablado con la madre de ésta. Agregó, sin embargo, que había dado terminantes instrucciones de que no se visitara la casa de ninguno de los jurados, y propuso una investigación de todo este asunto. Se aplazó el jurado de Burch para el lunes, a fin de permitir esta encuesta.

Niega el Robo del Banco

Ayer negó Victor H. Rosetti, vice-presidente y cajero del Farmers' and Merchants' National Bank, que hubiesen sido robados $90,000 de las bóvedas del banco, y que se estuviesen buscando con empeño esos fondos. Después de esta declaración oficial del Sr. Rosetti, se supo que la Agencia de Detectives Firman ha estado trabajando algún tiempo en este caso, y que otra agencia de detectives participó en la investigación. Se dijo que el Yokohama Specie Bank era la institución que había sufrido la pérdida por saqueo practicado en la caja de depósitos. El Inspector de Bancos del Estado hará probablemente una investigación de este misterio.

DEPORTES

Baseball

La temporada de baseball de 1922 se abrirá hoy en la costa del Pacífico. Los Angeles y Portland iniciarán la temporada en el parque Washington, al paso que Vernon hará su primer saludo en Salt Lake City.

Polo

Ayer se recibió en el Norte una orden telegráfica de la Asociación Americana de Polo, a efecto de que sea jugado de nuevo el partido final que se disputó la copa "All American," que fué otorgada a San Mateo, que luchó con Del Monte en un reciente torneo en Coronado.

Carreras.

La temporada de carreras del hipódromo de Tijuana de 1921-1922, terminará el 23 de abril, según informe recibido ayer de la población fronteriza.

Boxeo

Hay un doble acontecimiento en el programa que se desarrollará esta noche en la lisa de Vernon. Georgie Marks y Young Farrell combatirán en el final, en tanto que Young Brown y Henry Gastins se encontrarán en el semifinal.

Tennis

Gerald Patterson, antiguo campeon mundial jugador de tennis, no podrá acompañar al equipo australiano de la copa Davis, en su viaje a America, según mensaje recibido de Melbourne. Son razones de negocios las que se lo impiden.

"BUCKETING" CHARGE DENIED BY BROKERS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, April 3.—Six officials of the American Cotton Exchange pleaded not guilty before Judge Rosalski in the court of general sessions to indictments charging them with "bucketing." They were given until the 17th inst. in which to file motions or change their pleas.

The exchange, also indicted, pleaded similarly through Alfred Massey, counsel for the corporation, who filed a written plea. He rejected the proposal for time to submit motions, and intimated the exchange would bear the brunt of the legal fight on an out-and-out denial of the charges.

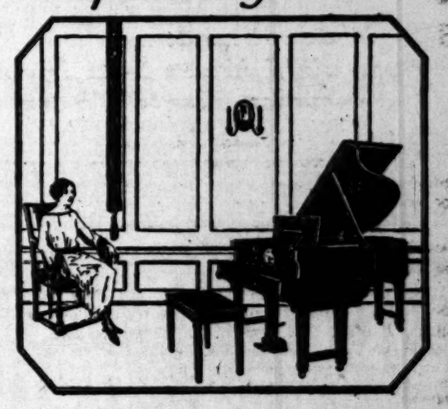
The DUO-ART Reproducing Piano



The Duo-Art has the power to bring the playing of the great piano-masters into your own home. Bauer, Ganz, Grainger, Hofmann, Paderewski — all the leading pianists have made record rolls for this marvelous instrument which, when playing these rolls, faithfully reproduces every characteristic of their art.

The highest endorsement that a reproducing musical instrument could possibly receive is the decision of great artists to record for that instrument only. The Duo-Art will be found here only. Obtainable in Steinway, Weber, Steck, Aeolian, Wheelock and Stroud models, priced from $800. Sold on liberal terms.

YOSEMITE INFORMATION

1 Convenience—Your nearest Yosemite National Park Company office, at 511 So. Spring Street, Los Angeles, is open daily except Sunday all the year 'round, and is always at your service in supplying information and helping you plan your Yosemite trips.

2 Information—The 32-page illustrated folder, "Yosemite, All Year 'Round National Park," is an interesting and entertaining account of what you will find in Yosemite, with complete information concerning Yosemite Transportation Service to the principal points of interest, and the comforts and equipment of Yosemite Lodge. Ask for it at your nearest office—or a postcard will bring it to you.

3 Complete Facilities — The Yosemite National Park Company operates ten hotels, lodges and camps; auto service over all roads, saddle-horse and pack-animal service; general store, and other establishments and facilities likely to be of use to you.

4 Yosemite Lodge, with its red wood cabins under the pines, opens April 15. The rates are $5.50 to $7.50, American Plan; $1.50, European plan, with cafeteria service. Rates at the Big Trees, Hetch Hetchy, and Tuolumne Meadows lodges are $2.00, European plan, with cafeteria service. Opening dates of these lodges are as early as the season permits. Sentinel Hotel is now open.

5 Reservations—Yosemite Lodge accommodations should be reserved in advance, through our representatives, who can advise you of the best times to visit Yosemite.

6 Excursion Fares—Railroad tickets to Yosemite are on sale daily. New and lower Excursion Fares will be in effect this Summer. Ask about the "Y T S" tour to Both Sides of the Park, including Hetch Hetchy Valley and the Mariposa Big Trees; also the Tioga Pass Route auto tour between Yosemite Valley and Lake Tahoe, both included in railroad excursion tickets.

7 Springtime—Yosemite, in Springtime, offers you mountainsides of wild flowers and new verdure, the melody of many waters, and Spring itself in the air. Have you seen and felt Spring in Yosemite? You will always remember it.

8 Visit Greater Yosemite—To see the snow-peaks, plateaus, wildflower meadows and the full expanse of Yosemite's 1000 square miles, time your visit for August. Then you can enjoy Tuolumne Meadows Lodge (new this year), in Tuolumne Meadows, the scenic center of the High Sierras, and a famous camping place for mountaineers. Saddle horses at $2.50 a day, and other advantages at like reasonable rates, are waiting for you in August, when the mountain passes are open.

9 Three Yosemite Features—Bear in mind these three things when you think "Yosemite": The "Y T S" tour, reaching Both Sides of the Park; the Tioga Pass Route Tour over the crest of the Sierras between Yosemite and Lake Tahoe, daily between July 15 and September 15; the High Park in August—the season of its greatest beauty and accessibility.

LIGHT CLUBS ARE CROUCHED FOR OPENING OF 1922 BASEBALL SEASON

ANGELS PRIMED FOR PORTLAND

Both Teams in Smooth Working Order for Festival

Killefer's Outfit Appears to Be Nifty Aggregation

Teams Boast the Strongest Ever Turned Out

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS

Red Killefer and Bill Kenworthy, Jim Duke, have finished tuning their baseball machines.

Therefore Los Angeles and Portland will open the Pacific Coast league season here today with a game which both hope will be played in the key of G.

Each team has been playing in form like a well-tuned phonograph, driven by horse power, and the result may be a broken record for one. Also, each manager has his team practicing a stirring number March or Liberty Leap. One is bound to be changed into a dirge when coupled up with the umpire's tread.

ALL IN READINESS

Tuesday Morn. Killefer and Kenworthy chased their ball teams up and down the musical scale for a few days and everything is now ready for the fans to dough-re-mi through the gate. Great tempo is expected at the turnstiles. Compared with this harmonious occasion, the last open would sound like a lonely player on a fine-toothed comb in the asthmatic person after a bout with stimulants. Are the managers satisfied? Listen:

Jim Iron Duke—"Shut your eyes and you will think we are a squad of saxophones. Before the series is finished the turtle doves here will be singing 'Aloha.'"

This remark of Kenworthy's took the wind out of the wig out of Mr. Killefer, who also had intended to speak of saxophones. Then he recalled that his athletes were Angels and this limited him to harps and anthems. The combination, with a little of thunder provided by the batters, won't be bad.

MONEY GOOD ON PAPER

Anyway, William Wrigley, Jr., has provided this town with a baseball team of which nobody need be ashamed. On paper it's a pip, although Portland would rather spell it "pipe." Yeh, it's a pip, a regular pipeorgan. Not as yet wholly complete, it still looks good from the fan's box to circumference. As to what it is shy Charley Deal, the man scheduled to play third, and who has experienced reserve strength. Killefer himself intends temporarily to supply this reserve strength by playing left field in place of John L. Sullivan, who twisted his leg in imitation of a corkscrew. President Patrick shortly will add two experienced reserves. Then Killefer will endeavor to bridge the chasm with a weak but willing arm. Rah for Red.

FLYING PARSON ON THE CARPET

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, April 3.—William C. Prout, president of the Amateur Athletic Union, has instructed the registration committee here to investigate charges that the Rev. Harold C. Cutbill, the "flying parson" of the Boston A.A., demanded and accepted money for running at the meet of the Hartford (Ct.) Industrial Athletic League, February 28. Cutbill, who holds the world's record at 1000 yards, won a 1000-yard race at this meet. He denies the charges.

TWIN MAIN GO ON TAP AT VERNON

Marks Meets Farrell; Gastine Hooks Up With Brown Tonight

There will be a double main event on tap at the Vernon arena tonight. Georgie Marks and Young Farrell, bantamweights, will box the windup while the semi-wind-up will be between Henry Gastine and Young Brown, two of the best 128-pounders on the Coast.

The bout with Farrell will be the first start for Marks since his return from the East. They are two experienced and clever boxers and aside from a slight advantage in weight there is little to choose between them.

Brown and Gastine have met before. The latter is the best boxer and heaviest hitter of the pair, but Brown has won a majority of his bouts by his aggressiveness and ability to wear the other fellow down.

MONK FACES MIKE

The feature preliminary will be between Monk Fowler and Mike O'Leary. Fowler is showing improved form in each start and he is taking on O'Leary and giving away weight in order to prove that he is on his way to future main events.

Johnny True, a heavy-hitting welterweight, is matched with Gene Cline in what may possibly be the slugging match of the card. Young Sumner, who has been boxing well in recent bouts, will tackle tough Jimmy Marcus at 145 pounds and Ted Schneider, the fighting marine, is matched with Jack Rooney. The boys are heavyweights.

Joe Layman and Paddy McMullin will box the curtain-raiser. George Blake will referee.

RILEYS GIVEN SURPRISE

T-Bone Riley's bowling team was given the surprise of its life Friday, when it was neatly trimmed 3 to 0 by the Green Mill five on the Broadway alleys.

RIVAL OUTFITS END TRAINING

Angels Are Put Through a Stiff Workout

Retire to the Clubhouse in Splendid Form

Beavers Show Much Class on the Diamond

BY ED O'MALLEY

Red Killefer gave his champions of 1921 a quarter-mile breeze-out yesterday morning at Washington Park against the big doings this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The Angels champed on the bit fretfully and were fighting for their head at all times. The cherubic battalion are all in high fettle with the exception of John L. Sullivan, the left-fielder par excellence of the Coast League. John L. (mighty like his namesake) bowed a tendon about a week or so ago.

Red had him punch fired and turned out with the result that John L. is almost up to a gruelling race again and may face the barrier before the week is over. The Seraphs worked from 9:30 to 11:30 o'clock and were given a clean bill of fettle by Trainer Snyder. They frisked to the clubhouse with a championship gait, a gait that smacked of class in every movement.

FULL OF IT

At 1:30 o'clock Bill Kenworthy, new hetman of the Beavers, waddled onto the field in front of his underlings. The Ducks were full of pep and jazz, making the team of last year look like a straw in a gale of wind in comparison. Statistics show that the Ducklings have it on the Angels in bruising the apricot, but we are inclined to believe that in this case, figures have slipped a cog.

Bill centered a great deal of his 'hirelings' work, especially his outer gardeners, in whips to the plate. At this sort of pastiming, Master Cox, the pride and toast of Pasadena, outstripped his competitors. Coxey has a big league peg, some of his castings hitting true to the plate from center field. The new left fielder, Charley High, looks good. He finished next to Cox in hurling from center field to the rubber. Gressett in batting practice bounded two into the right-field bleachers. They were real homers, but were not to be compared with Ham Hyatt's duo of last week, both of which hit high up on the steps.

BILL NOT SURE

Kenworthy was not so sure that he would pitch Leverenz today. However, if the veteran portsider is not used, Middleton will face the champions. Killefer will use Crandall and the Redtop master mechanic will cavort in left field himself. Killefer speaks in high praise of Lindimore and looks for the third sacker to have a great year. Lindy, thus far this spring, has been mauling the pill outrageously, and may there be more power to his arm.

Secretary Weber declares that if the day be fine, a crowd of at least 10,000 will be on hand, and he would not be surprised to see the attendance run up into 12,000.

NEWCOMER

The Chicago Cubs have turned over Shortstop Vivieros to the Angels. The newcomer is a whale of a fielder, but is not any too strong with the willow. All reservations have been taken up and reserved seats are at a premium. Beginning tomorrow, anyone wishing to make reservations will please call up Pico 36. Tickets will always be on sale up to 1:30 o'clock.

SALAS AND GOTTO TO CLASH IN CLUB RING

Joe Salas and August Gotto, a clever pair of Simon pure 122-pound mitt pushers, will tangle in the main event of the Los Angeles Athletic Club boxing show on the 13th inst., according to Charley Keppen.

Following is the complete card as arranged by Matchmaker George Blake:

Al Pimental, unattached, 109 pounds, vs. Dominick Urgo, unattached.
Jean Nolan, unattached, 175 pounds, vs. Fred Ketcher, L.A.A.C.
Joe Pimental, unattached, 125 pounds, vs. Sailor Moore, U.S.S. Idaho.
William Tuckie, L.A.A.C., 135 pounds, vs. Al Ballestro, unattached.
Joe Schleicher, unattached, 135 pounds, vs. Sailor Peabody, U.S.S. Idaho.
Johnny Batty, L.A.A.C., 138 pounds, vs. Sailor Moser.
Adam Hammerly, unattached, 158 pounds, vs. Johnny Brannigan, L.A.A.C.
Max Spindler, L.A.A.C., 175 pounds, vs. Sailor Tillman, U.S.S. Idaho.
Main event: Joe Salas, 130 pounds, vs. August Gotto.

KRAMER AND DUNDEE TO BATTLE FRIDAY

Jimmy Dundee has recovered from a mild attack of the grip and will be ready for his battle with Sailor Kramer in the feature mill of the American Legion Hollywood boxing festival next Friday night, according to word received from Oakland last night.

Matchmaker Frank Crowley has assigned Al Grunan, and Eddie Gorman, a pair of 133-pounders to the semi-wind-up. The remainder of the card to date follows:

Sailor Ashmore vs. Christ George, 124 pounds; Soldier Graham vs. Sailor Vincent, 145 pounds; Jack Inman vs. Leo Matlock, 158 pounds.

A HUMAN HYDROPLANE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, April 3.—A human hydroplane, John Weismuller, of the Illinois Athletic Club, is being developed to represent the United States in the Olympic Games at Paris in 1924.

Still in his teens, Weismuller's ambition is to lower the world record for time for every event on the swimming card. Already he has created records for at least a score of distances in the six months he has been in national competition.

He will be 18 years old June 2. He was born in Vienna, Austria, but his family emigrated to Chicago when he was an infant. It was with a group of barefoot boys that he first paddled in the surf of Fullerton Beach. At the age of 8 he had taught himself to keep afloat and until a year and a half ago he was his own mentor. He stands six feet one inch, weighs 186 pounds, has unusually broad shoulders and large hands and feet, part of the equipment of all great swimmers of the past.

"I don't think my feet and hands have much to do with it," he said. "It's all in the stroke and the timing of the hands with the feet—six beats to a stroke."

Not a day passes that Weismuller does not swim. In training he does not diet, and on the day of a race he eats a big steak, well done. He is fond of preserved figs, and once broke four records after filling his stomach with "hot dogs."

Contrary to the general belief, he does not employ the Australian stroke, but what he calls the "American stroke." He breathes with every stroke.

SAILORS TO MINGLE IN HARBOR RINGFEST

The main event of the C.P.O. Club's fight card, at Point Firmin, Thursday night, will be furnished by Sailor Cooney and Sailor Steve Biss. The remainder of the program follows:

Los Angeles High's sluggers could only garner one run off of the slants of Wagner, Pasadena twirler, which was not enough, so they lost yesterday's ball game, played on the Crown City High's diamond, to the Bulldogs, by a 2-to-1 score. The game was a pitcher's battle between Reynolds, of the Pioneers, who struck out eight men and allowed four hits, and Wagner, the Bulldog chucker, who whiffed six Romns and allowed five hits off his delivery. By losing yesterday's contest, L. A. dropped from the league leadership into a triple tie with Poly and Jefferson for second place.

Pasadena opened the run-making festivities in the second frame by nicking the rubber for a run. Orr, the first man up, slapped the horsehide to Cole, at second for L. A., who tried to throw the ball on top of Mt. Lowe. By the time the prodigal pill was returned, Mr. Orr had his dogs parked on second base. Sam Dagley then drove the apple to deep center. Orr romping home. The Bulldogs scored another in the third frame when Syverton arrived safe at first on Cline's error. He advanced to second and third on two more errors committed by Pfhaler and Reypolds, where he stayed while Reynolds fanned Bapst and Heartt. Orr then crashed the agate for a darb of a single, Syverton crossing the platter.

BULLDOGS SCARED

The Pioneers threw a scare into the Pasadena supporters in the eighth when "Peanut" Barnett beat out an infield hit. Barnett remained on first while Rowley fouled out to the catcher. Seeing there was no chance of being sacrificed to second, "Peanut" took it upon himself to get there, stealing second. He went to third on Dennis's infield out. Thompson scored him with a hot bingle to right. This ended the run-making, and all was over.

Syverton, Pasadena second-sacker, was the fielding star of the game, pulling off several difficult catches.

Van Buckelaer umpired the game and handled it in major-league fashion. The score:

Low Scores in Medal Round at Pinehurst

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PINEHURST (N. C.) April 3.—Low scores were returned today for the first eighteen holes of the thirty-six hole qualifying round in the twenty-second annual north and south amateur golf championship. Seventeen players did 80 or better, and eighteen were bunched between 81 and 85. These golfers will continue tomorrow the struggle for the sixteen places in the championship match play division.

Harold Weber of Toledo, Henry Topping of Greenwich, and Arthur Yates of Rochester, led the players who were assigned to the number three course, with rounds of 74 each, while E. L. Scofield of Pinehurst, led the other half of the field on the championship course with a 74. The field will be reversed for tomorrow's round.

W. C. Townes, Jr. of Oakmont, F. C. Newton of Brookline, Al Walker, Jr. of Richmond county, all favorites for the title, did well enough today to win places in the championship division if they maintain the same pace in the final round. It is believed that nothing worse than a total of 162 will qualify.

H. Kahawakia of Tokio, amateur champion of Japan, took 44-44-90.

PATTERSON NOT TO COME HERE

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, April 3.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Melbourne says that several of Australia's best tennis players who were expected to compete in the Davis cup matches will be prevented from so doing. Business considerations, the dispatch adds, will make the attendance of Gerald L. Patterson, former world champion, impossible, while J. O. Anderson is not certain if he will be able to play.

LASSIES IN GYMFEST THURSDAY

(See Today's Picture Page)

The veritable spirit of the Olympic games will prevade the Los Angeles Athletic Club gymnasium Thursday, when more than 300 girls participate in the second annual interscholastic free-floor gymnastic contest to be given by the Los Angeles and Pasadena city high schools.

This program, which has aroused great interest among the students of physical education, will illustrate the work being done in the city high schools to promote good carriage and symmetry of physical development. It will consist of seven exhibits of free-floor gymnastic movements and marching; several numbers of dancing, and music by the Hollywood High School military band.

The Times cup, last year's beautiful trophy, was won by the Hollywood high school under the leadership of Miss Katherine Asher, and must be won three times by a school before becoming the property of that school. The Lokrantz cup, donated by Dr. Lokrantz, supervisor of corrective physical education in the city high schools and won in 1921 by Lincoln High School, will be awarded second prize; and the third prize will be donated by Barker Brothers. Last year the third prize was won by the Jefferson High School.

At a later date the boys of the city high schools will hold a similar contest.

The program follows:

Music	Hollywood High School
Grand March	Los Angeles City Schools
Address of Welcome	Arthur Gould
Free-floor Gymnastics	Pasadena High School
Free-floor Gymnastics	Los Angeles High School
Esthetic Dancing	Jefferson High School
Free-floor Gymnastics	Franklin High School
Free-floor Gymnastics	Hollywood High School
Free-floor Gymnastics	Manual Arts High School
	Manual Arts and Los Angeles High School
Free-floor Gymnastics	Lincoln High School
Free-floor Gymnastics	Jefferson High School
Presentation of Cups	Dr. Lokrantz

Committee—Misses Rogers, Doty, Smith, Asher, Gephart, Worthen, Kelso, Jenson, Ohman.
Judges—Miss Van Hagan, Miss Evans, Mr. Cozens, Dr. Hart, Miss Gross.

SCOUTS NAB TITLE

TURLOCK (Cal.) April 3.—The Turlock Boy Scouts today won what was scheduled as a State championship basketball game from the Columbia Park Boys' Club team of San Francisco. The score was 30 to 18.

AMATEUR GOLF TOURNEY NEXT

Southland Title Event to Start April 11

Classic Will Wind Up on Following Sunday

Pasadena and Flintridge to Stage Affair

With the Los Angeles Country Club invitation tourney out of the way golfers have a week of practice ahead of them in which to tune up for the annual Southern California amateur championship, which is to be played jointly over the Pasadena and Flintridge club courses. The tournament starts on Tuesday, April 11, and winds up on Sunday, April 16.

Announcement of the division of players for the qualifying round was sent out yesterday by Secretary Bagby of the S.G.A.G.A. Players with handicaps of twelve and under will play their first eighteen holes over the Flintridge links, while the lesser lights will gambol over the Pasadena course.

REVERSE ORDER

This order will be reversed on the folowing day, the low handicap players testing the Pasadena links and the dubs moving over to Flintridge.

It has not been determined where the final round will be played—Pasadena or Flintridge—and it is probable that the qualifying round scores will be used as a basis for determining this. If the sharks find it easier to play Flintridge it is probable that Pasadena will get the plum, or vice versa.

As a matter of fact neither course is half so easy to score over as many people suspect. Pasadena has often been rated as the easiest course in the south, but those who play in the amateur championship are due for a fine surprise when they try to break Old Man Par's back there.

MILTON TO RACE AT SAN CARLOS APRIL 16

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—Tommy Milton, holder of the American automobile race championship for 1921, will make only one more start in a speedway event on the Pacific Coast before the Indianapolis race, May 30. That will be on the San Francisco Speedway, at San Carlos, on Easter Sunday, April 16, it was announced at the speedway today.

MAJ. ROBERTSON IN CRITICAL CONDITION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DEL MONTE, April 3.—Maj. W. A. Robertson, injured in a polo match Sunday, regained consciousness today and recognized friends at his bedside in the Monterey Presidio Hospital. His physicians said his condition is improved, but still is critical.

Maj. Robertson is suffering concussion of the brain, but it is not now believed his skull is fractured, as was first announced.

Lincoln Favored to Grab First Honors in Trackfest Saturday

EXPECTED TO RETAIN TITLE

Middle Distances to Bring Lively Competition

Half Mile Will be Feature Event of Meet

Trial Heats to be Pulled Off Tomorrow

BY CHARLES WEST

Thrills by the dozen are anticipated by local track fans for next Saturday when the City League meet is expected to draw every prep rooter for miles around to Occidental's cinderpath stadium. There is considerable gossip in regard to whether Lincoln's representatives can repeat their performance of last season and cart off the biggest portion of points, and the general opinion is that Tommy Davies men should do that little thing with ease and dispatch.

Trial heats in the sprints, 440, and hurdles will be run off tomorrow afternoon at Patterson Field, those placing being eligible for the finals Saturday. A new scoring system will be introduced this season, the first five men to place winning points. First place takes 5 digits, second 3, third 2, fourth 1, and fifth ½. By this system a team having a few stars will not be able to win the meet as has heretofore been the case. Second, third and fourth places will figure importantly in determining the winners.

WILD RACES

Two races are sure to be worth traveling the corrugated highway to Patterson Field to witness, namely, the 440 and 880. Every school in the City League boasts of at least one good man in one or both of these events, and the winners will have to exhibit some rapid stepping.

In the quarter-mile event Field Thompson of L. A. High, Coverley of Hollywood, Stapler of Lincoln, Smith of Poly and Harris of Manual Arts are all figuring on places. Thompson has been credited with the best time that has been made in the City League this season, having defeated Smith of Poly in 51 4-5 seconds last week, but Coverley has bested all comers, and is capable of real speed when pressed. Stapler was a disappointment in the one-lap event, and unless he has been improving remarkably of late he can't be counted on for first honors.

The 880 will bring together Akroyd, Hollywood's demon half-miler; Thomas of Manual, who won the event in the city meet last season; Niersbach, Plate and Mitchell of Poly; Heilman of San Diego, and Crouch of Lincoln, all of whom have traveled the distance around 2:04 this year. Crouch, who nosed Akroyd out in 2:03.3 recently, is a favorite, although Poly's trio of 880 gallopers will probably make a strong bid for first place.

LEVIN TO TACKLE POOLE AT COVINA

Ted Levin of Los Angeles and Jack Poole of Covina are scheduled to mix it in the feature fight of the Covina American Legion boxing card next Friday night. Ted Warsaw fights Riveles at 133 pounds, Charlie Rowland meets Connie Hogan at 130 pounds, Kid Louie tangles with Sargent Chernals at 118 pounds, Sailor Warman takes on Johnny Bryant at 133 pounds, and Cickie Daniels fights Sailor Hickok at 130 pounds.

FANS AGOG OVER RACE ACCIDENT

No Two Persons Agree on How Clash Happened

Art Klein Gives Version of Beverly Mix-up

Many Visit "Miracle Curve" at Speedway

BY PAUL LOWRY

Of the thousands who saw the spectacular accident in which Art Klein, Pietro Bordino, Frank Elliott and their mechanicians miraculously escaped death in the final heat of the sprint races at the Beverly Hills Basin on Sunday, no two persons could be found yesterday who thoroughly agreed on just how it all happened.

With the exception of the New Year's Day football game, nothing has happened in recent months which has set the sport world so agog with excitement.

Klein, the driver most vitally concerned, yesterday gave his version of the affair.

When the accident occurred in the twenty-third lap Milton, Murphy, Harts and Klein were so closely bunched that a blanket would have covered the four. Neither was there any daylight between Klein's car and Bordino and Elliott.

KLEIN'S VERSION

Here is Klein's description of the near catastrophe:

"I blew a tread passing grand stand B, but this didn't bother me and I did not slow down for it. Reaching the turn which leads into the grand stand stretch, I started to pass Harry Harts, and Elliott tried to pass me.

"There was not room enough between my car and the rail on the turn for Elliott to get by, and he hit my car between the frame and the right rear tire. The next thing I became conscious of was being carried to the top rail and then spinning to the bottom of the track, with Elliott, being struck first by Elliott's car and then by Bordino's and ramming Elliott.

"How many times I whirled around I don't know.

"I didn't think I'd ever get out of it. It seemed like two hours passed in a space of seconds."

Aside from a bent front axle, a jammed-up front end and an unsteerable wheel, Klein said his car was O.K. He will take it north to drive in the Cotati race, which is the next affair on the program for the speed kings.

CURIOUS VISIT SPOT

Curious ones by the score yesterday visited the speedway to view the damage to Klein's car and walk around "Miracle Curve," where the blood-curdling accident occurred.

Had Klein not been misfortune's most favored son, there is no doubt he would have finished well up in front in both the first and final heats. He was right on the leaders in both sprints and his car showed plenty of speed to keep on even terms.

The beautiful driving of Tommy Milton came in for praise from all quarters yesterday. His was a popular victory in both heat and final.

TIJUANA CLOSES APRIL 23

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, April 3.—The racing season at Tijuana will come to a close on April 23 and, when the curtain is rung down at the border plant, an American record for continuous racing, 180 days, will have been established.

There has been no diminution in the daily average attendance and, despite the long period of racing, the sport is proving more popular than in previous seasons. Each week-end program records an increased attendance from Los Angeles and its contiguous territory. This was attested Sunday when more than 1000 race fans attended from the Angel City territory.

From the momentum and the added success the sport gained here this season President Coffroth and his officials look for a bigger meeting next fall and winter. During the summer months horsemen who have never raced in the West will be interested in the next Tijuana meeting and its success should be record-breaking.

Jockey Jack Huntamer, who was badly hurt Saturday when his mount fell and threw the rider, was slightly improved today. Physicians said he was not yet out of danger.

"Where was Heinie Spies standing when the umpire yelled 'Play Ball' in the first opening day which Los Angeles had?" interrogatively writes a fan, apparently endeavoring to test us out on ancient history or start a reminiscent strain.

While unable to point out Heinie's footprints, as they have long since been plowed under, we opine that he was standing in Chutes Park, by which name our ball park, I believe, was then known. Also, he probably was standing fifteen or twenty feet behind the plate.

But I'm not so sure about that. There was a time when the catcher stood back and took the ball on the bounce until there were two strikes or three balls, or until a man had reached first. Then he put on his defensive armour and got into the front-line trenches, meaning that he would move up right behind the batter.

Los Angeles opened up as a baseball burg in 1901. The rule requiring the catcher to "remain continuously under the bat," also was adopted that year, but whether it became effective until the following season I am unable to say. But it does seem that Heinie, our first and most famous catcher, did take them at long range that year, and began making his local reputation as a chaser of fouls.

No bird dog had much on Heinie in those days, and also he snared many a foul tip from his distant location, which then counted for more. That year the foul strike rule was adopted, but only in the National League, and was not taken up even by the American League until two years later.

Spies probably never had an equal as a foul chaser on the Coast. His nearest rival was Jess Orndorff. Even after so many years, "Let Heinie get it," is a reminiscent chant still heard occasionally at the local ball yard.

One of the greatest surprises of my life was in Belgium immediately after the armistice, when during the progress of a game I heard somebody yelp "Let Heinie get it." Had to rub my eyes to make sure that the world wasn't upside down. Spies had a son in the service, and in that particular division. I have forgotten his front name, but anyway his buddies called him Heinie. Some of them had probably heard their dads taunting a wavering catcher with the cry "let Heinie get it," and thus the famous local chant was carried to a distant part of the world without resort to radio.

They tell me that Spies is still active in Los Angeles as a building contractor. In some ways, he is the city's most noted baseball character hold over from the early days. If I had charge of those opening ceremonies, Heinie would be dragged away from his job long enough to be introduced at the plate. This would bring every old-timer in the stands and bleachers upright on his hind legs.

Another member of the original Los Angeles team still is here, and we believe there are many of the fans who would enjoy giving Charley Reilly the once over. Charley didn't drop out of sight with the completeness of Heinie, and yet hundreds of fans who patronized the game two decades ago haven't seen him in years. He would be quite unique standing at the plate.

Charley played third base. Even when he joined the Angels he was known as the daddy of that position. But from this do not form an exaggerated opinion of his years. Reilly simply modernized the playing of third base. While with the Phillies he was credited with originating the snappy, underhand, time-saving throw on bunts and other slow-hit balls.

Other members of that early and short-order team, a team assembled on less than three weeks' notice, were Oscar Jones, Roy Hale and Youngey Johnson, pitchers; Ed Hutchinson, first base; "Steam Beer" Brookoff, second base; King Kelly, shortstop; Frank Bowman, left field; Eddie Householder, center field; Swindells, right field and relief catcher.

Whether any of these, with the exception of Spies, Reilly and Jim Morley, owner and manager, are still in these parts, I am not certain. I believe, though, that Jones is running a refilling station out on Moneta avenue. He was up to a few months ago. Oscar was quite a hero in those days—days when the players dressed at the hotel and rode the bus to the park—when the local players were idolized and visiting ones were forced to duck bottles and brick bats.

Oscar, they do say, after a winning game, couldn't walk down Spring street without a parade of newsies forming at his heels.

Those times probably will never come again, but it would be a refreshing sight today to see the famous old battery of Spies and Jones at the home plate.

But imagine the catcher standing 'way back of the plate and taking 'em on the bounce. Some of you don't need to imagine it because you can remember it. Gee, but it must have been tough on the pitchers with nothing to throw at.

TRACKFEST SATURDAY AT CHAFFEY

Five High School Teams to Clash on Cinderpath in Citrus Belt League Meet

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

REDLANDS, April 3.—The high schools of the Citrus Belt League, Redlands, Riverside, San Bernardino, Pomona and Chaffey, will be locked in a deadly encounter on the field at Chaffey next Saturday, the annual league track meet. Redlands won this last year, but Coach William Yount is not predicting any such outcome this year for he has had the pleasant task of whipping together a team out of raw material this year, all the crack men of the team last year having graduated.

Yount has put his men through a number of dual meets this year, and is hopeful of finishing up toward the top. All the schools seem to have fairly well balanced teams and the competition is likely to be keen.

Riverside is conceded to have the best chance this year. Coach Ashel Cunningham, former coach of the university here, has cleaned up all competition in dual meets. Whether his team is enough well balanced to take the annual C.B.L. is another question. In Martin, he has a man capable of taking several points, especially in the field events.

Chaffey also has some clever men and while Pomona's strength is not well known it is safe to predict that the Cardinals will put out a team that will be in running. Garner of San Bernardino is conceded the mile but Mead of Redlands can make him hurry it is said.

Says He is One of Greatest Players in History

Tennis Champ Gives Figures on Davis Cup Play

Thinks Brookes is World's Premier Racketer

BY WILLIAM T. TILDEN II, World's Champion Tennis Player, 1920-21

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHILADELPHIA, April 3.—The great growth of interest in the international contest for the Davis cup, emblematic of the world's tennis championship team, has caused me to delve into the records of the past to place before my readers some outstanding features of this wonderful sporting institution.

The cup was first played for in 1900, when Malcolm Whitman, Holcomb Ward and the donor of the trophy, Dwight Davis, defeated A. W. Gore, E. D. Black and T. Roper Barrett of England. These names have been especially recalled this year in connection with a challenge issued by Gore, Black and Barrett to Whitman, Ward and Davis to meet in a veterans' match at Wimbledon, Eng., and it seems that the Americans will accept. Since the original match in 1900, fourteen nations of the globe have played for the cup. Only three of this number have won the coveted prize. Australia leads the list with a record of six wins. The United States and the British Isles tie, with five victories each. During the years of the World War there was no competition. Throughout the entire period of play the three leading nations rolled up unique records in individual matches and on the part of some individual players. The American teams over the entire period have played in twenty-three ties. A tie is a meeting with another nation. They have won seventy-two matches and lost forty-one. The Australians, over the somewhat shorter period in which they have been in the competition, have played in twenty ties, have won sixty-three and lost thirty-five matches. The British Isles, in the twenty-two times in which they have competed, have fifty-seven victories to their credit and forty-eight defeats.

There is one player who stands out head and shoulders above all others in his Davis cup record. That man is the greatest tennis genius that the world has ever known, Norman S. Brookes of Australia. This marvelous player first entered the arena of the Davis cup in 1905.

STILL AT IT

He is a member of the team that Australia is sending to America this year to compete for the trophy. Over the span of seventeen years Brookes has ruled supreme in the world of tennis generalship. Verily, "Men may come and men may go, but Brookes goes on forever." He has played in no less than forty-two individual matches, with the marvelous record in singles of winning eighteen and losing but seven, while he has been on the winning doubles team ten times. Defeat has been his portion but seven times. When it is remembered that Brookes is a man of 45, and that three of his defeats were in 1920, one can see what a marvelous player this veteran is, and has always been. He is fully deserving of his title, The Wizard.

Closely following in the list of individual stars comes another Australian, a man who died a hero in the World War—Anthony F. Wilding. In the six years that Wilding played on the team he won fifteen singles matches and lost but six. In partnership with the mighty Brookes he won six and lost three doubles.

ARE FAMOUS

America boasts of two great figures in the Davis cup Hall of Fame. These men are Beals C. Wright and M. E. McLoughlin. Wright, by virtue of his never-to-be-forgotten victory over Brookes in that epoch-making match in Australia, 1908, and McLoughlin, by his magnificent play in 1914, when he crushed both Brookes and Wilding at Forest Hills, wrote their names in the annals of tennis history in indelible lines. Wright won in all six singles and lost three, while he divided six matches in doubles. McLoughlin placed nine singles to his credit with but four losses and won three doubles while losing but two.

H. L. Doherty of England preserved a clean slate of victories with the phenomenal record of seven singles and five doubles wins without a defeat, but his short term of play hardly warrants placing him above Brookes or Wilding. J. C. Parke, with victories over Brookes, Wilding, Wright, Williams and McLoughlin to his credit, is one of the great players of all time. He has eight wins and seven losses in singles.

The men who have played in twenty or more matches are: Brookes, 42; Wilding, 30; Parke, 20. From ten to twenty, we find: McLoughlin, 18; Beals Wright, 15; Larned, 14; Ward, 14; H. L. Doherty, 12; Dixon, 12; Williams, 10, and Roper Barrett, 10.

POLOISTS TO REPLAY TITLE TILT

San Mateo and Del Monte Ordered to Play Disputed Game Over Again

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DEL MONTE, April 3.—A telegraphic order from the American Polo Association that the final game for the all-America cup, which was awarded to San Mateo over Del Monte in the recent tournament at Coronado be played over again, was received here today. A dispute arose over a goal scored by San Mateo after the referee blew his whistle in the sixth chukkur. The replay was set for Tuesday in the tournament here.

The California polo season will close here Sunday with a north vs. south match. The line-up probably will be:

South—Teddy Miller, Midwick Club; Elmer Boeseke, Santa Barbara; Arthur Perkins, Midwick; Charleton Burke, Midwick. North—Tom Driscoll, San Mateo; Eric Pedley, Del Monte; Hugh Drury, Del Monte; Will Tevis, San Mateo.

BARLOW AND CRUZ BOX AT ARCADIA

Bill Barlow and Phil Cruz will box the main event at the Arcadia Balloon School pavilion tomorrow night. Teddy Miller tangles with Packy Flynn in the semi-wind-up. Jack White meets Billy Burke, Soldier Lince and Freddy Gilbert will mix it, Jimmie Medaris battles Jack Brown, and Willie Lamb takes on Sambo Smith.

Southland Tracksters Park in Palo Alto

CONFERENCE HAS AN ALIBI

Why Southerners Were Beaten Explained

Bears Put in Too Many Star Athletes

Southland Lads Nervous and Hungry

BY BRAVEN DYER
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PALO ALTO, April 3.—The All-Southern California conference track team arrived here this evening from Berkeley, and will make this their headquarters for the next two days. The all-stars are scheduled to meet Dick Templeton's Stanford track and field aggregation Wednesday afternoon. There is plenty of interest in the meet, principally because the general sporting public knows what the California Bears did to the Southerners and would now like to get a line on the Cardinal outfit.

Coach Joseph Pipal had his charges working out on the California field this morning. The men appear to be in much better shape than they were for Saturday's test, and both Pipal and Assistant Coach Eugene Nixon, expect to make a more convincing score against the Palo Alto men.

One or two of the men are suffering from slight sprains. Cliff Argue is bothered considerably by an obstinate muscle in his right leg, which of course, affects his jumping. Phil Ellsworth is definitely out of Wednesday's meet. His bad leg making it useless for him to run. Willard Morgan remained in bed yesterday, laid up with a touch of flu. It is expected that he will be able to compete against the Cardinals, but what his point winning ability will be is problematical.

NOT SO GOOD

Why did the all-southern track team, an aggregation of bona fide stars, make such a weak showing against the California Bears Saturday afternoon? Track fans here have been asking this question today and no doubt the same problem is receiving the attention of cinderpath followers in the south. Although no two opinions seem to coincide in the matter, there are a couple of logical solutions to the question.

The visitors came north heralded as an all-star outfit. The results of the meet, however, indicate that only Paul Stroud, Roy Goodenough and Frank Payne deserve such classification. Thus reasons the cold-blooded statisticians of the bay region. Before being so harsh on the southerners, one or two facts should be taken into consideration. Undoubtedly southern writers expected too much of the boys. The Bears are able to put three stars in every event.

All of the men complained of lack of sleep Friday night. Regardless of whether they slept or not, the team was not in its best shape Saturday. Arriving here at 9 o'clock, most of the men failed to get proper food for lunch. The thing that bothered the runners most, however, was the short turns on the Bear track. Had it not been for this the relay and 440 would have gone to the visitors handily. It takes less than no time to pass a man on one of the sharp curves and the Bear runners know just how to do it.

STAGE FRIGHT

The southerners competing Saturday were of much more tender years than the Bears. This, coupled with the fact that they were up against some of the best-known athletes in the world, tended to make the southerners nervous. Big Here Morgan, while attempting to give the hammer a respectable ride, was as nervous as a captive missionary at a cannibal feast. Cliff Argue, fine high jumper that he is, couldn't lift his stalwart form over the bar at six feet even to save the world for democracy. Burnett Haralson, who regularly heaves the javelin 170 feet, did a measly 125 feet on his first attempt. Perhaps the presence of Brick Muller, Bob Berkey, Jack Merchant and Jack Witter had a peculiar psychological effect on the boys from the south.

Last year, Pomona alone made a better showing against the Bears. The age question comes in here again. Hartley Widdess, Ray Moremen, Jack Rich and Frank Payne were men, older than the great majority of the members of the team this year. They were not awed by the mere presence of so many notables.

TOO MANY STARS

However, it's no disgrace to get beaten by the Bears. Intercollegiate champions last year, they seem in a fair way to repeat again this season. Coach Walter Christies' great point-winning power lies in the fact that he has so many stars for each event. In the mile yesterday, Handley ran the four laps in 4m. 32s., but three Bears were there ahead of him. It was practically the same in every event.

SEALS AND RAINIERS READY FOR SERIES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—The baseball season of 1922 will be blasted open at Recreation Park tomorrow afternoon at 2:45 o'clock, with the strong Seattle club battling the Seals. Bob Geary, formerly of Seattle, will hurl for the Seals, and he will endeavor to baffle his old playmates. Harry Gardner, an ancient and honorable flinger, will do the heavy work for Seattle.

The Seals do not look like a team that is yet set, and McCredie says the Seattle team also needs some fixing. It will take three or four weeks for the teams to settle down to their stride or show their glaring weak spots.

are behind the bat. Neat four-cornered catching staff.

CLASSY SLABSTERS

Hughes, Crandall, Lyons, Hall, Ponder, righthanders, with Thomas, Dumovich and Soria, southpaws, appear to leave little to be desired on the slab, with York, a classy lefthander, soon to come.

Sandow Griggs, McCabe, Lindimore and McAuley comprise an infield above the average in most of its points.

Sullivan, Carroll, Twombly and Killefer himself give the club the most powerful outfield offensively which it has had in years.

The cast is supported by a flock of promising rookies, Beck and Winterton, infielders; Haas, Caffey and Griffin, outfielders, and Robertson, Douglas, Wallace, Bonnelly and Arnold Crandall, pitchers.

All of which is something calculated to please the eye and exalt the soul.

Meantime, President Klepper and Vice-President Morrow have assembled the best club which has represented Portland since the Oregonians won their last pennant back in 1914.

TWO STRONG SQUADS

Offensively, the two clubs are among the strongest in the minors. Not including the pitchers, each team with its full line-up in the field shows a club batting average of better than .300 on the basis of last season's figures, which were compiled in Class AA company or faster.

When it comes to the punch, Portland has a slight edge. With all regulars on the job the batting statistics are:

PORTLAND.	Games.	R.	H.	Av.
Thorpe, A. A.	133	79	181	.358
C. Hight, A.	140	77	167	.331

Lindimore, P. C. L.	132	41	128	.260
Daly, N. L.	51	19	34	.238
Team average				.301

With Sullivan out and Killefer in, the percentage edge in favor of Portland is slightly more pronounced, as Red hit only .272 last season. But he may cock a few today. Who knows?

ANGELS NAB MOST FLAGS

Los Angeles leads in number of pennants won and total yardage of cheese cloth copped.

Last season the pennant was not decided until the last day, and the order of the finish was:

	W.	L.	P.c.
Los Angeles	108	80	.574
Sacramento	100	80	.556
San Francisco	100	82	.554

Oakland	101	85	.543
Vernon	90	90	.516
Salt Lake	78	110	.415
Portland	51	134	.276

The boom of basehits will be heard in four sectors of the league front, weather permitting, as follows: Los Angeles and Portland here, Vernon in Salt Lake, Seattle in San Francisco, Oakland in Sacramento. Above are the ingredients for a good smoke with dreams if you have your pipe handy.

RAILSPLITTERS TO MEET POLY

Lincoln High to Take Big Test on Friday

Emancipators Loom Again as City Champs

Mechanic Baseballers Are Dangerous Rivals

Lincoln High, last year's City League baseball champion, is in line to again drag down that honor this year. Coach Malette's fighting Emancipators have won their two League games to date and if they can get to Poly's rejuvenated pill pounders next Friday they will be sitting pretty. Coach Mahone has finally got his squad of youngsters working together and has improved his outfield with the addition of Smith, who will tend the duties in left while Jamison has been shifted from left field to right.

The Mechanics have it on the Hilltoppers in pitching, having Soules and Newell, southpaws, and Stew Barlet, a righthander, available for mound duty, while Malette has only Pete Thompson, an A-1 twirler, as his only moundman. If an opposing team ever starts finding Thompson's offerings to their liking Lincoln's chances will be null and void. Ike Danning, who is hitting a .750 clip, and "Tiny" Soules are the Mechanics' heavy hitters, while Johnny Rosenga, Pete Thompson and Phipps do most of the dirty work for Lincoln.

DANGEROUS CONTENDERS.

Pasadena and L. A. are two other teams that will cause a lot of trouble for rival teams. The Pioneers' strength lies in their "never-say-die" spirit, their pitching staff and their speed on bases. Barnett, Roman centerfielder, being poison when he lands on the sacks. Pasadena has a good fielding club, fair hitting and pitching, and is a hard team to beat on its home lot.

Jefferson picked by the dopesters at the start of the season as "the team," although they have been beaten once, are still a very dangerous crew for any nine to go against. They have a sterling pitcher in Laraneta, who flings a wicked pill with his left wing, a gang of agate maulers that have a team batting average of over .300, and not the worst fielding team in the league. The Democrats should have easy pickings next Friday, meeting the lowly Manual squad on the Tollers' diamond.

CHANCES SLIM.

Manual's and Long Beach's chances of taking the gonfalon are A.W.O.L., as each club has been defeated, and as they are only playing six games, instead of seven like all the other nines, because of imaginary grievances against each other, one defeat cuts a lot of ice.

Hollywood is the weak sister of the circuit, having lost two games to date, and if things take a sudden turn, they will be in the cellar at the end of the season.

HIGH SALARIES GO UNDER BAN

House Refuses to Pay Four Men $35,000 Each

Shipping Board Tangle Not Yet Unraveled

Men Facing Great Problems, Says Defender

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The House put its foot down firmly today on a proposal to pay salaries of $35,000 to four Shipping Board officials, refusing by a unanimous vote to approve the conference report on the independent offices appropriation bill, which would have authorized payment during the coming fiscal year of salaries of between $11,000 and $25,000 to six employees, in addition to those mentioned.

The rejected limitation had been agreed to by House and Senate conferees as a compromise between a House provision that six officials could be paid between $11,000 and $25,000, but none more than $25,000, and a Senate amendment authorizing salaries in excess of $11,000 with no maximum stipulated for not more than thirteen officials.

After a round of criticism of the compromise limitation the report was recommitted to the House managers with instructions to insist on a provision that no salaries in excess of $25,000 be authorized.

Representative Walsh, Republican, Massachusetts, who was the chairman of the committee which investigated Shipping Board affairs after the close of the war, and Representative Mann, Republican, Illinois, proposed recommitment of the reports.

DEMOCRATS FAIL

Democrats failed by a two-to-one vote in an attempt to have the conferees instructed to hold out against any provision which failed to specify how many employees were to receive more than $11,000 a year.

An hour's discussion of the conference report was devoted mainly to attacks on the compromise as to salaries. Expressing the hope that Congress would tell the Shipping Board it would have to get along without "four $35,000 beauties," Mr. Walsh declared that, while the board had a serious tangle to unravel, he had no problems to cope with greater than those handled by the Cabinet.

"Yet you propose to pay salaries practically three times greater than that of Cabinet officials," he asserted, addressing Representative Wood, Republican, Indiana, in charge of the conference report.

Mr. Mann said that compromise would give for four men a higher combined salary than that of all the Cabinet members. In his opinion Congress is not justified in paying $35,000 to anyone in the government service short of the President.

Representative Harrison, Democrat, Virginia, told the House he had refused as a conferee to sign the conference report because of his objection to the agreement as to salaries.

GIGANTIC PROBLEM

Mr. Wood said that he was convinced that the men who would be paid the salaries objected to by the House would be confronted with a problem the like of which the nation had never seen.

"If you wish to see a merchant marine started on a respectable basis you must enable the Shipping Board to get its affairs in shape," said Mr. Wood. He severely criticised the administration of the board's affairs by officials in charge during the Wilson administration.

Action of the House in recommitting the conference report prevented a vote on the question of extending through the coming fiscal year the authority of the board to use funds up to $55,000,000 received from liquidation of its assets. Reporting that only approximately one-fifth of this amount had been realized, Chairman Lasker appealed to Congress for extension of the authority.

Provision for the extension was made in the bill by the House Appropriations Committee, but the section was knocked out by the House to be reinstated later by the Senate. Mr. Wood has announced he will suggest as a compromise that the board be authorized to use during the twelvemonth period beginning July 1 not exceeding $25,000,000 derived from liquidation of its assets.

TWINS OFFERED TO PRAGUE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, April 3.—Bodies of Rosa and Josefa Blazek, the Czecho-Slovakian twins who died here last week, have been offered to a medical university in Prague, their native city, and may be exhibited in a museum there. It is hoped this arrangement can be made in the interests of science.

The parentage of Franz, the 12-year-old boy, is now the subject of a hot dispute, upon the outcome of which depends the disposition of the $200,000 estate left by the twins. X-ray experts who have photographed the bodies say it would have been impossible for either of the sisters to have given birth to a child except by a Caesarean operation, and there is no trace of such an operation.

Otradovec and Lecount, who made a post-mortem examination Sunday, announced that Josefa was the true mother of the boy instead of Rosa. The manager of the twins insisted Rosa was the mother and that the records in Europe will prove this.

CONFIDENT ON MARINE MEASURE

House Members Believe That Administration Bill Will Pass

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Confidence that the House would act on the administration's merchant marine bill before the close of the present Congressional session was expressed today by Representative Mondell, Republican leader, and Chairman Greene of the Merchant Marine Committee, who has charge of the legislation in the House. While at the White House today Mr. Mondell was said to have given President Harding assurance that the House would dispose of the measure before final adjournment.

Hearings on the bill will begin tomorrow with the House committee and the Senate Commerce Committee sitting in joint session. Chairman Lasker of the Shipping Board is expected to be the first witness.

A month or more will be devoted to the hearing, members of the combined committees predict, before separate sessions will be held to consider the draft of the bill to determine what changes, if any, should be made.

While Mr. Greene said he was certain the House would be able to act on the measure at this session, press of business in the Senate, it was said, might prevent consideration of the bill by the body before the next session.

Two Airplanes Crash in Air; Pilots Killed

HOUSTON (Tex.) April 3. — Two airplanes from Ellington Field crashed near South Houston this morning and came down in flames. Both pilots were killed. Maj. John W. Simmonds of Charleston, S. C., pilot of one plane, was burned to death, and Lieut. G. H. Fitzpatrick of Sacramento, Cal., pilot of the other machine, died a few minutes after the accident.

At the time about fifteen planes were in the air engaged in maneuvers. It is not known definitely whether something broke on one of the machines, Capt. H. M. Elemdorf, adjutant of the field, said, but it is believed by those who were near that a sudden puff of wind drove the machines into a collision.

RIVERSIDE, April 3. — Lieut. G. H. Fitzpatrick, who was fatally injured today when an army airplane in which he was flying fell near Houston, Tex., was formerly stationed at March Field, near here. He was transferred to Ellington Field, Tex., about two months ago. His home was in San Diego, officers at March Field said.

SAN DIEGO, April 3.—Lieut. G. H. Fitzpatrick was the son of Henry S. Fitzpatrick, an employee of the San Diego and Arizona Railway, living in this city. Lieut. Fitzpatrick was a graduate of the San Diego High School. Three months ago he married Miss Margaret Lewis of this city.

LYNCHING OF NEGRO NARROWLY AVERTED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Lynching of Alfred Lawrence, aged 37, of Troop E, Third Cavalry, stationed at Fort Wyer, Va., accused of a statutory offense against a nine-year-old white girl, was narrowly averted here late yesterday, according to the police.

The child, lured by the offer of an Easter rabbit to the stable, where it is alleged she was attacked, is in a critical condition. Lawrence is held on a charge of rape, which, in the District of Columbia, carries the death penalty in the discretion of the jury.

TILLIE CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY IN STYLE

COLUMBUS (O.) OFFICIALS ATTEND PARTY; ELEPHANT GETS DEGREE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

COLUMBUS, April 3.—Tillie, a circus elephant, today celebrated her 106th birthday by being the guest of honor at a party held for her in the State House yard. The party was attended by State and city officials.

Tillie took part in the festivities, and ate her plate and cup and saucer and even the key to the city (made of bread) presented to her by Mayor Thomas. Prof. Alonzo Tuttle of the law department of Ohio State University, presented the pachyderm with an honorary law degree on behalf of the law alumni of Columbus. The diploma was made of molasses.

Tillie trumpeted once and showed her appreciation by devouring this token of esteem. A birthday cake two by four feet and containing 106 candles, featured Tillie's table.

Many of the city's most prominent business and professional men attended the luncheon in Tillie's honor.

This home of splendor, known as "The Blue Castle," situated as it is, offers an opportunity to the party seeking "something different," "something unusual." It is a home of exclusiveness, "a home of refinement," "a home of individuality." It would be impossible to describe in befitting words its magnificence. Situated as the picture illustrates, on the top of a mountain overlooking the entire city of Los Angeles, commanding a view far beyond the realization of imagination. This home is "entirely different" to any in the city, "original in every detail." Built but a short time, you can enjoy the pleasure of its newness. The grounds were terraced by an artisan landscaper; the plastering was done by Mr. Ed. Westburg of "Ambassador Hotel fame." The approach is beautified with artistic walls and fences, 1 ton of steel being used in its beautification. The entrance is reached from a spiral stairway which adds to the attractiveness. All walks and cement work are in. No expense was spared in the construction of the home and many thousands of dollars have been spent on the grounds. The home consists of eight rooms in all. No conceivable feature of the minutest detail that would add comfort to the home has been overlooked. The halls and ceiling of the reception hall and living-room are "Tiffany decorated" and designed in the style of the 17th century. There is a garage with a cement floor and driveway. Automobiles can drive up Laveta Terrace, giving access to the home without a step to climb.

WILL FIGHT CONFISCATION

Mexican Farmers Oppose Taking of Lands

Syndicate Organized to Oppose Action

Chief Menace to Obregon, is Belief

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EL PASO (Tex.) April 3.—"If you pinch an ox long enough he will fight."

This old Spanish saying is applied by Mexican farmers today to the position in which they find themselves under the government policy of taking choice private lands away from their owners and giving them to the Indians.

A syndicate of agriculturists has been formed to fight the government in these actions. It extends into every State in the republic and has control of a big fund. With the business element in the cities, which is laboring under heavy taxes and suffering from lack of trade, this forms the chief menace to the Obregon administration.

One million acres have been taken by the government commission and redistributed to the Indians, according to Don Guillermo Pous, head of the farmers' syndicate. This has been without compensation, for the syndicate has served notice on the government that its members will not accept the proposed agrarian bonds in payment for the lands. The Spanish Minister has given similar notice. The bonds are regarded as worthless, because the government has defaulted in interest in all other bonds now outstanding. The government has no credit among its people.

BEST LANDS SEIZED.

In Jalisco, Morelos and Hidalgo States, Senor Pous said, the best arable lands have been seized. The Indians have not been able to do much because they have no tools and no capital. The government is making an effort to supply these needs through agricultural schools and passing around implements, but the work is slow and in the meantime the planters are not planting and the Indians are disillusioned and hungry.

Mexicans are the chief sufferers under this system, but occasionally an American or an Englishman falls under the sword. An instance of the latter is El Curtijo hacienda in Jalisco. This property has been owned by Lancaster Jones a British citizen, since the days of Diaz. He has spent $150,000 in irrigation and in hydroelectric improvements and his ranch is supposed to be immune from the agrarian law, because it is an industrial work.

NO EXCEPTION MADE

No exception could be made because Mr. Jones was a British subject. It was suggested that this was hardly international courtesy.

Another protest has been made from this district in the case of A. W. Giest, American owner of a ranch near the Port of Los Penos on the Pacific Coast. Recently the ranch manger wired that 25,000 acres, about one-quarter, had been taken by the Indians under government sanction.

Destruction of rural credit is one of the greatest evils of the agrarian policy. A Mexican landowner of Guadalajara worth millions in land values went to the bank to borrow money on some of his land. He could not get it. "You own this land now, but you may not tomorrow," he was told.

The American Smelting aand Refining Company did not do any planting on its big Michoacan hacienda this year, because of uncertainty over the situation.

SILVER LEAGUE IS FORMED IN NORTH

COINAGE RATIO RE-STANDARDIZING IS PURPOSE, SAY ORGANIZERS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3. — The National Silver League was organized at a meeting here today, with the announced purpose of "re-standardizing the coinage ratio at not less than 15½ ounces of silver to one ounce of gold."

The preamble of the league said: "The demonetization of silver was forced on the world by certain European influences for selfish political purposes. It has occasioned in the United States in general, and the silver mining industry in particular, a direct loss in value of silver production of more than $1,000,000,000 and an incalculable indirect loss."

Frank H. Norcross of Reno, former Chief Justice of the Nevada Supreme Court, was chosen president, and Charles H. Thomas, former United States Senator from Colorado, vice-president. H. A. McCraney, former secretary of the National Silver Party, was made secretary, and B. F. Lynip, president of the College National Bank of Berkeley, treasurer.

The executive committee is composed of Lewis H. Aubrey, former State Mineralogist of California; Edward Jussen, W. A. Irwin of Los Angeles; Henry Reeves of Reno, secretary of the Mine Owners' Association of Nevada; M. E. Ditmar of Redding; James Adair of Inyo county; G. McM. Ross of Stockton, and George Keith of Berkeley.

Plans were made to have a national convention in Denver late in the summer.

Judge McCraney said the formation of the League did not mean the organization of a new political party.

HOUSE FLOOR MADE INTO A PRIZE RING

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

JACKSON (Miss.) April 3. — Fisticuff occurred on the floor of the lower house, shortly before the convening of today's session of the Legislature, between Jeff Collins, representative from Jones county, and Frederick Sullens, editor of the Daily News.

The difficulty was said to have been provoked by an editorial in the Daily News which referred to an alleged attempt of Mr. Collins to prevent the adoption of the report of the special house committee that investigated the charges brought by Gov. Russell against fire insurance companies.

Spring House Cleaning! Anthony's USED CAR SALE

The finest stock of used cars in Los Angeles thrown on the market to sell in one week.

Prices reduced $100 to $1000

QUALITY CARS--EVERY ONE

There's no use to stop and argue about the quality of these cars. Anthony Used Cars have been recognized for almost twenty years as the pick of the Used Car market in Los Angeles.

Certainly we have been conservative in the kind of used cars we have taken in. You don't stay in the automobile business twenty years unless you ARE careful about the cars you take in and the prices you allow for them.

We've always done a sound and steady volume of Used Car Business.

But We've Got to Have a Bigger Used Car Business

Packard sales doubled in California last year.

Durant sales are climbing steadily—seventh in volume last month in California.

More new car business means more used car business.

People are interested in prices today.

It's right they should be. You can advertise today until you are black in the face and it won't do a bit of good unless your prices are right.

Our Spring House-Cleaning Sale prices on our used car stock are so low that the cars will sell themselves once the customers come in the doors.

They are Hope street cars at Main street prices.

THE TIME, THE PRICE and the CAR

The time to use a car is right here now. Spring is here, California's most beautiful touring season.

Summer's just around the corner, with beach trips and mountain trips beckoning every week end.

You're not really living nowadays unless you have a car. You owe it to your family and yourself to get one.

It's no financial hardship to buy a good used car from us on our terms.

It's a better investment by far than a cheap new car.

You don't lose that big initial depreciation that the buyer of any new car must face.

The Price on Every One of These Cars Is Right

It's not a ground-floor price, either; it's a sub-basement price.

The cars are Anthony Used Cars, with all that means in quality.

The Time, the Price and the Car, they are all RIGHT.

It costs you nothing but your time to look them over.

It will show you what real QUALITY and real VALUES, are in used cars.

Cash or Time, as You Please. Easy Terms

You can select any car, regardless of price, and terms to suit your convenience will be arranged. Your dealings are confidential and dignified.

BISMARCK SAW NATION IN TROUBLE

Iron Chancellor's Letter, Written in 1886, Foretold Today's Plight

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BERLIN, April 3.—A prophecy bearing on Germany's present situation was made by Bismarck in a letter, hitherto unpublished, addressed to the Prussian Minister of War, Gen. Bronsart Von Chellendorf, and dated Dec. 24, 1886. The historic document has just been made available.

"If God wills that we shall be defeated in the next war, then there can be no doubt that our victorious opponents will halt at no expendient to prevent us from getting on our feet again—at least not for a generation—just as they did in 1807," the Iron Chancellor wrote.

He warned his minister that Germany would be called upon to defend both her eastern and western frontiers in the "next war."

The letter continued: "The present German empire would not remain intact after a lost campaign, as witness the Reichstag election and partisan acerbities, which prove how readily patriotism is forgotten when party interests find out it is desirable to court favor abroad. A victorious France would find our opposition parties equally as servile as did Napoleon the Rhenish League in his day."

BIGAMIST SENTENCED TO INDIANA PRISONS

MAN WITH THIRTEEN WIVES MUST ALSO SERVE FOR EMBEZZLEMENT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

INDIANAPOLIS, April 3. — Isiah Moore, who has thirteen marriages to his credit, was sentenced to serve from two to fourteen years in the State reformatory today on a charge of embezzlement and was fined $1000 and costs and disfranchised for five years.

Moore, who is said by police to have confessed to having at least thirteen wives in various parts of the United States, also was sentenced to serve from two to five years in the State prison on a charge of bigamy after pleading guilty to that charge.

Moore is said to have embezzled $512 from Miss Harriet Evans of Mexico, Ind., school teacher, and his thirteenth wife. Moore, according to the police, is also said to have obtained more than $2700 from his thirteen wives. In each case after he had been married a week he disappeared.

OAKLAND MERCHANT KILLED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OAKLAND, April 3.—William A. Hermle, merchant, was killed instantly when the automobile he was driving crashed into another machine yesterday morning. Mrs. Hermle, who was sitting beside her husband, escaped without injury. Hermle's machine turned over twice and the driver was pinned beneath the car.

New Bank, Open to Public, Gets Initial Thrill

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 3. — The Merchants' Bank and Trust Company, a new institution, opened its doors today within a block of the United States Treasury and invited the public to make an inspection of its quarters. Four hours after the doors swung open an unidentified man entered, joined the other guests, but unlike the others, grabbed a package of bills containing $5000 as he passed the paying teller's window.

The paying teller leaped from behind the counter and with pistol pursued the hold-up man up Fifteenth street, shooting in the air as he went. Hundreds of government clerks, out for the noon hour, pursued the fleeing bandit. A pedestrian walking casually along heard the tumult, saw the running man and grabbed him. He held him until the teller and police arrived. The $5000 was recovered and the uninvited guest at the bank's opening was sent to police headquarters.

The prisoner told the police he was Edward Royton, 28 years old, of New York.

VOTE OF CONFIDENCE IS GIVEN TO POINCARE

INTERPELLATION BRINGS OUT DEPUTIES' ANIMOSITY TO ARMS MEET

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, April 3.—The Chamber of Deputies after discussion of the interpellation on the government's foreign policy tonight voted confidence in the Poincare Ministry. The vote was 434 to 78.

The Washington conference, especially the naval program it adopted, was subject to a spirited attack.

Deputy De Chappedelaine, speaking for the Left Republican group, said the Washington conference, instead of being an instrument of peace, had been nothing but an instrument of war. Instead of reducing naval armaments, he declared, the Washington conference had served only to stabilize the most recent type of warships, and had merely scrapped old vessels.

Deputy Lacour De Grandmaison from the Right benches, repeated the criticisms he made last week to the effect that the French delegation went to Washington unprepared and that France was treated like a second-rate power. He called upon the Chamber to reject the Washington agreements.

FOOD PRICES IN STATE ADVANCE

Increase of 2 Per Cent in Three Months

Flour, Dried Fruits, Sugar Now Cost More

Prices Are Derived from California Purchases

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, April 3.—Food prices in California advanced approximately 2 per cent in the past three months, based on bids received by the State Purchasing Department on supplies for State institutions, according to announcement today by State Purchasing Agent McMillin.

NEW LEVEL REACHED

McMillin declared that in his opinion the general new price level for foods and other commodities has been reached, and is about 25 or 30 per cent higher than the old level that obtained before the war. McMillin believes that any fluctuation in prices from now on will be due principally to supply and demand.

During the past three months dried fruits advanced on an average of 2 per cent per pound, the increase being due, said McMillin, to the shortage at the end of the season. Beans jumped on an average of $1 per 100 pounds. McMillin said the rise was caused by a cleaning up of the old crop and the expectation on the part of the growers that Congress will place a tariff of $2 a hundred on foreign beans shipped into America.

FLOUR JUMPS

Flour jumped 80 cents per barrel in three months, the new price being $6.80. The prices on other cereals and mushes remain the same.

Potatoes dropped on an average of 85 cents per 100 pounds, the new price obtained by the State averaging $1.50 per 100 pounds.

McMillin said that the slump in the potato market was caused by a larger supply on hand in the warehouses than was anticipated with the closing of the season on the old stock.

Mutton jumped 6 cents per pound, the new price being 16 cents, while fresh beef advanced about ¼ cent per pound. Cured meat prices remain practically the same, with ham being quoted at 27 and 29 cents per pound and bacon at 23 and 24 cents.

BUTTER, CHEESE FALL

Butter and cheese prices are considerably lower than three months ago. The butter price to the State is based on the market quotation on the date of delivery. The new quotation on cheese was 16 cents per pound as compared to 35 cents pound three months ago.

The price of sugar increased 90 cents per 100 pounds, bringing the present quotation to $5.50. No. 1 California rice is approximately ½ cents per pound higher, the price quoted to the State averaging $.85 per hundred.

The prices on all dry goods, fabrics and leather products remain virtually the same, with no tendency, McMillin said, toward any changes in the immediate future.

FIND GRAVE OF EARLY LINCOLN

Grandfather of President Killed by Indians

Emancipator's Father Nearly Scalped by Savages.

Believed Body Buried in Old Churchyard

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) April 3.—The grave of Abraham Lincoln, grandfather of the martyred President, has been found in a churchyard near here, in the belief of several Louisvillians who recently have completed an extensive investigation.

The investigators found two stones—their inscriptions blotted away by long exposure to the elements—which they believe mark the grave of the emancipator's grandfather, who was killed by Indians in 1786 within sight of his cabin and before the eyes of his three sons.

According to R. C. Ballard Thurston, who has made a preliminary investigation of deeds in the Jefferson county Courthouse, the examination warrants the belief the land composing the churchyard is part of the Lincoln property, which included 400 acres.

Additional details of the death of the Emancipater's grandfather have been revealed by the investigation, it was stated.

When their father fell mortally wounded, Mordecai ran to the house and procured a rifle, while Josiah darted for a near-by fort to obtain aid. Thomas, then a boy of 9 years, remained with his father.

According to the findings, an Indian seized Thomas and was about to scalp him when Mordecai returned and shot the savage to death. Thomas was released and later became the father of the martyred President.

EVIDENCE RULED OUT AT ARBUCKLE TRIAL

CHICAGO DOCTOR NOT SURE PATIENT TREATED WAS VIRGINIA RAPPE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—The entire deposition of Dr. Samuel Seabury Graves of Chicago was excluded from the record of the third manslaughter trial of Roscoe Arbuckle today after a long argument between counsel. The jury was not present during the argument.

A portion of the deposition had been read into the record.

Dr. Graves's statement was held by the trial jurist, Judge Harold Louderback, to be of no value by reason of the fact that the physician could not be absolutely certain that the woman whose first name was Virginia, whom he treated about ten years ago, was really Virginia Rappe, movie actress, for whose death Arbuckle is on trial. Dr. Graves thought the last name of his patient was Rappe, but he would not be sure. The defense had relied considerably on this evidence and battled hard to keep it in the record.

The court also abbreviated the admitted portion of the sworn statement of Dr. Paul Ralph Hirschman of 231 East Marquette Road, Chicago. Only about 10 per cent of his original affidavit was allowed in evidence. In it he declared that he had met Miss Rappe when she lived in Chicago and had seen her double up with pain after taking several drinks.

Mrs. Helen Adeline Withurst of Chicago caused something of a sensation today when she positively repudiated that portion of her deposition previously taken in which she was reputed to have stated that Miss Rappe had been seized with attacks in her home on several occasions.

She said the seizures occurred only twice. The defense declared that the affidavit must have been altered after she had sworn to it, and it was passed to the jury for inspection. Mrs. Withurst had described attacks which Miss Rappe had suffered in Chicago cafes while in her company.

URGE McKENNA TO RUN FOR COMMONS

FORMER CHANCELLOR OF THE EXCHEQUER ASKED TO TAKE SEAT

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, April 3.—Reginald McKenna, former chancellor of the exchequer, is being pressed to accept nomination for Sir Arthur Balfour's seat for "the city of London," the financial center of the metropolis, when Sir Arthur becomes an Earl and is transferred to the House of Lords, official announcement of which is expected in a few days. Sir Arthur has represented the city since 1906, just after he had suffered sensational defeat in Manchester in the general Tory obliteration there. London perhaps is the safest seat in the country for anybody who is accepted by the big banking and commercial interests. The matter, therefore, resolves itself into the question whether Mr. McKenna will find his return to the commons more congenial than continuing his work in connection with the world finance in London.

SHIPPING BOARD GETS FIRST-CLASS RATINGS

SHIPPERS HAVE THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS THROUGH CLASSIFICATION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, April 3.—First-class liner ratings were granted by New York marine underwriters today to trans-Atlantic passenger steamships operated by the Shipping Board and to the new combined cargo and passenger ships in the Pacific Coast and South American service, commonly known as the 535-foot and 522-foot class.

The new classification affects cargo insurance and means a saving of thousands of dollars to shippers, it was said.

ROMANCE OF RECLUSE IS NOW BARED

Brady Hamilton, Mystery Man, Woman Hater, Had Planned to Wed

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIVERHEAD (L. I.) April 3.—So long as Brady Hamilton lived the curiosity which the one-time counsel for the late J. P. Morgan and other millionaires inspired in his neighbors and business associates at Riverhead, headquarters for his spectacular real estate operations of the last few years, remained unsatisfied and unregarded.

With Hamilton dead, more astonishing revelations of his past have piled up than the most ambitious of the village gossips dreamed could ever be forthcoming. Knowing already that the mystery man had been a classmate at Cambridge University of a brother of King George of England, that he had been an Episcopal clergyman in Canada, and a lawyer, writer, society man and sociologist in the United States, those who strove for many months to penetrate his reserve learned today of a romance of his later life.

Hamilton, it develops, was engaged to marry Miss Marie Hope of Holtsville, L. I., who claimed his body after he died from a heart attack last Friday. The wedding, had he lived, would have taken place in June.

Since his separation from his first wife he had avoided womankind, but the bitterness had begun to leave his heart from the moment of his first meeting with Miss Hope.

The first Mrs. Hamilton was Miss Augusta R. Stevenson, daughter of a wealthy Philadelphia car manufacturer. After he married Miss Stevenson in 1908, Hamilton presented her with his Newport estate, Hawthorne Villa. They separated several years ago.

SLOW PROGRESS IS MADE WITH TARIFF

HOPEFUL THAT MEASURE MAY BE REACHED BEFORE END OF SESSION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 3.—With a number of more or less important rates reopened at the request of individual Senators, Republicans of the Senate Finance Committee made but slow progress today in their final drive to get the long awaited permanent tariff bill ready for the Senate, but continued hopeful that the measure could be reached before the end of this session.

An effort is being made to have the committee reopen the sugar schedule, Senator Smoot of Utah was reported as being dissatisfied with the action of the committee majority in accepting the house rates of two cents a pound on full duty sugars and 1.60 cents on Cuban raw. The Utah Senator favors a duty of 2 cents on Cuban sugar, the rate urged by American beet sugar manufacturers.

Aside from a number of miscellaneous rates, the majority has yet to decide on the duty on moving picture films, and when the subject of rates finally is closed, the big question of valuation and administrative features will have to be threshed out with a stiff fight in prospect, particularly on valuation.

GERMANY HONORS SOVIET ENVOYS

DELEGATES TO GENOA GREETED BY THE CHANCELLOR; GUESTS OF RATHENAU

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BERLIN, April 3.—M. Tchitcherin and M. Litvinoff of the Russian soviet delegation to Genoa, were received today by Chancellor Wirth and Dr. Walter Rathenau, Foreign Minister. Later M. Tchitcherin, M. Litvinoff and the other members of the Russian delegation were entertained by Dr. Rathenau.

Chancellor Wirth announced during the meeting with the Russians that the buildings of the former Russian Embassy in Berlin would be placed at the disposal of the representatives in Berlin of the soviet government.

REVENUE SHRINKAGE IS NOT SUBSTANTIAL

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Despite a falling off of more than $60,000,000 in the expected government receipts from income and profits taxes for March, Secretary Mellon announced tonight that the shrinkage in internal revenue collections for the fiscal year ending next June 30 was not likely to be substantial in view of collections of back taxes, and increased collections of miscellaneous internal revenue.

But for the fiscal year 1923, Mr. Mellon declared, the total collections of income and profits taxes were likely to be about $1,500,000,000 instead of $1,715,000,000, as estimated in the budget, or a falling off of $215,000,000.

SEEK TO HALT CUT IN MINIMUM WAGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, April 3. — Local union-labor representatives, headed by Senator Inman and Assemblyman Percy West of Sacramento, today waited upon Gov. Stephens with a view to preventing a lowering of the minimum wage for women in California.

The present minimum wage is $16 a week and a petition has been filed with the State Industrial Welfare Commission by a certain group of employers urging that the wage be reduced to $15. The commission still has the request under advisement.

HOSPITAL IMPROVED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) April 3.—Nearly $600,000 is being spent in improvement at Whipple Barracks, near Prescott, making a total sum of $2,800,000 appropriated for improvements at the old post, which now is one of the largest of the hospitals of the Public Health Service. At present there are about 600 tubercular patients, and the post capacity is being enlarged to accommodations for 1000.

HUGE TIMBER DEAL TO BE MADE SOON

CALIFORNIA COMPANY WILL BUY 1,000,000,000 FEET FROM GOVERNMENT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—The largest timber sale ever made by the government will be made shortly to the Fruit Growers' Supply Company, the auxiliary manufacturing corporation of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, it was announced today by Paul G. Reddington, district forester of the United States Forest Service.

The exchange is the growers' co-operative association which markets the bulk of the California orange crop.

The contract is for 1,000,000,000 feet of timber in the Lassen National Forest in Lassen county, and will net the government $2,314,000. The timber cutting will extend over a period of thirty-one years. The contract has been approved by Mr. Reddington, but not yet formally ratified by the Secretary of the Interior.

EMBASSIES PREPARE FOR ANCON MEETING

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 3. — Attaches of both the Chilean and Peruvian embassies here are busily engaged in plans for the reception of delegates to the forthcoming conference between representatives of their governments on the unfulfilled provisions of the Treaty of Ancon.

Virtually all the delegates have sailed for the United States, it was said, and Embassy officials are preparing to welcome the last of the incoming delegates not later than April 20.

THEATER ADMISSION PRICE IS REDUCED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) April 3.—Reduction in admission price from 25 to 10 cents at one of the Portland theaters controlled by Jensen and Von Herberg, effective about April 22, was announced here today by C. S. Jensen.

Reduction to 10 cents in admission charged at houses controlled by this firm in Great Falls, Mont., Bellingham and Wenatchee, Wash., have already been made, said Jensen.

Open State Coal Fields

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

WARSAW, April 3.—The Polish government has decided to open the state-owned coal fields in Southern Poland to private exploitation, it is announced. Prior to the war the production of these fields amounted to more than 1,000,000 tons annually.

PROBST DECLARED MENTALLY UNFIT

FORMER EMPLOYEE OF ROLLING ROCK CLUB ORDERED DEPORTED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, April 3.—Following a hearing before a special board of immigration inspectors, August Probst, former employee of the Rolling Rock Club at Ligonier, Pa., has been ordered deported as a person "mentally unfit" to enter the United States.

His counsel announced today after the hearing that the case will be taken to Washington on appeal. Two avenues of appeal are said to be open. One is to Secretary of Labor Davis, under whose department comes the Bureau of Immigration. The other is to Secretary Mellon, under whose department comes the Public Health Service, whose medical examiners at New York have declared Probst to be of unsound mind.

The Secretary of the Treasury is the brother of R. B. Mellon, who owns the grounds of the Rolling Rock Club and who dictates its membership.

COURT DISMISSES MACHINE-GUN SUIT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CLEVELAND, April 3.—Suit brought by Dr. S. N. McClean of Detroit, and other stockholders of the McClean Arms and Ordnance Company, against M. A. Bradley, R. M. Calfee and others, for $20,000,000 said to be due from profits through the sale of the Lewis machine gun during the World War, was dismissed by Judge John W. Peck of Cincinnati, in the Federal District Court here today.

In his suit, Dr. McClean asserted that his patents, which had been unfairly sold, had been omitted in the Lewis gun. Conspiracy also was charged.

The court held that the success of the Lewis gun was not due to any of McClean's inventions. It was also decided there was no evidence to show any conspiracy or fraudulent conduct on the part of the defendants.

I.W.W. SABOTAGE IS BEING INVESTIGATED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EUREKA, April 3.—Word was received here today from Fred Esola, chief of the Bureau of Investigation for the Department of Justice at San Francisco, that he had acted on an appeal of lumber interests of Humboldt county and begun an investigation of indications of serious acts of sabotage by members of the Industrial Workers of the World.

SHOE SHINES IN PORTLAND CHEAPER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) April 3.—Shoe shines for the second time in a month, yesterday dropped to 10 cents per. On the previous occasion only a few bootblacks dropped the price and after a few days they restored the 15-cent rate. This time, according to announcement by the Master Shoe Shiners' Association, all firms are in the agreement for the lower rate which is to be effective daily except Saturdays and Sundays.

NEW PAROLE BILL PASSED BY SENATE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 3.—A bill passed today by the Senate and sent to the House modifies the parole law so that prisoners who have served one-third of their sentences, or fifteen years in the case of life sentences, shall be eligible for parole. Another provision would discharge prisoners observing paroles for five years.

The bill is a committee substitute for an original measure by Senator Owen, Democrat, Oklahoma, and was approved by Atty.-Gen. Daugherty.

Corns?

Blue-jay to your druggist
Stops Pain Instantly

The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-Jay. A touch stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. Made in two forms—a colorless, clear liquid (one drop does it!) and in extra thin plasters. Use whichever form you prefer, plasters or the liquid—the action is the same. Safe, gentle. Made in a world-famed laboratory. Sold by all druggists.

Income Tax Returns for Los Angeles District Show Heavy Decrease From 1921

BY CHAPIN HALL

Approximately 20 per cent fewer individual income-tax returns were filed this year than in 1921, in the office of the Los Angeles Internal Revenue Collector for the sixth district. The percentage of fully paid-up returns is considerably lower than was the case last year, and the total volume of return in dollars will be more than $11,000,000 under the 1921 figures, or close to 30 per cent.

These totals closely approximate advance estimates, but exceed by from 10 to 20 per cent returns from other parts of the country, and will establish the Los Angeles district more firmly than ever in the white-spot class.

First compilation of returns was completed yesterday by the income-tax division of the Internal Revenue office and they afford an interesting and significant basis of comparison. The number of returns this year was 94,060 as compared with 130,719 in 1921. The taxpayers who found it convenient to take their medicine in one dose and make full payment for the year were 69,220, against 85,300 last year; 25,840 paid in part as compared with 35,418 a year ago.

Income taxes were due and payable in March when $9,387,508.44 was received at the Los Angeles office. Last year the March total was $11,354,871.22. The comparison holds good for the quarter, $10,171,208.63 this year, against $12,495,016.99 in 1921. January receipts were $34,424.36, a drop from $116,517.77 in 1921, while in February, $749,275.83 came in, against $1,023,628 last year.

Total collections in 1921 amounted to $41,326,644.47, and based upon returns so far available the estimate total collections for 1922, will approximate $32,000,000. The increase in exemption for married men and other concessions this year resulted in a larger number of nonproductive returns being filed, and a corresponding degree in volume.

It has been a tremendous job to classify and tabulate the 94,000 returns, but the well-oiled machinery of the office has made it possible to reach a basis for comparison ahead of many other districts.

RECORD TRADING DAY

More Than 1,000,000 Shares Change Hands on Rising Market; Investors Eager

BY ALEXANDER DANA NOYES
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, April 3. — With transactions 1,300,000 shares, the largest figure reached on any day since December of 1920, prices advanced again today on the stock exchange. Even among the railway shares there were several forward movements of a point or thereabouts, but the day's activity and strength was directed primarily to the industrial group, in which numerous advances occurred, ranging from one point up to four. Most of the driving force was again professional speculation; the noteworthy rise in prices affecting as a rule the highly speculative shares which Wall street has long regarded as in the "personally conducted" class. Still, it must be said of the day's stock market as a whole that it responded not illogically to the strikingly hopeful series of forecasts from western and southern business communities, which were published today.

The stock market is traditionally apt to overdo its own part in such forecasts, but we do not as yet know just how far the spring trade revival will go. The present expectations and predictions have a scope which would not have been generally looked for a month or two ago. Even Wall street was then getting into the mood of prophesying little or no recovery in the spring and pinning what hopes it had to the autumn business activities.

The two things in the unfolding situation, which have taken the financial community by surprise have been the extent to which the higher grain markets have made possible the immediate loosening of the West's frozen credits, and the rapidity of recovery in steel trade. This last-named consideration found reflection today in the 2 3-8-point rise of United States Steel shares.

In the market for investment bonds there was little pause in the forward movement; indeed, the avidity with which the New York Central's $60,000,000 5 per cent bond offer was taken by investment houses was sufficient witness to the investing public's mood and resources. Liberty Bonds rose slightly over last week's closing. Today's treasury statement regarding redemption of public debt in March has a bearing on that part of the market. Of the month's total reduction of $234,000,000 in that outstanding indebtedness, $270,000,000 is accounted for by redemption of short-term certificates in excess of new issues. That would leave $64,000,000 for actual redemption of war loans.

An advance of nearly 2 cents brought sterling to the highest rate touched in a fortnight; a similar rise carried French and Italian exchange to the highest in a month. This advance occurred before Lloyd George had declared to Parliament this evening that "one of the first things that will have to be attempted at Genoa is the restoration of the exchanges." Whether the British Prime Minister meant by this an attempt at artificial fixing of rates, or whether he merely had in mind removal of the economic causes for the present depreciation, was not altogether clear from the early summaries of the speech.

France and Italy have already begun to correct their foreign exchanges through correction of their foreign trade balance and their paper currency inflation. The balancing of budgets, even in Central Europe, is becoming more feasible in the present condition of the market for European government securities. But neither recourse is likely to help countries which meet deficits with the depreciating paper money instead of actually increased taxes.

BUSINESS NEWS

Pacific Coast Bankers to Be Guests of French Government Next Month.

Final details of the itinerary of the tour through France, which seventy-five American bond men will take next month as representatives of the Investment Bankers' Association of America, and as guests of the French government, have been made public. The government has offered to place private trains, guides and interpreters at the bankers' service in order to facilitate their study of French economic conditions.

Present arrangements call for the arrival of the party in Paris on May 15, and a reception by the French officials. The party will then visit the districts devastated during the war and inspect the reconstruction work after which the members will be taken to the principal points of interest throughout the country, including the industrial center of Nancy, Creuzo, Lyons, Marseilles, the wine-growing sections of Beziers, the resorts of Luchon and Superbagneres, the hydroelectric plants of Biarritz, Bordeaux and Limoges. The party will spend approximately two weeks in inspecting, and will disband at Paris after a reception by the municipal council and by the President of the republic.

Those who will make the trip from the Pacific Coast are David T. Babcock, of Blyth, Witter & Co.; R. H. Moulton, of R. H. Moulton & Co., and Cyrus Peirce, of Cyrus Peirce & Co. Following the official tour through France, Mr. Babcock and Mr. Moulton, accompanied by their wives, will motor through Switzerland, Austria, Germany and The Netherlands, later crossing over to England. They will start their return voyage to America on June 25. Mr. Peirce has already left for Europe, while Mr. Babcock and Mr. Moulton will leave Los Angeles later this month.

NEW YORK CENTRAL

The largest block of railroad financing in some months materialized yesterday in the offering of $60,000,000 New York Central refunding and improvement series "C" 5 per cent bonds, due 2013, and priced at 94¼, to yield 5.30 per cent. The offering was made from the East by J. P. Morgan & Co., and the syndicate books were closed a few hours after the bonds were on the market. The issue is redeemable at 105 after 1950. Proceeds of this sale will be applied largely toward retiring old bonds.

UNITED EASTERN

Considerable local interest is centering on the probable dividend action of the United Eastern directors at their meeting in Ottman today. Traders were reassured yesterday by the receipts of a telegram by A. W. Coote from Philip Wiseman, president of the company, in which the United Eastern head said that he saw no reason why the present dividend rate should be cut. United Eastern is paying 15 cents per share quarterly.

TESTING FOR OIL

A test for oil on the Tejon Ranch is being conducted by the Comanche Point Oil Company. This district has been considered prospective oil land for the past ten or fifteen years and about five years ago a water well drilled to a depth of 800 feet is said to have encountered enough oil to spoil the water for any use. The Comanche Point Company started drilling a well the first of the year, and has now reached a depth of 1000 feet, with good showings of gas and oil. A thorough test of the territory will be made.

BELLFLOWER SALE

An issue of $20,000 Bellflower school district, Los Angeles county, 5½ per cent bonds, bearing an average life of eleven and one-half years, was sold yesterday to the Bank of Italy for a premium of $1812.10. This bid represents an average price paid of 106.04, or a yield basis of 4.81 per cent. Other bids offered were: Blyth, Witter & Co., $1760.25; Citizens' National Bank, $1600; W. R. Staats & Co., $1438, and R. H. Moulton & Co., $1217.

NEW OFFERINGS

Freeman, Smith & Camp yesterday brought out a new issue of $200,000 Marin County Sanitary District No. 1, 6 per cent bonds, due from 1923 to 1962, at prices to yield 5.25 per cent for all maturities. The district has an assessed valuation of $3,990,945, against which this is the only bonded debt.

LODI BOND SALES

Lodi, San Joaquin county, school districts floated two large bond issues yesterday and drew bids from many leading Pacific Coast bond houses. The $250,000 issue of high school district 5 per cent bonds, due from 1923 to 1927, was bought by Bond & Goodwin & Tucker with a premium of $6879, representing a yield basis of 4.71 per cent. Other bids on this issue were: Cyrus Peirce & Co., $6570; Mitchum, Tully, $6555, and the National City Company, $5879.

A $90,000 issue of grammar school district 5 per cent bonds, due in amounts of $3000 from 1923 to 1953, was sold to Bond & Goodwin & Tucker for a premium of $2777. This price represents a yield basis of 4.71. Other bids offered were: R. H. Moulton & Co., $2421; Stephens & Co., $2380, and Cyrus Peirce & Co., $2365.

MORTGAGE GUARANTEE CO

Combine net earnings of the Mortgage Guarantee Company and the Bond Investment Company during 1921, were $276,557.80, according to the annual statement published yesterday. Out of this amount $150,000 was paid in dividends, giving a surplus, undivided profits, and capital stock total of $177,632.27. Gross earnings were $529,885.55. Net earnings during 1920 were $248,790.90, showing a considerable gain for last year. Outstanding guarantees of the company, including certificates and loans, are $13,400,537, an increase of $1,357,727 over the previous year.

FOOD IN STORAGE

Cheese and apple supplies in storage in Los Angeles warehouses decreased last week, while butter supplies reversed their recent falling tendency, and increased slightly. Total amounts of the various commodities on hand, as given in yesterday's cold storage report, are: Eggs, 40,584 cases; butter, 73,013 pounds; cheese, $99,860 pounds; apples, 210,250 boxes; potatoes, 53,500 sacks, and onions, 1070 sacks.

NEW ISSUE

An issue of $4,555,000 Metropolitan Edison Company of Pennsylvania first and refunding mortgage 6 per cent gold bonds, series "B," dated Feb. 1, 1922, and due in thirty years, will be offered today by a syndicate headed by Halsey Stuart & Co., at 98 3-4 and interest, to yield about 6.10 per cent.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, April 3.—The volume of operations of the stock exchange today established a high record for the year, approximately 1,300,000 shares changing hands. Many new maximums for the period were made by favorites of the industrial and miscellaneous groups.

Bullish sentiment, increasing over the week-end, was evidenced by heavy orders placed by commission houses. Western interests were said to be especially active in the demand for speculative steels and rails.

Advice from the chief centers of trade and industry were encouraging, indicating an increase of railway tonnage, gains in various lines of business and a pronounced extension of investment purchases. Coalers were not affected by the miners' strike, the few changes in that division being mainly upward.

Motors, independent steels, oils and equipments were the outstanding features at net gains of 1½ to 4 1-4 points. Studebaker led the entire list and United States Steel asserted much of the old-time prominence. Mexican and California issues were foremost of the oils. Unclassified stocks, such as California Packing, Wilson & Co., Davison Chemical were substantially higher.

Excepting Canadian Pacific, Pennsylvania and Delaware and Hudson, the inquiry for rails centered in the preferred stocks of St. Paul, Chicago and Alton and Toledo, St. Louis and Western at extreme gains of 1 to 2 points. Coppers and the general metal list alone were sluggish or heavy.

The money market favored the further rise of stocks, call loans easing from 4½ to 4¼ per cent in the final hour. Time funds again ranged from 4½ to 4¾ per cent, but offerings of long-time accommodations were lighter than usual.

A moderate reaction in the German mark was the one exception to the stronger tone of foreign exchanges. Sterling rose almost 2 cents; French, Italian and Belgian bills were 3 to 12 points higher and Dutch and Scandinavian quotations improved 5 to 15 points, the Norwegian rate leading.

Utah-Idaho Sugar Company
7% First Mortgage Bonds

THESE bonds are now selling at prices under those of other securities of a similar class.

The original issue was $8,000,000. The company has purchased or paid off $1,000,000, and advises that it is now prepared to pay the $500,000, due July 1st next. This will leave outstanding $6,500,000 of bonds which are a first mortgage on property valued on the company's books at over three times this amount.

Within the past year $2,100,000 of new capital has been invested in the company in preferred stock, which gives added security to the bonds.

Except for the period of post-war readjustment, when there was an unprecedentedly sudden drop in prices, felt by the sugar industry as well as by manufacturing and mercantile industries generally, this company has a record of profits running over a long period of years. It has written off its losses and stabilized its financial position.

Contracts with the farmers for beets are based on sugar prices, recognizing the principle of co-operation and mutual interest.

The sugar market has recently shown a firm tendency. John Moody, the eminent statistician, predicts advancing prices during the year.

These bonds mature serially, $500,000 on July 1st in each year, 1922 to 1929, inclusive, and the balance in 1930. The market has been active and advancing recently, but the bonds can still be bought at prices

Yielding Over 8 Per Cent

Our Trading Department deals actively in these bonds, and buys or sells at current market prices.

To those having funds for investment, we recommend consideration of these bonds.

BUSINESS AND TERRITORY: The Illinois Power Company supplies electricity, gas, steam and hot water heat and street railway service in the city of Springfield, Illinois. DeKalb and Sycamore are also supplied with light, power and steam heat. These cities not only act as commercial centers for some of the richest farming lands in the Middle West, but Springfield, in particular, besides being the capital of Illinois, is an important manufacturing community. The population served is estimated to be in excess of 95,000.

EARNINGS: For the 12 months ended January 31, 1922:

Gross earnings	$2,313,995
Operating Expenses (including Taxes, Repairs and Maintenance)	1,580,662
Net Earnings, Applicable to Bond Interest	733,333
Annual Interest Charges on all First Mortgage Bonds	288,300
Balance	445,033

FRANCHISES AND MANAGEMENT: The franchises under which the Company operates, in the opinion of counsel, contain no burdensome restrictions, and a part are unlimited as to time. This property has been for the past seventeen years very ably managed under the supervision of Hodenpyl, Hardy and Company, Inc., well-known public utility operators.

Wheat Advance Due to Strong English Market

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, April 3.—Strength in Liverpool wheat, due to the removal of hedges against sales of Argentine grain to Germany and continued wet weather were responsible for a higher range of values here. The outside figures were not maintained, but wheat closed with net gains of 1¼ to 1¾ cents, corn was up ⅝ to ¾, and rye ⅜ to 1¼ cents. Oats were unchanged to ⅛ cent higher.

The advance in wheat was confined entirely to the futures both in this country and abroad. Purchases by Germany of cargoes afloat were estimated at 600,000 to 800,000 bushels. The demand was not general although after the close it was estimated that nearly 1,000,000 bushels, mainly Manitobas, had been disposed of, partly for shipment at the opening of navigation.

Exporters bought futures at Winnipeg. There was buying of May here for northwestern account, presumably against sales at Winnipeg. That narrowed the difference, despite the sales abroad. Unfavorable crop reports from Western Kansas failed to bring in country buying orders. July wheat was inclined to lag at times, compared with the May. The market seemed oversold, but the decline from the extreme top was mainly due to the failure of southwestern cash markets to show any gimp. Kansas City carried over many cars unsold. A decrease of 1,205,000 bushels in the visible supply was ignored.

Corn has commenced to feel the effect of the continued wet and cold weather which is delaying seeding work. With some buying by cash interests and a good export demand, prices advanced readily, although easing off on profit-taking toward the last. Sales at the seaboard were 300,000 bushels. Cash prices here were relatively ¼ cent better compared with the May, although no business was put through with the Board. Receipts were 281 cars.

While oats averaged higher, May showed a heavy undertone toward the last. It finished 2½ cents under July. The traders paid little attention to the stories of delayed seeding, although Iowa points reported that a year ago seeding was practically completed at this season. Domestic demand was slow; sales, 18,000 bushels.

Rye was dull, influenced mainly by wheat. But rye closed firm. Export bids were out of line. No 2 on track brought 1½ to 2 cents under May.

LIST SELLS OFF IN COTTON MARKET

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, April 3.—The list sold off slightly with heavier pressure in the cotton market today. The early tone was fairly steady and trading quiet and featureless but before midday a renewal of local selling caused prices to slip off some 11 to 17 points. Buying power was poor and the market could not hold up in the face of offerings from locals, Wall street and the South. Demand was mainly from brokers with Liverpool connections or from the trade. Continued strength of securities about offset the unsettled textile labor situation. In the afternoon selling was checked and the list recovered somewhat, closing unchanged to 10 points net lower.

Spot option was quiet, 10 points decline. 18 cents for middling upland.

Southern spot markets: Galveston, 17.45c, unchanged; New Orleans, 16.85c, unchanged; Savannah, 17.15c, unchanged; Augusta, 17c, 13 points decline. Memphis, 17c, unchanged; Houston, 17.50c, 10 points decline; Little Rock, 16.75c, unchanged.

THE COUNTRY OVER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DETROIT, April 3.—The business outlook continues bright here. Reports of industrial improvement, which has been maintained steadily since January 1, tell the story accurately, and there is no sign of a change. The upward trend is being felt in nearly every manufacturing plant in lower Michigan, and the improvement is not confined to the automobile industry. Stove plants and drug and chemical companies, also are steadily increasing production. Paint works are feeling the pick up in business, and building permits issued are running close to the 1921 level. Ford Motor plants soon will reach capacity production. Beginning with 50,000 cars in January, the March production will reach approximately 77,000, and the April schedule calls for 95,000 cars and trucks. The tractor plant has increased output from 300 to 400 tractors daily.

The report of the Detroit Employers' Association issued today shows an increase in industrial improvement here this week of 4800 men, to a total of 192,000. This compares with 140,000 at the end of March, 1921.

ARTICHOKES SELL AT LOWER LEVELS

TOMATOES STRONGER DESPITE LIBERAL SUPPLIES; MOST FRUITS UNCHANGED

Artichokes and cauliflower sold at lower prices today notwithstanding heavy receipts. The best artichokes brought $1 to $1.25 a dozen, while the best cauliflower sold at $1.40 to $1.75 per field crate. Tomatoes are stronger, although supplies are liberal. The poorer stock has been about cleaned up and the quality of new arrivals is improving. Most fruits continued about unchanged, and no market changes were noted in other vegetables.

A small shipment of string beans from Florida met with good demand at 40 cents per pound. First carlot receipts of Mexican eggplant have appeared on the market, and are moving at 25 cents per pound. Old asparagus vegetables are becoming scarce, as supplies are nearly cleaned up and prices continue firm.

Wheat Advance Due to Strong English Market

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, April 3.—Strength in Liverpool wheat, due to the removal of bridges against sales of Argentine grain to Germany and continued wet weather were responsible for a higher range of values here. The outside figures were not maintained, but wheat closed with net gains of 1¼ to 1½ cents, corn was up ⅝ to ¾, and rye ⅞ to 1¼ cents. Oats were unchanged to ⅝ cent higher.

The advance in wheat was confined entirely to the futures both in this country and abroad. Purchases by Germany of cargoes afloat were estimated at 600,000 to 800,000 bushels. The demand was not general although after the close it was estimated that nearly 1,000,000 bushels, mainly Manitobas, had been disposed of, partly for shipment at the opening of navigation.

Exporters bought futures at Winnipeg. There was buying of May here for northwestern account, presumably against sales at Winnipeg. That narrowed the difference, despite the sales abroad. Unfavorable crop reports from Western Kansas failed to bring in country buying orders. July wheat was inclined to lag at times, compared with the May. The market seemed oversold, but the dealing from the extreme top was mainly due to the failure of southwestern cash markets to show any gimp. Kansas City carried over many cars unsold. A decrease of 1,205,000 bushels in the visible supply was ignored.

Corn has commenced to feel the effect of the continued wet and cold weather which is delaying spring work. With some buying by cash interests and a good export demand, prices advanced readily, although easing off on profit-taking toward the last. Sales at the seaboard were 200,000 bushels. Cash prices here were relatively ¼ cent better compared with the May, although no business was put through with the Board. Receipts were 251 cars.

While oats averaged higher, May showed a heavy undertone toward the last. It finished 3½ cents under July. The traders paid little attention to the stories of delayed seeding, although Iowa points reported that a year ago seeding was practically completed at this season. Domestic demand was slow; sales, 18,000 bushels.

Rye was dull, influenced mainly by wheat. But rye closed firm. Export bids were out of line. No. 2 on track brought 1¼ to 2 cents under May.

LIST SELLS OFF IN COTTON MARKET

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, April 3.—The list sold off slightly with heavier pressure in the cotton market today. The early tone was fairly steady and trading quiet and featureless but before midday a renewal of local selling caused prices to slip off some 11 to 17 points. Buying power was poor and the market could not hold up in the face of offerings from locals, Wall street and the South. Demand was mainly from brokers with Liverpool connections or from the trade. Continued strength of securities about offset the unsettled textile labor situation. In the afternoon selling was checked and the list recovered somewhat, closing unchanged to 10 points net lower.

Spot cotton was quiet, 10 points decline, 18 cents for middling upland.

THE COUNTRY OVER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DETROIT, April 3.—The business outlook continues bright here. Reports of industrial improvement, which has been maintained steadily since January 1, tell the story accurately, and there is no sign of a change. The upward trend is being felt in nearly every manufacturing plant in lower Michigan, and the improvement is not confined to the automobile industry. Stove plants and drug and chemical companies, also are steadily increasing production. Paint works are feeling the pick up in business, and building permits issued are running close to the 1921 level. Ford Motor plants soon will reach capacity production. Beginning with 50,000 cars in January, the March production will reach approximately 77,000, and the April schedule calls for 95,000 cars and trucks. The tractor plant has increased output from 300 to 400 tractors daily.

The report of the Detroit Employers' Association issued today shows an increase in industrial improvement here this week of 4800 men, to a total of 192,000. This compares with 140,000 at the end of March, 1921.

ARTICHOKES SELL AT LOWER LEVELS

TOMATOES STRONGER DESPITE LIBERAL SUPPLIES; MOST FRUITS UNCHANGED

Artichokes and cauliflower sold at lower price levels yesterday despite heavy receipts. The best artichokes brought $1 to $1.25 a dozen, while the best cauliflower sold at $1.40 to $1.75 per field crate. Tomatoes are stronger, although supplies are liberal. The poorer stock has been about cleaned up and the quality of new arrivals is improving. Most fruits continued about unchanged, a few slightly higher prices were noted in other vegetables.

A small shipment of string beans from Florida met with good demand and sold 25 cents per pound. First carlot receipts of Mexican eggplant have appeared on the market, and are moving at 25 cents per pound. Old picked vegetables are becoming scarce, as supplies are nearly cleaned up and prices continue firm.

BUTLER BANDITS' CHIEF

Frenchman Sought, After Confession in Shattuck Burglary, as Leader of Gang Who Robbed Banker

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, April 3.—A French butler who, in 1917, robbed the Shattuck residence was sought today by scores of detectives as the leader of the band which locked Mr. and Mrs. Albert Shattuck and eight servants in the wine vault of their residence at 19 Washington Square, North, at noon Sunday, and stole jewelry valued at more than $80,000.

The ten imprisoned in the small wine vault were in danger of death from suffocation, it was learned today when Mr. Shattuck, a retired banker, working with a dime and a broken pen knife, got the lock unscrewed and opened the massive wooden door.

BANDIT CAPTURED

The room in which the ten were confined, was six feet high, fifteen feet long, and eight feet wide, according to Mr. Shattuck. It was partly filled with cases and furniture and nearly air tight. They would probably all have died from lack of air, Mr. Shttuck said, if their confinement had continued much longer. When the lock yielded to theses unpromising tools they found the door unguarded on the outside and ran to the rear, giving the alarm in time to make possible the capture of the last of the fleeing bandits, Eugenio Diaset.

FRENCHMAN NAMED

In his story today, Diaset told how Henri had organized the band and plotted the crime and killed Kinkead on South Elliott Place, Brooklyn, last August, while suffering from "a mental explosion," induced by a series of mental and physical complications. On cross-examination Dr. Ralston believed that Miss Stone at present was sane.

Dist.-Atty. Clark said that on two occasions Miss Stone had asked him to entertain with the slavery complaint against Kinkead on the heads of relations she said Kinkead had had with her on the way from the Scarlet Oaks Sanatorium, Cincinnati, to Atlantic City. He said he told her there was no evidence of intent to violate the Mann law at the time Kinkead started on the trip to the seashore in search of health with the defendant as his nurse.

Miss Stone before court convened, said she was greatly worried over the condition of Mrs. Lizzie Stone, her 86-year-old mother, living at Tompkinsville, Ky., who, she said, had just learned of her predicament. Efforts had been made to keep the news of her arrest for murder and trial from her mother, she said, but some one had told Mrs. Stone.

MYSTERY IN STORY

A mysterious point in the story of Diaset is that a little before 5 o'clock Sunday morning a light appeared in a window in the basement of the Shattuck residence. Diaset said that he and his three companions were then in Washington Square Park, waiting for this signal. This was followed by a tapping from below on the under surface of the iron cover of the coal hole. This was the signal from Henri to the others that the basement door was open.

Diaset was not clear whether a confederate had shown the light in the basement as a signal to Henri, or whether he had entered with a passkey and then signalled, first with the light and then by the tapping on the coal hole cover.

MISS STONE COLLAPSES

Woman Accused of Killing Former Cincinnati Official Carried From Courtroom

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, April 3.—Frequently interrupting the trial with hysterical outbursts, which brought rebukes from the court, Olivia M. Stone today suffered a second collapse and was carried unconscious from the courtroom.

Miss Stone, who is being tried in the Brooklyn Supreme Court for the murder of former Corporation Counsel Ellis Guy Kinkead of Cincinnati, her alleged commonlaw husband, was plainly unnerved by the appearance of U. S. Dist.-Atty. James R. Clark of Cincinnati, a witness for the prosecution.

BECOMES HYSTERICAD

At one stage of Clark's testimony concerning a visit he said Miss Stone made to his office in regard to an action under the Mann law against Kinkead, the defendant, half-rising, screamed:

"God knows it isn't the truth. He is a deliberate liar. I never saw him before in my life."

Later she exclaimed:

"Look me in the face as you talk. You don't dare. How can you face your God? Take me out of here while he is testifying. I can't have my life sworn away by this man. May God have mercy on his soul."

The other outstanding feature of the day was the testimony of Dr. Annette M. Ralston, an alienist, who declared that Miss Stone had

BLAZE AT REFINERY IS GROWING WORSE

WHOLE PLANT IN OKLAHOMA IS THREATENED BY OIL BLAZE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAPULPA (Okla.) April 3.—Fire which today caused an estimated damage to the Sapulpa Refining Company of more than $300,000 halted train service over the St. Louis-San Francisco Railroad to Texas points and destroyed all wire communication with Tulsa, was still burning fiercely tonight among three 55,000-barrel capacity crude oil storage tanks at the company's plant 2 mile from here.

Early tonight the third tank was threatening to boil over despite efforts of corps of regular and volunteer firemen to subdue the flames, and fears were expressed by company officials that the entire refinery, valued at more than $1,000,000, would be destroyed. Nine large gasoline storage tanks but a short distance from the inferno of blazing liquid, also are endangered.

This afternoon the second tank boiled over, sending floods of burning oil over the railroad tracks and the Sapulpa-Tulsa highway. The heat from the blazing oil was so intense that railroad rails were bent and twisted. The fire began yesterday when one of the tanks was struck by lightning.

Accused Bus Driver Released

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, April 3. — David Zalkan, bus driver, who was arrested on a manslaughter charge in connection with the death of Robert B. Roosevelt, Jr., was released in $5000 bail today pending further examination Wednesday. Roosevelt was struck by an automobile.

CROOKED ELEMENT IN UNION LABOR DEFIED

CHICAGO CITIZENS' BUILDING COMMITTEE CHIEFS AFTER CRIMINALS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, April 3.—New defiance to the criminal element in control of union labor, was issued today by James L. Patten and Thomas E. Donnelly of the citizens' committee. Both stated that the building situation was well in hand despite the occasional bombing of some buildings erected under the terms of the Landis wage award and the frequent slugging of men who are trying to work and support their families.

"When we first tackled this job," said Mr. Donnelly, "we believed we had only to clean up a labor mess. Now we have found that we are fighting a criminal situation. A criminal group is using union labor to pull its chestnuts out of the fire. This group has seized possession of the unions by mobilizing its gunmen, and then employing the organizations as an agency for the collection of graft.

"I do not think we can clear up the criminal situation; that is not our job; but I do believe we can take the graft out of union labor and force the ex-convict leaders into some other line."

Mr. Patten said the ousting of crooks and ex-convicts from union labor was a job for the unions themselves. He told of a report that union janitors had been assessed $200 each to defray the expenses of William Quesse, their president, and other union officials recently tried for conspiracy.

"We may not be able to get convictions in the Criminal Court," declared Mr. Patten, "but we will make it so expensive that the union men will get tired of paying special assessments to defend crooked officials."

SEED LOAN MONEY USE IS RESTRICTED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Secretary Weeks, who is charged with the distribution of the $2,000,000 seed loan authorized by Congress, announced today that the sum could be used only for the purchase of seed, and could not be used to relieve farmers hard pressed for cash.

Asserting that innumerable inquiries had come to the department asking if loans might not be made in sections where crop conditions imposed financial embarrassment on the farmers, the Secretary said:

"The farmers of the country, especially the West, might readily borrow money from their local banks if those institutions would rediscount some of the good agricultural paper now in their possession with the War Finance Corporation here in Washington. If the banks would resort to this procedure, they would be able to meet demands made upon them by farmers who actually need help, and who cannot be assisted under the Seed Appropriation Act."

THE CITY AND ENVIRONS.

Sunshine Club Dance.

The third annual dance of the Sunshine Club will be enjoyed on the evening of the 25th inst., in the Masonic Temple at Pico and Figueroa streets, according to announcement made yesterday. The proceeds will go to the Hebrew Sheltering and Home for Aged.

Suspect Jailed After Pastor Asks Inquiry

Following requests by Dr. Thomas O. Grieves of the Westlake Methodist Church and several women for investigation by the police of the Interchurch Publishing Company of St. Louis, Mo., Orie Lee, 32 years of age, who claims to be the local agent for the company, was locked in the City Jail early last night and charged with suspicion of grand larceny.

While no direct charge has as yet been placed against Lee, the man, according to Lieutenant of Detectives Toomey, has been operating in the city for a number of weeks and has had a score of agents soliciting orders from pastors and other persons of prominence in the local churches.

Police officials last night were unable to find any record of the publishing company for which Lee claims to be operating. Dr. Grieves, whose name, it is reported, was being given by Lee as a reference, Mrs. Myre D. McKay of Avenue 59 and Pasadena avenue, a Miss Homer of 435 Van Nuys Building and Edwin Williams of the Edwin Williams Photograph Gallery, Seventh and Bonnie Brae streets, asked the police to investigate Lee, who denies all guilt in his dealings.

From Mrs. Marie L. Pfagu of 2600 West Eighth street, one of Lee's agents, Lieut. Toomey learned that Lee was paying his agents $6.50 a day and that the solicitors were turning in as high as $50 each a day.

Plan California Social Conclave in Meeting Here

The forthcoming California Conference for Social Work, which will open at San Diego on the 25th inst., was the principal topic of discussion yesterday at the luncheon of Los Angeles county social welfare w orkers in the Union League Club.

Among the speakers were Mayor Cryer, Dr. Howard B. Bard, manager of the San Diego Open Forum; Dr. Edward A. Steiner, immigration authority; Mrs. Jessie Reschfield of the British Labor party, Dr. John R. Haynes of the County Welfare Commission, and Dr. E. J. Lickley of the Social Service Commission.

"The conference will be in the hands of Los Angeles county for the most part," said Dr. Bard, "as five out of seven departments are headed by Los Angeles county residents. These are: Mrs. Herbert A. Cable, industrial section; Edward B. De Groot, recreation; Mrs. O. Shepard Barnum, educational; Dr. Miriam Van Waters, family and child welfare, and Dr. Harold J. Williams, delinquency."

Rich Resident of Lankershim Sued by Wife

Charging Loring Alton Redden, wealthy resident of Lankershim, with refusing to employ adequate household help while she was ill, Mrs. Della Corine Redden yesterday filed suit for divorce and $250 a month alimony. She also charges that he entered her sick room, after the doctor had stated that excitement might prove fatal, and told her falsely her brother's child had been run over and killed.

She asks $250 a month alimony and the custody of their five children—Laura, 15 years old; Louis, 12; Thomas, 10, and Arthur and Ernest, twins, 7 years old.

DENIED .. ALIMONY .. AND .. "BROKE"

Actor's Wife Sobs Marital and Monetary Woes

Mrs. Gertrude Robinson Kirkwood

MRS. GERTRUDE ROBINSON KIRKWOOD, wife of James C. Kirkwood, cinema actor, was denied alimony by Judge Hahn yesterday when he held that a property settlement under which she received $5500, was valid.

Mrs. Kirkwood, very much agitated, broke down and wept on the witness stand. She declared she did not have a cent.

After their separation in 1917, one year after their marriage, Mrs. Kirkwood testified that Mr. Kirkwood telephoned her at Hollywood and asked her to see him. She remained all night. The following morning he told her he was going to have a man and two girls for dinner that night and wanted her to go back to her home. Deeply humiliated by this, Mrs. Kirkwood said she never returned again to her husband. She was represented by Attorney Bradner W. Lee, Jr.

Mr. Kirkwood was in court, but did not testify. He was represented by Attorneys Clark and Law. Mrs. Kirkwood charges her husband with cruelty, saying that he drank and struck her.

Lend Artistry to Assist Our Tiny Cripples

Happy dreams were enjoyed by the crippled children of the Orthopedic Hospital last night, for while they slept an exceptional benefit performance, through which a fund of several thousand dollars was realized for them, was presented at Philharmonic Auditorium by a score of prominent artists under the auspices of the Assistance League.

The benefit consisted of a number of piano solos by Lester Donohue, including selections by Liszt, Rachmaninoff, De Falla, Bortkiewicz and Dohnanyi; a series of dances by Frederic Ko Vert, Mlle. Bessee, Andre Bayley, Doris Cleveland and Tyrene Crouch; baritone solos by Philip Ryder; a playlet, "The Basket From Tangier," with Pauline Frederick, motion-picture star, Louise Dresser, Jack Gardner, Stanley Wyld and George Probert; readings from Shakespeare by R. D. MacLean, and dances by the Tytle Twins.

Music compositions were composed for the benefit performance by Louis La Rondelle.

Exhibits Pour Into Children's Display Rooms

More than 10,000 of the school and individual children's exhibits began pouring into Exposition Park yesterday, the opening day scheduled for the school children of Los Angeles to bring their handiwork to the big tents, which have been erected to house the children's exposition.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday were the three days scheduled for all exhibits to be delivered to Exposition Park, with the exception of the domestic science and live-stock entries, which will be received as late as noon Saturday, the opening day. All other exhibits, however, must be at the park not later than Wednesday evening, in order to be properly tagged, indexed and placed on display. Nearly 40,000 entries representing that many school children have been made, and will be actual demonstrations of the twentieth century methods of child development and education in vogue in Los Angeles.

To avoid confusion, automobiles conveying exhibits to the park should use the entrance at Santa Barbara avenue and Hoover street, then driving directly across the race track.

Official headquarters of Robert E. Wells, director-general, were transferred yesterday from 213 South Broadway, to Exposition Park, and a bulletin has been issued to all entrants asking that exhibits be brought direct to him via the Santa Barbara avenue and Hoover street entrance.

SHOTS INVESTIGATED

Two Reports Heard Near Mrs. Anita Baldwin's Ranch

Two shots fired in the vicinity of the ranch of Mrs. Anita Baldwin, near Arcadia, at 4 o'clock yesterday morning caused alarm about the neighborhood. Deputy Sheriffs Fox and Nolan investigated and reported to Sheriff Traeger that the manager of the ranch did not take the affair seriously. It was reported that no one was held up, as at first thought, and no one reported seeing the person who fired the shots.

RED MONTH IN CRIME IS SHOWN

Loss Near Two Millions, Police Report Says; New Burglary Record

Crime cost citizens of Los Angeles close to $2,000,000 in loot and property damage during March, according to figures compiled yesterday by Police Statistician L. W. Lyons.

The estimate of loot in 850 burglaries, 800 larceny cases, eighty-seven hold-ups, and numerous automobile thefts, pickpockets and other depredations, together with the damage to property, totals $1,732,900.

There were thirty-five suicides during the month, as compared with nineteen in February. The number of persons injured in traffic accidents climbed to 547, as compared with 505 the month previous; and twenty-one persons were killed in accidents, a decrease of four on the February total. A total of 3166 accidents was recorded.

Traffic deaths for the first three months of 1922 totaled seventy-five, an increase of twelve over the first three months of 1921. There were eleven homicides during March, a considerable increase; and a total of twenty-eight homicides since January 1.

The total number of arrests for March was 6344, an increase of 825 over February, and a decrease of 939 under March, 1921. Of this number 793 were for drunkeness, an increase of thirty-eight over February, and of 418 over March, 1921.

The total of 850 burglaries breaks all police records for one month, constituting an increase of 210 over February and of 415 over March, 1921.

March, in all, was a "red month," wih its cost of crime, record of thirty-five suicides, record of eleven murders, record of 850 burglaries, high number of traffic deaths, increase in intoxication and arrest of ninety-six dope fiends, the report says.

FINE, BAIL RECORD SET

Breaking all previous records fines and bail forfeitures in Police Judge Chambers's court during the month of March totaled $25,506, according to Urban Emme, clerk of the court. This sum was derived from 2780 cases handled during the twenty-three court days and, according to Emme, exceeded revenues of previous months by several thousands of dollars.

SAYS PLAZA INEVITABLE DEPOT SITE

Superintendent of Banks Dodge Writes Favoring Griffin Civic Center Plan

It is inevitable that the Los Angeles union railroad station be located at the Plaza, says former Supervisor Jonathan S. Dodge, now State Superintendent of Banks, in a letter received yesterday by City Engineer Griffin. The City Engineer has prepared plans for a civic center to be located north of First street. The plan includes the present county buildings, the new Hall of Justice, the Postoffice and Federal buildings, and a City Hall to be built facing the new park which will be created in front of the Plaza depot. The City Engineer's civic center plans are now under consideration by the City Planning Commission. Of these plans Superintendent of Banks Dodge wrote from San Francisco to Maj. Griffin as follows:

"It has pleased me very much that you have taken up the question of a civic center, and I hope that you may interest your city in some effective work. I spent a great deal of work and energy on what seemed to me the proper location of a civic center, but so far as I could judge I never received any encouragement from the city fathers.

"You are on the right track, and if this civic center can be arranged at this time, it will save the necessity of doing the work at some future date. It is inevitable that the depot must be at the Plaza, and the civic center must be between the depot and the business section.

"If I can be of any assistance to you, I shall be very happy indeed.

"Assuring you of my good wishes, I remain sincerely,

"Superintendent of Banks."

MAY DIE AS RESULT OF NOT SEEING CAR

Asserted to have walked into the path of an outbound Pacific Electric train for San Pedro, Jack Wainwright, residing at the Worth Hotel, was probably fatally injured at Fourteenth street and Long Beach Boulevard.

According to witnesses, the man stepped from an outbound Watts car, directly in the way of the San Pedro train. He was hurled approximately thirty feet. He received a basal skull fracture, rib fractures and internal injuries. Receiving Hospital surgeons said he had little chance for recovery.

GUN-TOTING GIRL JAILED; PAYS FINE

Young Woman Looking for Sweetheart Checks Pistol at Dance Hall

"Check this please," said Miss Bobbie Lamar at a Seventh-street dance hall and she dug out of her silk depository one large, black mean-looking revolver.

"What!" said the pretty young pink-cheeked attendant.

"Check it!" insisted Miss Lamar, "and here's my hat and coat."

And on a nail was hung Miss Lamar's pistol, her hat and coat, while the young woman herself tripped into the ballroom, where she danced merrily.

There was a buzz of comment among the attaches of the place, who wondered whether it was an honest-to-goodness pistol. Then they began to examine it. Some one pulled the trigger and it went —Bang!

A bullet tore through the wall of the room, and the dancers stopped dancing.

Bobbie Lamar rushed to the check-room, very angry, indeed.

"Who has been shooting my pistol?" she demanded.

And at that a large policeman hove into view, to inquire why and wherefore. Later, the officer appeared before Assistant City Prosecutor McConnell, at the City Hall, to inquire if the laws, ordinances and statutes prohibit young women from wandering about with pistols on their persons.

"Certainly," said Mr. McConnell.

"This is a lively age in which we live, and flappers have acknowledged rights that must make their grandmothers turn over in their graves, but this wild West stuff won't go in Los Angeles. Have a complaint on me, and start the young lady toward the jug."

In due course of time, Miss Bobbie Lamar appeared before Police Judge Fredericksson, where she was formally charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

"Fifty dollars," said the judge, "or fifty days in jail."

Now wouldn't that make a pretty young flapper angry? It did, and Miss Lamar said she wouldn't pay the old fine, so there!

And then they took her off to jail, mean old policeman, mean old judge.

But one day was enough for Miss Bobbie Lamar. "I am through," she said to the exceedingly mean old jailer, who had declined, to ring the bell for a recess, and let Bobbie go and play in the dance halls. "Here's your old $49! I don't like your old jail!" And as she handed over the money, the iron gates swung open, and Miss Bobbie Lamar flounced back to Seventh street. But before she went the mean old jailer asked her a question:

"Lady, what were you totin' that gun of yours around for, anyway?"

"Well," said Bobbie, adjusting her hair, "it was this way. I had a sweetheart, and I am looking for him, and—say, what's that your business?" And exiting most indignantly, Miss Bobbie Lamar went away from there.

Jill the Ripper is Active Again, Victim Says

The "ripper maniac" was slashing again late yesterday.

Mrs. T. B. Lopas, 344 North Breed street, reported to police that a woman standing near her on a crowded Brooklyn-avenue street car, slashed her clothes in five places with a knife.

This is the eleventh case of "Jill, the Ripper," reported to police. Mrs. Lopas was standing in the aisle. She believes that a woman who was seated near by ripped her skirt. Detective Sergeants Tom O'Brien, Yarrow and Mailheau were detailed to investigate the case.

PENNIEPECKERS MAKE THE GRADE

Push Perambulator to Top of Precipitous Mt. Wilson

Howard Penniepecker, a sixteen-months-old Pasadena baby, rode up the Mt. Wilson road in a baby carriage during the recent week-end. The baby carriage was propelled alternately by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Penniepecker, who are enthusiastic hikers. They decided not to let the youth of little Howard keep them at home. So they donned their hiking costumes, put Howard in the baby buggy and started out. It took them five and one-half hours to go to the top. They returned in three hours. They say the baby enjoyed the trip.

MAYOR ADVISES SEWAGE PUMPS

Urges Capacity Increase at Light Expense

Council Finds Treasury is Shy of Funds

City's Lawmakers Discuss Chances of Jail

Following a conference yesterday with Engineer of Sewers Knowlton and City Attorney Stephens on the sewage situation, Mayor Cryer said:

"In view of the nearly two-thirds vote against the outfall sewer bonds last June, I doubt very much if the proposed $12,800,000 sewer bond issue proposed for the August primary election will carry. With opinion divided as to whether the city should build a new outfall to the ocean or should construct an activated sewage treatment plant, I doubt if the bonds will carry. And, then, if they failed, the city would be just as bad off as it is today.

"Now, as a practical way out of the situation, I am of the opinion that the suggestion that force pumps be installed in the present outfall sewer to increase its capacity should be tried. The cost of these pumps would be comparatively small. Engineers say that these pumps would increase the capacity of the present sewer from its ninety second feet to 130 or 150 second feet, and as the maximum demand on the sewer at its peak load is now 110 second feet, the present sewer would be sufficient and there would be no necessity for digging a large reservoir to hold our present excess of 1,300,000 gallons daily.

THE SECOND STEP

"As a second step to be taken immediately, I believe that a bond issue of, say, $500,000 and not to exceed $1,000,000 for the construction of the first unit of an activated sludge treatment plant would carry. This plant could be built so that the clarified effluent could be turned into Ballona Creek, or carried through open ditches and used as fertilizer on the land, as I am informed is done successfully in various cities. Even Hermosa Beach, with the ocean right at hand, does not turn its sewage into the sea, but pumps it onto agricultural land for fertilizing purposes. This plant would also be a test of the practicability of the extension of this system to other parts of the city by the construction of other units.

"If this $500,000 or $1,000,000 bond issue is voted I would recommend that some of the money be used for the immediate construction at Hyperion of a fine screening plant, at the present exit of our outfall sewer, so that the solids in the sewage could be screened out and burned. Then the remainder could be sent far into the ocean through fine nozzles on the bed of the sea, and with the screening plant and the nozzles in operation, I am confident that the nuisance long complained of by the beach cities would be removed."

CONFERENCE PLANNED

Mayor Cryer said that he hoped soon to call a conference of the various organizations and individuals interested in the sewer situation in the hope of reaching an agreement on a program.

The Mayor called attention to the fact that the Board of Education will ask in June for approval for a $17,000,000 schoolhouse bond issue, the fire department hopes that a $2,000,000 bond issue for additional fire-houses, signal boxes and engine equipment will be placed before the voters soon, as does the Board of Public Service Commissioners for a water works improvements and extensions bond issue of $5,000,000.

The Mayor is therefore planning to call a conference soon of all the boards interested in school, fire department, water and sewer bonds, to agree as to the amounts of these issues and the times for them to be placed before the voters so that in the end the practical result will be that they will be so arranged as to time of voting and the amounts so fixed that there will be no conflicts and all of them will stand a good chance of being approved.

FUNDS LACKING

Old Mother Hubbard, who went to the cupboard to get her poor dog a bone, was in the same predicament as the members of the City Council, who yesterday went into executive session to dig up $500,000 or so to build a storage reservoir and a treatment plant, to comply with Superior Court Judge J. P. Wood's ruling that after May 29 the city must cease dumping sewage into Ballona Creek.

Old Mother Hubbard's cupboard had nothing on the city treasury when it came to emptiness, the Councilmen discovered, and so while they are willing to obey the court's injunction and even adopt City Engineer Griffin's recommendations for carrying out the court's remedial suggestions, the city, so the Councilmen soon found, had no money with which to do the work.

"We must deal with this situation right away," said Councilman Mallard, chairman of the Council's health and sanitation committee. "We must comply with the court's order."

WHERE TO GET MONEY

"All right," said President Criswell, "but where is the money to come from?"

"The city's present outfall sewer is now overflowing 1,300,000 gallons a day," said City Engineer Griffin, and he expressed the belief that the constant increase in population of Los Angeles will make this excess flow 9,500,000 gallons next year. He asked the City Council for an appropriation of $102,000 to dig a sewage reservoir in the block bounded by Rodeo Road, Second avenue, Arlington street and the Southern Pacific Air Line Railroad in the southwestern part of the city, with a capacity of 3,000,000 gallons, to hold the ex-

GETS AMMONIA FOR COURT JOB

Bailiff Aguirre Asks Aid in Reviving Many Fainting Women

Martin Aguirre, bailiff of Judge Shenk's court, yesterday surprised the county purchasing department by putting in a requisition, through the court, for smelling salts and ammonia. He explained that as officer of the court he has to revive at least one woman a week.

To prove his statement, Mr. Aguirre had occasion to revive Mrs. Phillip H. Orr, the wife of a defendant who yesterday was discharged by the court after two trials.

The bailiff, who formerly was warden of San Quentin prison, during several years in local courts has revived many persons overcome by the strain of attending trial.

DOG'S LOVE WINS CASE FOR OWNER

'Twas Pedigreed Bull's Son, Not "Defendant," That Started Fuss

This is a tale of mother love with a doggish twist.

Last week Joy Eaton, Jr., pedigreed Boston brindle bull, was summoned as "evidence" when her mistress, Mrs. Alma Taylor Eaton, member of the prominent Taylor family of Los Angeles, was accused of being the owner of a vicious dog.

The case was scheduled to be heard yesterday afternoon before Police Judge Fredericksson, with Mrs. S. R. Anderson, 918 North Normandie avenue, as complaining witness.

But, it developed before the case was called, that the miscreant was not Joy. It was, in fact, Joy's son, a 9-months-old bulldog who greatly resembles his mother. It seems that the rollicking young son had gone to visit his mother, and, in a boyish exuberance, had barked loudly and snapped at the skirts of several women.

Joy knew all about it, according to Mrs. Eaton, but, like mothers the whole world over, kept silent and chose to take the blame. When Mrs. Anderson and Judge Fredericksson heard the facts they were so touched by the example of motherly devotion, they decided to dismiss the case.

"Wuff-wuff-grr-r-rr. Ki-yi!" exclaimed Joy when she heard the glad news. Translated by Mrs. Eaton, this meant: "Pshaw! It was nothing. Any mother would have done the same."

Huntington's Estate Goes to Children

Leaving his entire estate, estimated at more than $1,000,000, to his six children, the will of Howard Huntington of Pasadena, son of Henry Huntington, traction magnate, who died on March 27, last, was filed for probate yesterday.

The will, dated May 11, last, names the widow, Mrs. Leslie G. Huntington, as sole administratrix of the estate. Nothing is left to the widow in the will, she being amply cared for during life and the owner of several pieces of real estate of value in her own right.

The six children are Elizabeth, 18 years old; Margaret, 14; Harriett 12; Howard, Jr., 8; Leslie Alice, 5, and Henry Edward II, 1.

The petition of the widow for letters of administration states that the estate is composed of real estate, stocks, bonds and personal property, valued in excess of $10,000."

BRIDGE IS URGED

The city was urged to build a brdige over the gulley on Crenshaw boulevard between Pico and Eleventh streets in a communication received at the City Hall from Edward Arnaelsteen of 613 East Washington street. Several automobile accidents have been caused by the deep gulley there, Mr. Arnaelsteen stated.

FRAMED UP CASE, SAYS FILM STAR

Seena Owen Charges Fraud in Suit for Divorce from George Walsh, Actor

Seena Owen, cinema star, in private life Signe Auen Walsh, wife of George Walsh, cinema actor, fought a portion of the first round of her divorce suit in Judge Summerfield's court yesterday. The hearing became more than an attempt to obtain alimony. It developed that Mrs. Walsh, who made her first appearance in a court, is seeking to set aside a property agreement between Mr. Walsh and herself on the ground of fraud, suggesting a divorce frame-up. Under this settlement which she signed at the Plaza Hotel, New York City, she received $5000 and waived all claims to any other property.

She testified that she called on her husband at the Plaza and saw him reading a letter. While he was absent from the room, she picked it up and declared it was addressed to the "Dearest Boy of My Heart." She asked him about it upon his return and was told it was from "a friend."

"He had told me before this incident that he was in love with some girl. He said he wanted to get a divorce," she stated.

HAD LITTLE TUSSLE

Mr. Walsh, she said, had a little tussle with her for possession of the letter, but she ran into the bathroom and locked the door. Then softened her signing of the property agreement and she asserted she was to write a letter, the purport of which was to provide him ground for divorce on the ground of desertion. This letter was written, she stated, in Mr. Walsh's lawyer's office. The letter dated 1919, was offered in evidence and was as follows:

"Dear George: In May, 1918, we were living together at the Plaza Hotel, New York City, and came to the conclusion as you know that I could be happier in living apart from you than with you. Going on that decision I left alone for California to live my life as I thought best.

"During that time while you and I were apart, I had a great deal of time to ponder over the matter, whether it was fair or unfair, on my part. But believe me, I am sincere when I say that I am more than convinced that my action in leaving you was the proper thing for me to do. I realize more than you know that you have done everything in your power to make me happy, and I'm only sorry, so terribly sorry, that our marital affairs have ended as they have."

WRITTEN IN 1918

Mrs. Walsh declared that this letter was written in 1918, but dated 1919.

Mr. Walsh, on the stand, denied that there had been any purported frame-up for him to get a divorce. He did not remember ever having received a "Dearest Boy of My Heart" letter. He declared that he had loved his wife, and had

CASHIER DENIES VAULT ROBBERY

Victor H. Rossetti Declares Bank Lost Nothing

Says Ninety Thousand Did Not Disappear

State Bank Examiner May Investigate Case

Much mystery was injected yesterday into the circumstances surrounding the reported theft of $90,000 from the vaults of the Farmers' and Merchants' National Bank by the flat denials of Victor H. Rossetti, vice-president and cashier of the institution, that there is any truth to the report or that there has been any theft or any recovery of the money. He further stated that there has been no loss and that no one has suffered anything.

Following the official statement by Mr. Rossetti it was learned that the Firman Detective Agency has been working on the case for some time and that another detective agency participated in the investigation after the fundamental facts in the strange case had been brought to light.

That the whole mystery may be investigated by the State officials was indicated late yesterday when it was stated at the office of the State Bank Examiner here that no report of any loss had been made to the office by the Yokohama Specie Bank, said to be the institution whose funds were in the deposit box reported rifled.

ATTORNEY SILENT.

Paul Loewenthal, of the firm of Loewenthal, Collins & Loewenthal, attorney for the Yokohama Specie Bank, stated that he had no statement to make at this time. His refusal to discuss the reported loss of his client came after a telephone conference with Mr. Rossetti.

Mr. Loewenthal said that the only thing he could say was that his client bank has not lost any money, and that so far as he knew the matter was a closed incident.

The Yokohama Specie Bank is a State bank and its deposits in another bank, if any were made, would come under the scope of the State Bank Examiner's authority, it was said.

The report, denied in full by Vice-President Rossetti, is that the sum of $90,000 in currency was left by the Yokohama bank in a safety-deposit box at the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank several weeks ago. The $90,000 disappeared without a trace.

That most of the money had been recovered and that a considerable part of it was still missing were the conflicting reports obtained yesterday.

"The whole affair is a comedy of errors and is not of public concern," was Mr. Rossetti's answer when asked what truth there was in the report. "There is no loss, the Yokohama bank has not lost

The People and Their Daily Troubles

DOROTHY DIX TALKS

Husband Hunting

BY DOROTHY DIX

I get a great many letters from women who are sitting on the anxious bench of the late thirties and early forties, asking my opinion as to the advisability of securing a husband by answering the advertisements in some matrimonial paper of a man who says that he is handsome, wealthy and has a kind disposition, but is lonely and desires a congenial mate.

I never know whether to laugh or cry over these letters. It is so ridiculous to think that anyone is credulous enough, and unsophisticated enough, not to realize that any man who is fit to marry does not have to waste any money on advertising for a wife. There are too many he could get for the asking. And it is so pitiful to think that any woman so longs for a husband and home of her own that she is willing to shut her eyes and grab one in the dark.

Heaven knows a woman takes enough risks when she marries a man whose antecedents she knows, and whose peculiarities of character and indisposition she has studied. This being the case, we can only marvel at the foolhardiness of one who takes, for better or worse, a gentleman she never saw before she met him at the altar, and whom she recognizes by his wearing a red carnation in his buttonhole as the Romeo of the Matrimonial Gazette.

Of course all such marriages almost invariably turn out disastrously for the woman. She hasn't even a sporting chance at happiness in such a union, yet women who are old enough and intelligent enough to know better, seriously consider advertising for a husband when they can get one no other way.

Nowhere else is society more unjust and illogical than in its attitude toward the husband hunter Nature made matrimony woman's foreordained business in life, and all the teachings of all the centuries have impressed on the feminine mind that a woman finds her greatest career, her truest happiness, and her sweetest reward in the holy estate. The very toys that are given to girl babies, the dolls, the miniature tables, and dishes, and chairs, are intended to turn their youthful fancies toward the babies and real furniture they are taught to look forward to having some day in homes of their own.

Having thus made marriage the aim and ambition of a woman's life, we not only forbid her to go and get the things she wants, but we are schocked and horrified when she even admits that she desires it. We think it natural, and even commendable, when a maddie-aged man says that he is lonesome; and tired of living in hotels and clubs, and that he wants to marry and set up a home of his own, and that he is looking around for a suitable wife. But la, la, when a middle-aged woman says that she is lonely and tired of being by herself and that she would like to have some man to cook for, and fuss over, we mock and ridicule her!

All that the woman who wants to marry can do is to sit around and look willing, which in many cases doesn't get her anywhere, for men are purblind creatures who are very apt to overlook the best matrimonial bets. When a woman is young and pretty and striking looking, she may catch some roving masculine eye and find favor in it, but it is purely a matter of luck, for no human being knows what quality it is that makes a man take to some particular woman. Even holy writ sets down the way of a man with a maid as one of the unsolvable mysteries of existence.

Now, one of the things that every woman knows is that if women were permitted by custom to do their husband-hunting openly, instead of by stealth, there would be not only a great many more marriages, but happier ones. For women are wiser in matters of the heart than men are, and many a woman knows that she would make exactly the sort of wife that a certain man needs, and that he and she would be perfectly happy together, if only he had sense enough to marry her.

But he hasn't. He never notices her. He never gets really acquainted with her. She just passes, as one in a crowd, across his horizon, and our idiotic conventions do not permit her to go up to him and say, "You poor simp, don't you see I'm just the wife you need? Come with me to the parson, and we will live happily ever after."

Why, when we say that propinquity is a great match-maker, we merely mean that circumstances have given some woman her chance to put herself on the map for some particular man. The reason that so many widowers marry their first wife's relative, or her best friend is because the women sold themselves to them, as the commercial phase goes, and they knew just how charming and lovely the ladies were.

It will take at least two generations more before women achieve the woman's greatest right—a right which is of far more importance to them than the right to vote, and that is the privilege of popping the question. In the meantime, they must still do their husband hunting on the sly, and so to the middle-aged women who wants to marry, I would give this piece of advice:

Remember that with men, familiarity breeds indifference. The men in any community can lock at a woman until she becomes as familiar as a lamp post, and creates no more thrill, or interest, in their bosoms. Therefore, remove yourself hence. Get you some good clothes, and seek some place where you will be a novelty, and, enough risks

Question: What does a cubic foot of snow weigh and what snow load is considered in building?

W. O. C.

Answer: According to an engineering manual, one cubic foot of fresh snow, depending upon the humidity of the atmosphere, weighs from five to twelve pounds. One cubic foot of snow moistened and made compact by rain weighs from fifteen to fifty pounds. In snowy localities, the minimum snow load per horizontal square foot of roof should be considered as twenty-five pounds for slope up to 20 deg. For each degree increase in slope up to 45 deg., this load may be reduced one pound. About 45-deg. slope, no snow load may be considered. In specially severe climates, this allowance should be increased in accordance with actual conditions.

Q.: Is the name teetotum new?

J. J.

A.: This toy is very old. Originally it was used for games of chance, was four-sided, and on one side bore the letter T, standing for the Latin totum (all,) meaning take all the stakes.

Q.: Did the American delegates to the Conference on Limitation of Armament receive many letters from people expressing opinions on the subject of armament?

G. H.

A.: The New Republic says that the extent to which public opinion expressed itself to the American delegates was indicated by the 13,500,000 messages received in Washington.

Q.: How is tonnage computed?

P. O. D.

A.: Multiply together the length, breadth and depth, multiply this product by 0.75 and divide by 100. LxBxDx0.75—100—tonnage.

Q.: How long do turtles live?

N. S. T.

A.: There is a giant tortoise in the New York Zoo whose age is computed to be 300 years. It has attained a weigh of 300 pounds.

Q.: How rapidly is the death rate among Civil War veterans increasing?

M. N. F.

A.: In 1888 there were 4423 deaths in the Grand Army of the Republic, which amounted to 1.18 per cent of the membership of 372,960. In 1920 the membership was 93,171, and the deaths were 9301 to 10 per cent of the membership.

Q.: Does hot water freeze quicker than cold water?

G. McC.

A.: Chemically, pure water freezes more quickly than water that contains impurities. Water that has been boiled and cooled will freeze more quickly than water that has not been.

Q.: What does the slang term, "a quarter horse," mean?

P. R. K.

A.: A "quarter horse" is a term applied to an individual who can make spectacular records, but cannot be relied upon for a good steady pace in his undertakings. The term was originally used on the race course, meaning a horse in a race who was capable of terrific speed for a short distance such as one-quarter of a mile and who ended the other three-quarters of the mile at greatly reduced speed.

Q.: In the West Point class where Robert E. Lee ranked second, who ranked first?

U. S. M.

A.: Charles Mason stood first in the class of 1829 in which Robert E. Lee stood second.

Q.: Who had charge of the Philadelphia Centennial?

E. A.

A.: Joseph R. Hawley was president of the commission and Alfred T. Goshorn was director-general of the Philadelphia Centennial or World's Fair.

Q.: Did the fact that a man had an ear cut off, cause a war?

J. E. H.

A.: The War of Jenkins Ear was the popular name given to the war between Spain and Great Britain in 1739, which was occasioned partly by the tortures undergone by Robert Jenkins, a ship captain, at the hands of the Spaniards. This outbreak was merged into the War of the Austrian Succession.

Q.: What are Very Lights?

R. T.

A.: Lights used to signal between airplanes or stations, or between the ground and airplanes, when a code is prearranged are known as Very Lights, as are also flares used for illuminating the enemy's position.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Remember the Children.

LOS ANGELES, March 29.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Before all the lots are sold in the new additions to the city let us stop and think. Beautiful houses and grounds and no place for the children to play. Where are the little parks that open up a vista now and then? Where are the bits of beauty we all yearn for? In this city above all, where nature is so lavish, we are so lacking in children's play-grounds. Blocks of buildings, rows of bungalows, walled-in private gardens are a plenty, but we do not possess a public-spirited philanthropist who will donate a single block for the little park.

Subdivisions all platted but no arrangement for a general use of a bit of ground where the mothers can oversee the children play.

In my own neighborhood a charming group of youngsters were chased off the street for playing ball, chased off the lawns as they tried a game and in despair they gave up. Small wonder they are driven to pool halls, movies, questionable resorts where they are welcomed.

Let the names of the well known realtors be preserved in parks and playgrounds as well as in subdivisions.

MRS. E. T. ADAMS.

Suggests Location.

LOS ANGELES, March 27.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Permit a suggestion as to the location of the much-needed municipal auditorium.

The essentials are: ample space, convenience of access by both private and public conveyance or on foot; in the path of the city's expansion; adjacent to the broader streets, and not immediately in the congested portion of the city.

Such a site is the new vacant half block, 300 by 330 feet in area, bounded by Figueroa, Flower and Eleventh streets.

Immediately adjacent to this beautiful level lot on three sides, are three of the longest and most largely patronized street car lines in the city, namely, the West Eleventh and Lincoln Park line on Eleventh street, University and Central avenue line on Figueroa street, and the West Washington and Garvanza line on Flower street, each of which is many miles in length and the three touch a very large proportion of the city's area.

In addition to these there are three more of the more important lines of the city, each within two blocks of this site on three different sides, namely, the West Ninth street line on the north, the West Pico on the south and the Grand avenue on the east.

With these six car lines affording easy access to the spot, every portion of the city would be in ready touch with the auditorium by public conveyance, an exceedingly important consideration and one which cannot be duplicated.

The location is in the path of the city's chief expansion, is not surrounded by high buildings, but by buildings of a presentable appearance; offers sufficient space for a commodious structure and ample space for parking purposes; may be entered from three different streets; is almost a perfect square, and faces on the west what is conceded to be the leading avenue of travel for the future city, namely, Figueroa street.

This splendid avenue, the broadest in the city, not only extends indefinitely southward, but will doubtless be extended and widened northward to make direct connection with Pasadena.

Could a more suitable site than this be found for our much-needed auditorium?

MELVILLE DOZIER.

Not Up to Standard.

GLENDALE, April 1.—To the Editor of The Times:] Woman keenly sympathizes with the near and immediate. She stands in awe of authority. Compared with man, she lacks foresight, courage, a high sense of justice, and the ability to arrive at logical conclusions. That is to say, that woman is constitutionally deficient in those qualities which make a competent juror. Our jury system could be improved by doing away with two-syllabled jurors and allowing only men with the equivalent of a college education to sit on juries.

The greater the mental training, the greater the ability to reason and arrive at logical conclusions. The jury system could be still further improved by abolishing it altogether.

J. E. WITHERSPOON.

An Investment in Spirit.

LOS ANGELES, April 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Regarding the soldier's bonus bill, when it becomes a law and the country has faced about and accepted the additional strain upon the resources of the country, there is no guaranty that the bill will not be still bitterly opposed by certain very sincere people who would resent their motives impugned. This will make itself felt in most instances by a silent protest and a grudging acquiescence to law. Still again there will be those who will show open resentment every time they see an ex-soldier enjoying his bonus benefit.

As a result a condition of thought affecting the bonus beneficiaries injuriously, creating inharmony, embracing his loved ones, causing mental and spiritual suffering, can but react upon the government.

I am writing today to appeal to all thinking people to remember his first duty is to analyze his own mental attitude and know that the results growing out of this bill will be the product of his own individual thinking about the bill, not only in his immediate environment, but the nation as a whole, regardless of his [illegible] meeting it.

anything and no one else did," he said.

"Is it true that the Yokohama bank had this money in the vault at your bank and that the money disappeared and was missing for a long time, and that a part or the whole of it was recovered late last week?" Mr. Rossetti was asked.

"It is not," he replied.

The original report, denied by Mr. Rossetti, was that the bank employee was a man who had been in service for years and that he was said to be a tool of a band of clever bank crooks who led the man into the affair.

REPORTS IN CONFLICT

The report gathered from outside sources was that when the loss of the money was discovered a thorough investigation of several employees of both banks was ordered. The system used in receiving visitors to the safety-deposit department also was investigated until the search for the money was narrowed down to a few suspects. The possibility that a gang of thieves or an innocent tool in their hands had obtained possession of the master key that opens the safety-deposit boxes or had held such a key long enough to make an impression and, thus, duplicates of it were under consideration.

The Farmers' and Merchants' bank is fully covered by insurance and any theft like that reported yesterday and denied by Mr. Rossetti would protect every depositor and stock holder in the institution.

A story tinged with romance and an amazing plot rivaling famous fiction tales of detective genius is said to be behind the strange affair. That the Firman Detectives had been working for him, and that he is the attorney for the Yokohama bank, were the only positive admissions made by Mr. Loewenthal yesterday.

"The entire matter is in the hands of Mr. Rossetti, and I shall have nothing to say," said Mr. Loewenthal. Max Loewenthal, head of the firm, is also in touch with the situation, and he, too, stated that he could not disclose the facts in the case because the bankers involved took the position that what had occurred is not a matter of public interest.

Mr. Paul Loewenthal refused either to affirm or deny that the Yokohama bank lost any money or that any restitution had been made to it.

told her he would not love any other woman than herself.

Mrs. Walsh was asked many questions about her earning capacity; how much she spent and how much it costs to maintain a child 6 years of age—her own daughter. She stated that her last salary had been $700 a week; that she had no property, and about $700 in the bank.

LONG REST ORDERED

Mr. Walsh has been paying her $50 a week for the support of their child. She says she injured her eyes in her last two pictures; has no position in view, and that her physician advised her to rest for from six months to a year.

Mr. Walsh stated on the stand that since their separation he has given his wife approximately $28,000 for her own use. He also gave her a $900 fur coat.

Estelle Taylor, screen star, named in Mrs. Walsh's suit as the other woman, was an interested court spectator. She has pending a suit against Mrs. Walsh for $100,000, for defamation of character.

Wetherhorn, Hoyt and Jones represent Mrs. Walsh. Verge and Wilson are counsel for Mr. Walsh. The hearing will be resumed this morning.

Manacle Mail Thief Suspect in Courtroom

When Herbert Wilson and Herbert R. Cox, jointly charged with holding up and robbing the mail truck en route from the local postoffice to the Santa Fe station on the night of March 3, 1921, appeared in Judge Trippet's court yesterday, he was manacled to a fellow prisoner. Cox was not. It is evident that U. S. Marshal Walton is taking no chances with Wilson, who is believed to be a man who would embrace an opportunity to escape no matter how desperate.

Richard Kittrelle appeared for Wilson and Frank Allender for Cox. They will be tried together, and the trial date was set for May 16.

It is understood that the government has come into some important evidence recently in regard to the holdup, when drivers N. H. Grimes and Jesse R. Alexander were terrorized, and the truck they had in charge was robbed of almost $400,000 in cash, negotiable bonds and other securities.

"Clean Hands in Business"

[It is Thirsty Fibre (millions of him in each ScotTissue Towel) who absorbs four times his weight in water and is responsible for that essential, thirsty, absorbent quality found only in ScotTissue Towels.

"CLEAN Hands in Business"—What does that mean to you? What a wonderful thing it is that Thirsty Fibre stands for clean hands in business—both physically and morally. We are trying to make Thirsty Fibre and Clean Hands in Business mean the same to you and all who use ScotTissue Towels.

Thirsty Fibre personifies the spirit of Clean Hands in Business efficiency in your washroom. As Aladdin rubbed the lamp to bring forth the Geni at his bidding, so you have but to raise a ScotTissue Towel to your dripping face and millions of Thirsty Fibres are alert to serve you.

A ScotTissue Towel is not ordinate paper. Thirsty Fibre makes it a living impulse of absorbency—thirsty at the slightest contact with water. That is why ScotTissue Towels are so efficient, satisfying and pleasant to use and, that is why they are so economical, too.

ScotTissue is a real towel that really dries. Soft, white, comfortable—it is so different from all others that the imprinted ScotTissue on every ScotTissue Towel is really an unnecessary identification to the person who has once used them.

City Council Officer Urges Drive for Safety

BY ELVIN J. CURRY.

Of the Los Angeles Safety Council.

Persons killed in traffic, $111 and 1511 casualties in six months is the Los Angeles record that tells a horrible story that should arouse the conscience of every citizen of our city.

Were you one of the careless ones? If so, make a vow right now that you will never be guilty again. The poor man, woman or child who passed out, or who was merely injured, has either paid the penalty for his or her carelessness or was the innocent victim of some careless driver. Maybe you were responsible for one of these accidents by driving a car when you are not qualified to do so. If you were, quit driving right now or train yourself to be a good driver. If you are not qualified physically and mentally to drive a motor vehicle don't put yourself in a position where your brother's blood may be on your hands.

FAVORS STRONGER LAW

Driving a motor car of any kind is literally a dangerous thing, and it looks as though we must have a stringent law to get some people to realize it. I am strongly in favor of a law that will permit only the physically and mentally fit to secure a license to drive, and that will require the proper amount of training for each of them. Several of our cities have such a law and we must have it here.

The Los Angeles Safety Council is planning a campaign of education for the prevention of accidents. We are anxious to get the people thinking of the serious problem we have confronting us. We have all been too careless, and we all are. We need to make up our minds to realize what a different town there would be if we would change our minds on the problem and think together. The psychology of it is that if we think together we will more likely act together.

NATURALLY CARELESS

The pedestrians can also unite in this campaign and we plead for their help. Human beings are naturally careless. We can't keep from thinking and solving problems as we walk, so our bodies are walking along the streets while, figuratively speaking, our minds are thousands of miles away. You have bumped into some one, found yourself in the middle of the street, made a hurried face, or did some fool thing simply because your mind instead was running at a fast speed and you had completely lost control of your steering gear. The result is another motor run up a rampage. This is bad business on a busy street, or even on a quiet street that is likely to be split wide open at any second by a speed maniac. Remember the big car in a collision always has the advantage.

LOOK OUT FOR KIDDIES

Help us also to look out for the children. Three times this week as one day I drove past children playing ball in the streets. One little fellow had his back toward me, batting the ball. Whack! He made a strike. Down went the bat and with all his might he ran for the base. Had I not slowed down my car, probably I would have broken his bat and struck him. Later in the day, I saw a little girl playing with a large ball. It bounded from the sidewalk into the street, where there was heavy traffic. Just as she was about to rush thoughtlessly into the street after her ball I grabbed her by the arm and prevented her. She might have been killed or killed. Even though we are not able at the present time to have ample parks and playgrounds the children should be kept off the streets.

EDUCATION URGED

Every man and woman should help to educate children how to take care of themselves in every way, especially with regard to traffic accidents. The Los Angeles Safety Council through its committee on schools is introducing the Parker system for teaching safety methods to the children of our schools. Because of the hearty response of the teachers and the eagerness of the children to learn about taking care of themselves, and incidentally sometimes teaching their parents, we are very hopeful of good results. Traffic hazards and hazards other the children produce the majority of the accidents, but they are occurring almost hourly in the streets, in the industries and in many other ways. Through the voluntary service of many clubs and other organizations by means of various committees composed of men whose hearts are in this good work and who also are giving splendid service voluntarily, we hope to arouse the citizens of our great city to a realization that efforts to prevent all kinds of accidents and make our people safe is their work.

Conaway Enters Race in Third for Supervisor

Councilman Conaway yesterday formally announced his candidacy for County Supervisor from the Third Supervisor District, at the primaries to be held August 29. The Third District, which is now represented by Supervisor Hahn, embraces the territory bounded by Cahuenga Pass, Elysian Park, Wilshire boulevard and West Seventh street, and by the present city limits, and also includes six county precincts in which are situated Sherman and Beverly.

"Important matters," says Councilman Conaway in his campaign announcement, "affecting the district have come before the council during my three terms, and my vote has always been for economy and improvement." Councilman Conaway's headquarters are at 708 South Spring street.

DRESSING THE PART

They are making a dress fabric from the fiber of the banana leaves and fruit. This should be fine for a tobogganing costume.

WIRE OR WIRELESS?

It is now possible to send twelve different telegraphic messages over a single wire at the same time. But now that everybody is turning to wireless what's the use?

KEEPING HOURS

Under the new dispensation in Germany domestic servants are not to work more than thirteen hours a day. This gives them time to curl their hair and visit the movies.

OLD-TIMERS

One Louisville business house has had the same telephone number for forty years. Maybe the firm only thinks so. Perhaps nobody has been able to get central and find that the number has been changed.

THE GUN MEN

There were thirty-seven murders in the city of New York during the month of March. When it comes to the tragedy column Gotham is the foremost city of the world. London lags far behind when it comes to pistoling.

TESTIMONY OF ROCKS

The quarrymen and granite workers of the East are to operate hereafter under the open shop or American plan. It may be a trifle rocky for a while, but they figure that by leaving no stone unturned it will be best for all in the long run.

THE HOT SPOTS

Special thermometers have registered a temperature of 187 degrees in the open air and sun on the shores of the Persian Gulf. That is declared to be the highest natural temperature ever recorded. That would make a visit to the Imperial Valley like an afternoon in a refrigerating plant.

EXAGGERATED REPORTS

It appears once more that the death of Lenin is slightly overstated. The autocrat refutes with some vehemence the statement that his demise has reached the pall-bearer stage. On the other hand there are a lot of people in the world who insist that Lenin is dead, but doesn't know it.

WOMAN FOR A TOGA

The Democrats of Minnesota in conventions assembled indorsed a woman as their choice for the United States Senate to succeed Senator Kellogg. The lady is Mrs. Peter Oleson. That doesn't sound very statesmanlike, but you never can tell. Mrs. Pete Oleson may be a she Webster when occasion arises.

THE BRONZED APOLLOS.

Long Beach lifeguards must wear trousers except when in the water. They are not to loll on the beaches in their trunks or mingle with the maidens. They will have certain duties to perform and a definite amount of patrolling to do. They are to be useful and not merely ornamental. If that is to be the Spartan program it may be necessary to advertise for a new set of guards.

MAKING A RECORD

With an average of more than 1000 instruments filed each working day the Los Angeles County Recorder's office is making a high record for the country. They are all real, at that—real estate, in fact. There are a number of instruments of torture, such as mortgages, but in the main they are genuine dealings in dirt. The recorder's office does business from the ground up.

HIDE AND SEEK

Americans take good care of their women. They are not going to let them go hungry for neckpieces at any rate. There are now a lot of fox farms in the country where Reynards are being raised for their pelts. It is said that there are now over 20,000 silver foxes in captivity and the brush of a silver fox is worth as much as a wagonload of prunes. The ladies of America may not have to face the future with bared shoulders—unless fashion decrees it.

THE MIND READER

It is a French scientist who has invented the phrenoscope, a marvelous X-ray affair which the discoverer assures the world makes possible the reading of the human brain. If it is getting so that the professor can hold his spyglass against one's noodle and decipher his innermost thoughts it is time some of us were joining the church. If this phrenoscope develops into a practical device it will raise hob with the world. However, some other wise guy will doubtless save the day by inventing a thought-muffler which will effectually mask the evanescent meanderings of the human thinker. The phrenoscope should do duty in the movies. Have the villain sneak in at night with his terrible instrument and tap the brain foundry of the slumbering inventor. Or let the lover rest it caressingly against the dome of his sweetheart and learn exactly what she thinks of him. Let the burglar and bandit also unsuspectingly reveal the location of the buried treasure. The phrenoscope may be viewed with apprehension, but also with interest. Go to it, professor!

A POLITICAL STRIKE

Hard upon the strike of the unionized miners of the country comes their official demand, through the president, John L. Lewis, for the nationalization of the coal industry in the United States. It thus becomes apparent that, from its inception, the strike is a political rather than an economic one. It has not been called for the purpose of protecting the material interests of the miners, but as a means to a desired end, which is State Socialism. Unscrupulous persons with ulterior motives are making use of the organization effected through the miners' union for the purpose of Socialistic experiment.

An investigation has been started by a Congress committee, for the ostensible purpose of determining whether the differences between the miners and the operators can be composed by legislation. But if the country is to wait until Congress acts, if there is to be a truce to production until the two houses can agree upon something, the industries of the country will be forced to close and we shall have more unemployment than at any other time in the history of the country. Fuel is necessary to industry, and the fuel must come out of the earth. The union miners are said to be determined that they will neither mine coal themselves nor permit independent workers to mine it, until the mines are taken over by the government.

This is an appeal to force, not to reason. The union miners have united to hold up a basic industry. They are going to try to deprive millions of their fellow-workers of the means of acquiring a livelihood until the country surrenders to their demands and nationalizes the coal industry. To all reasoning persons it is apparent that they are demanding the impossible; but the situation is complicated by the fact that a majority of the union miners are too uneducated to know that the policy which they have adopted is doomed in advance to failure. They are not aware that they are trying to make the part greater than the whole, a thing that is impossible, either in nature or in industry.

Just a year ago the coal miners of Great Britain went on a strike to force the nationalization of the mines of that country. During the war the British mines were operated by the government, as were the railroads here. The miners demanded and received an increase of more than 100 per cent in wages, and a similar advance was made in the price of coal.

But it soon became apparent that the high price of coal could not be maintained. It made the cost of industrial production so high that hundreds of industries in Great Britain were forced to close and a million men were thrown out of employment. It also reduced the demand for British coal more than one-half; for coal was one of the chief articles of export of Great Britain and when the price was doubled foreign consumers found they could get it elsewhere for less. A brief experience was sufficient to prove that neither the miners of Great Britain nor the British government could fix the price of coal. Like the rate of exchange, the price was regulated by economic conditions in the world outside Great Britain.

None but the miners themselves were surprised when the strike failed. They had taken an oath that they would never sink another pick into a vein belonging to a private owner. But the urge of hunger and the misery of their dependents proved an irrefutable argument. They were at perfect liberty to work in the mines or to refrain from working. But they found themselves confronted by the alternative of mining coal or emigrating, and the majority of them chose to return to the mines. Necessity is the one logic which none in the world, high or low, can refute.

At the present time the union miners are making wage demands that the mining industry in this country cannot pay. While the rank and file of the miners are not aware of this fact, it is well known to the national leaders, who have evidently made the excessive demands in order to force the alternative of nationalization of the mines.

But the people of this country as a whole are not going to submit to the nationalization of the coal mines. They have no appetite for State Socialism. They know that nationalization would increase the cost of production; for it would mean that politicians would run the mines in place of experienced mine operators.

The leaders of the miners' union have asked for regulation of the mining industry by the government; and, to them, that means regulation of the operators and leaving a free hand to the miners' union. But they are probably unaware that they are treading on dangerous ground. The people of the country are awakening to the menace of unrestricted and unregulated organizations of workers in any industry. They know that organized labor can become as great a menace to the republic as organized capital.

The price of coal must fall in this country, along with the cost of other basic products; and that reduction cannot be made without a reduction in the wages of the miners. The independent miners, the ones who are free to think for themselves, have recognized this truth, and 1500 mines operated on the American plan are still producing. It is significant that these are the mines in which the majority of the workers are American born. The miners' union is strongest in the districts where the percentage of foreign-born miners is highest.

It is very possible that the strike will resolve itself into a contest between the American miners and those who are foreign born and unnaturalized. And it is also probable that the lesson of the failure of the strike, which is inevitable, will not be lost upon the foreign workers. It is perhaps a part of the process of Americanization.

THE AIR WE BREATHE

Now they are measuring the amount of oxygen we breathe and keeping a record of the same. The hospitals have the necessary apparatus for the proceeding. First thing we know some of the Napoleons of finance will be forming an air trust. They will be putting in individual meters and charging every mother's son of us for the air we breathe. If a man refuses to pay the price some plumber sent out by the company would drop in with his monkey wrench and shut off the air. Then the coroner's jury would bring in a verdict of suicide.

The Pied Piper

INVESTIGATING JURORS

Judge Reeve is to be commended for his dismissal of the entire panel of prospective jurors in the Burch case, when he learned that they had been secretly approached by detectives employed by the State. His act will lead to a consideration of the whole subject of the investigation of prospective jurors in criminal trials. Dist.-Atty. Woolwine told the Judge that he employed a private detective agency to make the investigation; but that it was not with the intent of influencing opinion. He considered it a necessary precaution to avoid a plant on the jury and a consequent mistrial.

But the statements made by members of the panel are to the effect that the investigators discussed the case with them and expressed strong conviction that the defendant was guilty. It is presumed that those who disagreed with them were reported back as unsatisfactory; but this has not yet been proved.

Secret investigation of a jury panel by the State can be justly defended only if the reports are made available to the Judge and to the defense. The whole object of such procedure is to secure honorable and unprejudiced jurors. It is an investigation made with public money; and to hold the result of that investigation as a secret document is taking an unfair advantage of one who, in the eyes of the law, must be presumed innocent until he is proved guilty.

In the very excess of zeal, prosecution by the State often degenerates into persecution of the individual. One of the rights of the defendant should be to know at least as much as the prosecution knows about the men and women who become the custodians of his liberty and possess the right either to turn him free or to condemn him to penal servitude or the gallows. Employing a private detective agency to investigate for the State is a doubtful expedient; for the District Attorney often has no means of knowing the kind of persons who are doing the investigating. If such procedure is to be justified, the investigation should be made by deputies in the employ of the State and their report should be held as a public, rather than a secret document.

SCIENTISTS AND MYSTICS.

While the Antigonish ghost has been effectually laid, the wonder still remains why the scientific world concerned itself with so vague a rumor. There was a time, and it is not many years removed, when the scientists paid not the slightest attention to psychic phenomena. They were not interested in old wives' tales. But the whole attitude of the scientific world has undergone a sudden change. The scientists now fall over each other to investigate anything approaching a psychic manifestation.

There is a vague feeling in the scientific world that we are on the threshold of the discovery of yet unknown forces. After electricity came radium and the wireless telephone. Now they have discovered symptoms of forces which they have not yet been able to locate or measure, but whose existence they have ceased to dispute.

Hypnotism and mesmerism have now their place in science, although the forces which control them have not yet been discovered. Medical research has evolved a theory that paternity can be determined by measuring the pulse beats; and there is another theory coming from this source which holds that love at first sight is not a fancy, but a physiological fact. Let a man and woman with pulse beats in unison meet, and although neither has spoken a word to the other, mutual fascination will take place. Let two with discordant pulses meet and a repulsion will be awakened that is easily fanned to fury.

Now comes Dr. Charles Russ with the discovery that a yet uncharted form of energy radiates from the human eye. Looking daggers is no longer a joke. In a laboratory experiment he has achieved a result which is reported as follows in the Portland Oregonian:

Dr. Russ suspended a delicate solenoid of mica in a glass vessel, to the outside of which metal plates were affixed, the plates being electrically charged. When the gaze of the subject was focused intently upon one end of the cylinder, the cylinder moved away from the eye; when the gaze was focused intently upon the other end it moved toward the eye, and when the center of the cylinder was gazed at it remained stationary. All normal causes of movement apparently had been eliminated, yet the result could not be explained on the basis of ascertainable data.

This demonstration of a hitherto unsuspected power of the eye is unimportant until an application can be found for it. But it demonstrates that the eye has another function besides vision. In addition to acting as a camera it can transmit something from the body to an exterior object. There is a distinction between simply looking and gazing intently. This distinction may explain what the Italians and Corsicans call "the evil eye." It may contain the germ of the secret of hypnotic force.

It is such surprising manifestations as this that cause the scientists now to investigate eagerly every reported phenomena, from either physical or psychical source. All the great advances of science have come from accidental discoveries. In searching for one thing the investigators finds he has stumbled upon something else.

Apparently the time has arrived when the word "impossible" will have to be eliminated from the dictionary as a misnomer. Curiously enough, it did not exist in the ancient French tongue and was borrowed from another language. It is recorded that when one of his officers once said "impossible" to Napoleon he responded, "Never say impossible. It is not French."

RIPPLING RHYMES.

DRUGS.

We buy punk drugs in large stone jugs, in bottles and in cases; to cure our ills we buy green pills and pour them in our faces. We drink brown suds distilled from buds, stovewood and water lilies, consume such dope and vaguely hope that it will cure the willies. The doctor romps thrpugh dismal swamps and gathers toadstools blooming, and makes a brew of mottled blue, for invalids' consuming. The learned men chase to every place, in search of drugs to cure us; they boil up rock, make pills of chalk, that they may reassure us.
The faith and hope we place in dope no knowledge ever throttles; what faith we have in pills and salve, and everything in bottles! The wise men say, "Throw drugs away, and you'll be feeling better than if you drink some bottled ink, or something worse and wetter. Eat wholesome food, like oatmeal stewed, go roostward with the chickens, quit chewing pills, and soon your ills will vanish like the dickens." The learned men speak, their wise words leak through lips that spring no folly; but all things sane give us a pain and cause us melancholy. We pin our hope on bottled dope, on pills in crates and baskets; we'll drink our drugs from flasks and jugs until we're in our caskets.

WALT MASON.

AMERICAN CASTE.

We used to smile in this country at the ridiculous Hindu who could polish silver, but could not wash china, because that was against his caste. No such nonsense in this country, said we. Americans were a practical people. We are learning more and more about the caste system. There are no longer handymen to be found—chaps who can come into your house and fix things up generally—jacks of all trades who are handy at them all. Nowadays if a nail is to be driven be sure to get someone whose business it is to handle a hammer. No wielder of a trowel could think of driving a nail.—[Johnstown Democrat.

Most women who think they could not live with a man who would smoke in the house pretty soon come to know that they cannot live with him if he does not smoke wherever he happens to be when the craving strikes him.

MUST WE, BY GOSH?

BY ALMA WHITAKER

I won't, I'll be sugared, if I will, so there. But what makes me so indignant is that I caught myself falling for it. By the time I had read half way down the column I was mentally culling all my old stockings and planning to devote hours, days, weeks of precious leisure making the frowsy old things into . . .

Oh, you know. It was one of those articles teaching us how to be good and thrifty wives and, specifically, how to salvage our old socks and stockings into heaven only knows what spurious and unnecessary articles—by the mere outlay of time—TIME—the most precious capital, the most valuable asset in the world. Ugh! I was to slit them down the middle, sew them together with infinite neatness so they wouldn't show the joints too much, lay them on a pattern, and turn 'em into petticoat tops. Then I was to buy a nice petticoat bottom and deceive the world into thinking I had a whole new petticoat. Twenty dollars' worth of time into a mangy semi-second-hand petticoat that no "cast-off wardrobe dealer" would have given me half a dollar for!

Or I was to turn the things into rag-doll faces—with the addition of some expert artistry and portraiture—a mere matter of using up the leisure of days and days, making a doll the baby would promptly dump in the first dirt discovered.

Or I was to cut them in strips and ply a big crochet needle, making yards and yards of chain stitch. Then I was to curve them round and round and transform them into rag rugs. If my time isn't worth a cent more than 50 cents an hour—and that is the cheapest day help we can get nowadays—a rug like that would represent an investment of at least $20, if I was a quick worker. And a second-hand carpet dealer would expect me to throw it in with a couple of beds, two rockers and the piano for $25. In any case, even the author admitted it would only do for the back passage or the porch, and I refuse to believe that it would have any relation to Art under any circumstances whatever.

Or to make a dust mop. I was to cut each stocking into one long strip by cutting spirally round and round the leg. I was to sew them together in half-yard lengths, hold them in shape by stitching them across the center and then place them in a mop-stick. A little job like that properly done would only take up the leisure of a week or so and one would have a sumptuous article only slightly inferior to the 50-cent kind one buys down-town.

Or I was to search out some harassed mother of a large family and give the stockings to her. I was assured she would be grateful. Well, the poorer and more harassed a mother I was and the larger my family, the less grateful I would be for the gift of a lot of rubbishy old stockings that needed darning and patching up before they were any good. And then not much.

Dear heaven, how cheap is mother's time valued. This is but one of several thousand recipes by which mother is to gather up all the old truck around the house that no one has any use for, devote her intelligence and her industry to scheming and planning and her tired fingers and back to making highly inferior articles that no self-respecting store would have upon its shelves.

And they call this economy. They call this thrift. They call this housewifely virtue. It is nothing in the world but crass and shameful stupidity—bad economics, bad commerce, criminal waste of the energies of good women. Oh, especially and particularly, good women. You'd never catch the bad ones doing anything so dashed futile.

Think of the days, weeks, months of labor some of our sweetest women put into hair-pin tidies, handkerchiefs, pin cushions, doylies, fancy blotters, pillow covers, rag dolls, collar boxes, shaving cases, fancy dress hangers and all the rest of the fool things that nobody wants, to be sold at church bazaars for anything from 25 cents to a dollar. Just reckoning our time at $2 a day, which is about the lowest wage paid to even the most unskilled male labor, those footling little articles are worth dollars and dollars. But even the people who buy the silly things for 50 cents feel that they are really being highly magnificent in their donations to the cause. We could make that amount of money by just foregoing a single meal—which would be good for us—or by washing our hair at home and manicuring our own nails, both of which jobs are paid at the rate of a dollar an hour. Or by doing somebody else's housework, which pays at 50 cents an hour and car fare. But I know hundreds of women who would consider these economies outrageous, who nevertheless will work themselves to a frazzle on some of these utterly incredible suggestions for "salvage" and "thrift."

Catch any sane man putting days of his leisure into ripping and joining and poking around with old stockings and transforming them into a second-hand B. V. D. Not if he knows it.

Catch any sane man swatting his life away to make a $10 hair pin tidy that is going to sell for a quarter.

I, an intelligent female, have been doing these fool things all my life. But I refuse to fall for the stockings. But I once took three days to crochet a 10-cent hair net out of my own combings. I have spent precious hours cutting, piecing, sewing old B. V. D.'s over into 50-cent baby shirts. Yes, heaven forgive me, I have spent weeks and weeks tearing and sewing strips for rag rugs worth a couple of dollars and most unlovely at that. I have worn my eyes bleary darning stockings in advanced stages of senile decay, which, new, weren't worth more than half a dollar. And even now I catch myself looking at old tweed hats and derbies and wondering if, with infinite industry, I could not transform them into flower pots or lamp shades. I just hate to throw anything away. But not until I have learned the science of "scrapping," of magnificent discard, nay, of plain commercial acumen, shall I be a really free woman. Oh, won't somebody please come and take those horrid old tweed and derby hats off my hands. Let's see, what's the Salvation Army number, or the Red Cross salvage shop? Save me, save me, save me!

A ROMANTIC HISTORY

BY ORRA EUGENE MONNETTE.

California is a wonderful State. Historically considered, few States of the Union, scarcely one in fact, possess so much of the spirit of adventure, the conquering of unknown lands, the reckless, uncertain voyages of discovery, the struggles and privations of pioneering, the precious traditions and the romances of the past.

The settlers at Jamestown in 1607 brought the hope and thought of a few hardy and courageous souls with which to live in the forest primeval and to contend with savagery and hardship for peaceful, comfortable possession; but they failed, giving, however, a heritage which makes the bosom of every Virginian swell with pride and personal enthusiasm.

The Pilgrim and Puritan, 1620 and 1628, came to lay the foundations of a new commonwealth in a new land. Later the blood of the Huguenot was commingled with this strain. What they endured, what they achieved and what they contributed are the precious records and memorials of fine character and noble courage. They are the ancestors of notable men and women who largely guide the destinies of the nation today with the same integrity, forcefulness and distinction as possessed by their honored sires.

However, nothing is taken from the glory of these two groups to record in unstinted, even lavish, terms, the romantic, pulsating and teeming history of California, dating from many years before, though discovered in 1542 by Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo and following through to the present time with fact and incident, which make this history interesting and enthralling in review. It is pardonable to boast of a California history and civilization of earlier date than the Atlantic Coast.

It is quite pertinent to note a single idea which is not generally known and seldom presented.

In 1609 King James I of England made his second grant of land on the North American continent, in Virginia, known as the Jamestown Charter, being dated May 23, 1609, the seventh year of King James's reign; the inland limit of this grant or charter was from sea to sea, that is from the Atlantic to the Pacific, the southern boundary being 34 deg. north latitude and the northern boundary 38 deg. north latitude; and it is interesting to mark that this northerly limit as finally settled passes into the Pacific Ocean, just north of San Francisco, and that this southerly limit as finally settled passes about three miles south of the city of Redlands, through the city of Riverside and into the Pacific at about Santa Monica, Cal., so that all of the Pacific coast line from Santa Monica to the Golden Gate is the westerly limit of this Jamestown grant, though never legally established or right of control exercised.—[California Chronology, compiled by Orra Eugene Monnette, page 21.

The story of discovery, exploration and settlement; of the religious zeal of the padre and friar and pious ministrations to the native Indians, "The King's Highway," building of the missions and historic buildings, discovery of gold and days of '49, the caravans crossing the plains and deserts in westward, ho; the Mexican War and many other events make a most thrilling recital of faith and hope of pioneer and settler, interwoven into a fabric of tapestry of their lives, gorgeous in colors and supernal in achievement. California is a wonderful State.

In my "California Chronology" (1915) I wrote:

"While the American Revolution was in progress in the original thirteen colonies, the foundations of California were being laid in most positive and permanent form. The boasted achievements of the Pilgrim and Puritan and of the Huguenot are deservedly merited, but the Californians will ever possess and hold sacred a treasured memory of the Spanish cavalier and of the Franciscan friar. Their priceless heritage was the gift of Cabrillo and Father Junipero Serra, together with that of a faithful and zealous train of romantic adventurers and pious neophytes."

An Eye Opener.

Hartley had left a call for 7 o'clock.

"Hello!" he exclaimed sleepily, as the boy knocked on the door. "I swear I'm so sleepy I can't open my eyes."

"I'll bring your bill if you like, sir," suggested the boy helpfully.—[American Legion Monthly.

The Hound of the Baskervilles

By A. Conan Doyle

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS CHAPTERS.

In his rooms in London, Sherlock Holmes, chatting with his friend, Dr. Watson, has a strange caller in the person of Dr. James Mortimer, a country practitioner, who produces and proceeds to read a remarkable document, dated 1742, which had been handed down to each succeeding master of Baskerville Hall, a huge estate situated in the midst of the gloomy moorlands in Devonshire. The paper relates the story of one Hugo Baskerville, "a most wild, profane and Godless man," who, after setting his hounds on the trail of a beautiful peasant girl whom he had kidnaped, and who had escaped, died under the fangs of a monstrous, diabolical black hound. From that time on, a legend of evil had hung over the Baskervilles, and the document concluded by warning each heir to the title never to cross the moor after nightfall. Dr. Mortimer then tells of the recent death of Sir Charles Baskerville, whose body had been found with features contorted by fear, but with no evidence of physical injury, and, near by, the footprints of a gigantic hound! Dr. Mortimer says he has come to London to greet Henry Baskerville, nephew of Sir Charles, who has arrived in England from Canada to take over the estate and title as sole heir. Dr. Mortimer asks Holmes for advice as to what he should tell the young man. "He comes in fifty minutes," says Dr. Mortimer. "What would you recommend?"

"I recommend, sir, that you take a cab, call off your spaniel who is scratching at my front door, and proceed to Waterloo to meet Sir Henry Baskerville."

"And then?"

"And then you will say nothing to him at all until I have made up my mind about the matter."

"How long will it take you to make up your mind?"

"Twenty-four hours. At 10 o'clock tomorrow, Dr. Mortimer, I will be much obliged to you if you will call upon me here, and it will be of help to me in my plans for the future if you will bring Sir Henry Baskerville with you."

"I will do so, Mr. Holmes." He scribbled the appointment on his shirt cuff and hurried off in his strange, peering, absent-minded fashion. Holmes stopped him at the head of the stair.

"Only one more question, Dr. Mortimer. You say that before Sir Charles Baskerville's death several people saw this apparition upon the moor?"

"Three people did."

"Did any see it after?"

"I have not heard of any."

"Thank you. Good morning."

Holmes returned to his seat with that quiet look of inward satisfaction which meant that he had a congenial task before him.

"Going out, Watson?"

"Unless I can help you."

"No, my dear fellow, it is at the hour of action that I turn to you for aid. But this is splendid, really unique from some points of view. When you pass Bradley's would you ask him to send up a pound of the strongest shag tobacco? Thank you. It would be as well if you could make it convenient not to return before evening. Then I should be very glad to compare impressions as to this most interesting problem which has been submitted to us this morning."

I knew that seclusion and solitude were very necessary for my friend in those hours of intense mental concentration during which he weighted every particle of evidence, constructed alternative theories, balanced one against the other, and made up his mind as to which points were essential and which immaterial. I therefore spent the day at my club and did not return to Baker street until evening. It was nearly 9 o'clock when I found myself in the sitting-room once more.

My first impression as I opened the door was that a fire had broken out, for the room was so filled with smoke that the light of the lamp upon the table was blurred by it. As I entered, however, my fears were set at rest, for it was the acrid fumes of strong coarse tobacco which took me by the throat and set me coughing. Through the haze I had a vague vision of Holmes in his dressing-gown coiled up in an arm chair with his black clay pipe between his lips. Several rolls of paper lay around him.

"Caught cold, Watson?" said he.

"No, it's this poisonous atmosphere."

"I suppose it is pretty thick, now that you mention it."

"Thick! It is intolerable."

"Open the window, then! You have been at your club all day, I perceive."

"My dear Holmes!"

"Am I right?"

"Certainly, but how——?"

He laughed at my bewildered expression.

"There is a delightful freshness about you, Watson, which makes it a pleasure to exercise any small powers which I possess at your expense. A gentleman goes forth on a shower and miry day. He returns immaculate in the evening with the gloss still on his hat and his boots. He has been a fixture therefore all day. He is not a man with intimate friends. Where, then, could he have been? Is it not obvious?"

"Well, it is rather obvious."

"The world is full of obvious things which nobody by any chance ever observes. Where do you think that I have been?"

"A fixture also."

"On the contrary, I have been to Devonshire."

"In spirit?"

"Exactly. My body has remained in this arm chair, and has, I regret to observe, consumed in my absence two large pots of coffee and an incredible amount of tobacco. After you left I sent down to Stamford's for the Ordnance map of this portion of the moor, and my spirit has hovered over it all day. I flatter myself that I could find my way about."

"A large scale map, I presume?"

"Very large." He unrolled one section and held it over his knee. "Here you have the particular district which concerns us. That is Baskerville Hall in the middle."

"With a wood around it?"

"Exactly. I fancy the Yew Alley, though not marked under that name, must stretch along this line, with the moor, as you perceive, upon the right of it. This small clump of buildings here is the hamlet of Grimpen, where our friend, Dr. Mortimer, has his headquarters. Within a radius of five miles there are, as you see, only a very few scattered dwellings. Here is Lafter Hall, which was mentioned in the narrative. There is a house indicated here which may be the residence of the naturalist—Stapleton, if I remember right, was his name. Here are two moorland farm houses, High Tor and Foulmire. Then fourteen miles away the great convict prison of Princetown. Between and around these scattered points extends the desolate, lifeless moor. This, then, is the stage upon which tragedy has been played, and upon which we may help to play it again."

"It must be a wild place."

"Yes, the setting is a worthy one. If the devil did desire to have a hand in the affairs of men——"

"Then you are yourself inclining to the supernatural explanation."

"The devil's agents may be of flesh and blood, may they not? There are two questions waiting for us at the outset. The one is whether any crime has been committed at all; the second is, what is the crime and how was it committed? Of course, if Dr. Mortimer's surmise should be correct, and we are dealing with forces outside the ordinary laws of Nature, there is an end of our investigation. But we are bound to exhaust all other hypotheses before falling back upon this one. I think we'll shut that window again if you don't mind. It is a singular thing, but I find that a concentrated atmosphere helps a concentration of thought. I have not pushed it to the length of getting into a box to think, but that is the logical outcome of my convictions. Have you turned the case over in your mind?"

"Yes, I have thought a good deal of it in the course of the day."

"What do you make of it?"

"It is very bewildering."

"It has certainly a character of its own. There are points of distinction about it. That change in the footprints, for example. What do you make of that?"

"Mortimer said that the man had walked on tiptoe down that portion of the alley."

"He only repeated what some fool had said at the inquest. Why should a man walk on tiptoe down the alley?"

"What then?"

"He was running, Watson—running desperately, running for his life, running until he burst his heart and fell dead upon his face."

"Running from what?"

"There lies our problem. There are indications that the man was crazed with fear before ever he began to run."

"How can you say that?"

"I am presuming that the cause of his fears came to him across the moor. If that were so, and it seems most probable, only a man who had lost his wits would have run from the house instead of towards it. If the gipsy's evidence may be taken as true, he ran with cries for help in the direction where help was least likely to be. Then, again, whom was he waiting for that night, and why was he waiting for him in the Yew Alley rather than in his own house?"

"You think that he was waiting for someone?"

"The man was elderly and infirm. We can understand his taking an evening stroll, but the ground was damp and the night inclement. Is it natural that he should stand for five or ten minutes, as Dr. Mortimer, with more practical sense than I should have given him credit for, deduced from the cigar ash?"

"But he went out every evening."

"I think it unlikely that he waited at the moorgate every evening. On the contrary, the evidence is that he avoided the moor. That night he waited there. It was the night before he made his departure for London. The thing takes shape, Watson. It becomes coherent. Might I ask you to hand me my violin, and we will postpone all further thought upon this business until we have had the advantage of meeting Dr. Mortimer and Sir Henry Baskerville in the morning."

THIS IS THE DAY

That Henry Hudson, English navigator, in the employ of the Dutch government, sailed from Amsterdam, seeking an all-water route to the Far East. He did not find this route, but he discovered the river on which stands now the city of New York.

In the Half Moon, an eighty-ton boat, he left Holland on April 4, 1609, and 161 days later entered the mouth of the river that bears his name. The Italian, Verrazano, had previously sighted New York Bay in the year 1524, but he sailed away unaware of the importance of his discovery. So Henry Hudson has been accorded the honor of being the first to appreciate and explore the river itself.

In a later attempt to reach China by a northwest route Hudson was caught in the ice in Baffin's Bay, his crew mutinied, and, putting Hudson and his 7-year-old son to sea in an open boat, abandoned them to their fate.

HOTEL ORDERS BIG RADIO SET

Manager at Beverly Hills Joins "Times" Club

Invites Members to Dance With Broadcast Music

Los Angeles Leads World in New Stations

BY JOHN S. DAGGETT

Stanley Anderson, manager of the Beverly Hills Hotel, placed an order yesterday for a radiophone receiving set to cost $600.

"I have been promised delivery within ten days and expect to have the best radio set of any hotel in the West. After careful investigation, I am satisfied that the radiophone is to become a leading form of amusement and medium of education for all popular hotels of the future," said Mr. Anderson. "I am convinced that a large portion of the music furnished for dancing in the finest ball-rooms of the country will be provided throughout broadcast stations.

"Incidentally, I am very much interested in the remarkable Radio Club which is being established by The Times. I herewith extend a cordial invitation to The Times' Radio Club for a dance at the Beverly Hills Hotel at an early date. I would even like to see the first meeting of the club held there if convenient to the members."

Mr. Anderson's invitation was accepted for the club by the radio manager of The Times and an announcement of the date for the radio dance at the Beverly Hills Hotel will be made just as soon as the Times broadcasting station is working.

TO INSTALL SET

The Braun Corporation, manufacturer of and wholesale dealer in chemicals, announced yesterday that the company will put in a broadcasting radio station in the near future, with W. K. Glasby in charge.

"We foresee such an educational possibility through the radio that our arrangements to meet the situation are now well under way," said Mr. Glasby. A line-up is being effected with a number of schools and colleges, whereby they will listen in on technical and educational lectures broadcast from the Braun station. Also we anticipate sending forth matter of interest to the farmer. The Braun Corporation is also handling radio supplies and is therefore an addition to the list of dealers printed April 1, in the radio department of The Times.

LOS ANGELES LEADS

Los Angeles leads any city in the United States in the number of applications for radiophone broadcasting stations. With four such stations already installed and three more having been applied for, and others being contemplated, the radio giant has found a solid foothold here. A comparison with the following table, which is practically a complete list of the radio broadcasting stations in the United States, will equally demonstrate to what extent Los Angeles is responding to the new movement.

These stations operate on a 360-meter wave-length, except the government stations, which operate on 485-meter. Slight variations in tuning are used by some of these stations which will have to be found by individual owners of receivers.

Bandits Hear Bottle Break, Take to Heels

Two young bandits who attempted to hold up S. C. Keith, grocer at Huntington Drive and Turquoise street, yesterday took to their heels when he dropped behind the counter and accidentally shattered a pop bottle. The noise made by the explosion of the bottle convinced the young desperadoes that the proprietor had a revolver. They escaped in a waiting automobile.

Lesson No. 4

SIMPLE RECEIVING SET

In the next three lessons we shall describe the construction of a complete crystal receiver, including the antenna. We shall follow largely a set of specifications which were drawn up by the Bureau of Standards and which are therefore especially recommended.

The range of our set will be about ten to fifteen miles for broadcast reception and fifty to 100 miles for commercial telegraph stations. Both the upper and lower limits will vary a great deal with local conditions, character of antenna and ground and efficiency of apparatus. Head telephones will be necessary since the signals with a crystal set cannot be made loud enough to operate a loud speaker. The total cost will be from about $11 to $15, depending upon the kind of telephone receiver desired.

This lesson will be concerned namely with the construction of the antenna system which includes the antenna proper, the lead-in, the lead-in insulator, the lightning switch, and the ground connection. There are a number of points which must be kept in mind in building an efficient antenna. In the first place it should be as high as is practicable—a heighth of at least thirty or forty feet is recommended. Good results would, in most cases be impossible with a heighth of less than twenty feet. The total length of the antenna should be between seventy-five and 150 feet. This includes the total length of the wire from the receiving apparatus to the far end of the antenna. The antenna proper need not be horizontal. If the two ends are of unequal heighth, it is better to make the far end the higher. Poles, trees, houses or barns may be used for supports. Another important point is to keep the major portion of the antenna as far away as possible from buildings and trees. The lead-in should swing clear of the house at least five feet.

DETAILS OF PARTS

The various parts will be referred to in accordance with the letters appearing in Figure 1.

A and I are screw eyes sufficiently strong to anchor the antenna at the ends. B and H are pieces of three-eights or one-half-inch rope, the former being not less than ten feet long and the latter long enough to allow the lead-in, a five-foot clearance from the house. D is a three-eighth or one-half-inch rope which passes over the pulley C and serves to raise or lower the far end of the antenna. In many cases the pulley may be dispensed with and the rope D is then fastened directly to the screw eye A. E and G are two porcelain cleat insulators which may be purchased at any electrical store for about 3 cents each. F is the antenna proper and is made of No. 16 copper wire or larger. Either bare or insulated wire may be used. For a crystal receiver there is no advantage in using more than one wire. The far end is fastened to the insulator E. Draw the other end through the insulator G far enough to allow for the lead-in wire J. Then twist the insulator a few times so as to form an anchor as shown in the figure. The remainder J of the antenna wire now constitutes the lead-in or drop wire and should be just long enough to reach the lightning switch.

K is the lightning switch. For small antenna it may be one of the ordinary porcelain-base thirty ampere single pole double throw battery switches. These switches as ordinarily available have porcelain bases about one by four inches. The lead-in wire J is attached to the middle post of the switch. When the receiving set is not actually in use the switch blade should always be in the lower position, thus grounding the antenna in order to protect against lightning. For receiving, it should be in the upper position.

L is the ground wire for the lightning switch. It is made of the same wire as the antenna and must lead straight down to the clamp on the ground rod M. M is a piece of pipe or metallic rod driven into the ground three to six feet. It must extend a few inches above the ground to allow room for the ground plant to be fastened on. The pipe should be scraped clean of rust or paint before driven into the ground. N is a wire leading from the upper clip of the lightning switch through the porcelain tube through the receiving set binding post marked "antenna." O is a porcelain tube of sufficient length to reach through the window casing or wall. This tube should be arranged to slope downward toward the outside to prevent rain from coming in. These tubes may be bought at any electrical store for a few cents.

The constructor is urged to use considerable care in constructing the antenna system we have described since an inefficient antenna may spoil the results of a good receiving set.

In the next lesson, we shall describe the construction of the tuner.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

A. R., Santa Ana: Yes, all broadcasting stations except those operated by the government are required to use a wave length of 360 meters. There are no government broadcasting stations in this zone at present.

B. K. R., Long Beach: Carborundum makes a very reliable crystal detector because it requires very little adjustment. On the other hand, it is far less sensitive than galena or silicon.

L. B., Los Angeles: Yes, it is illegal to operate a spark coil transmittor without a license, even though it may not seem to have enough power to be heard beyond the state.

A. K., Los Angeles: Radio frequency amplification does not distort music all all, since a distortion of the radio frequency wave cannot appreciably affect the audio component.

R. J. N., Los Angeles: Impedance-coupled amplifiers, using choke coils of high inductance, are very good for music amplification. Although they are not as loud as the transformer-coupled amplifiers they are very desirable since they can be made practically distortionless.

B. C., Los Angeles: The decrement of an undamped wave of constant amplitude is zero.

J. S., Pomona: In order to apply for an amateur radio operators license, you must write to the Radio Inspector, Customs House, San Francisco.

C. R. A., Los Angeles: At present, amateurs are restrained from transmitting between the hours of 7:30 and 9 p.m. This is in order to accommodate the broadcast listeners.

REACH AGREEMENT ON RADIO SERVICE

CONFEREES OF SENATE AND HOUSE FAVORABLE TO TIME EXTENSION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 3. — Action by the Senate and House is probable during the current week, it was said today, on the joint resolution extending until June 30, 1925, the time in which naval radio facilities might be used for handling press and commercial business. Chairman Green of the House Commerce Committee, in reporting today the agreement of the conferees on such extension, said the House managers had rejected the Senate amendment extending the date until 1927, "on the ground that a five-year limitation extension for transmission and reception of press messages by the naval radio stations on the Pacific Coast is unwarranted."

It was the belief of the House conferees, the report said, that "ample private radio facilities will have been established before the expiration of that period, capable of handling all commercial and press business."

Service to and from China will cease Jan. 1, 1924, under the agreement.

Smallest Vote Listed Annexes Melrose Tract

The people who live in Melrose addition in the La Brea section are unanimous in the desire to annex to the city of Los Angeles, as shown by the official returns of the special annexation election held there last week. Five votes were cast and all of them in favor of annexation. Three of the voters were also election officers. This is the smallest special election vote ever tabluated by the City Council.

IN CHARGE OF WELFARE WORK

Los Angeles Woman Gets Post at Pasadena

Civic League Indorses Big Bond Issue

Convicted on Liquor Charge Man Seeks New Trial

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, April 3.—Mrs. Emily Street of Los Angeles has been appointed by City Manager C. W. Koiner to take charge of the City and County Welfare Bureau, in Central Park, it was announced today. Mrs. Street comes to Pasadena to direct this charitable work after several years' experience with the Los Angeles Bureau of Charities. She takes the place made vacant by the recent resignation of Mrs. Ellen Wessen, who went to Texas to enter the oil business.

WOMEN URGE BONDS

The Women's Civic League, meeting today at the Maryland, went on record as favoring a bond issue with which to open needed streets paralleling Colorado street, to enlarge the parks system and carry on other civic improvements.

Virtually all the organizations in the city have indorsed the proposed bond issue, which the city will vote upon April 11.

SEEKS NEW TRIAL

Grant Butler, charged with violating the local antiliquor ordinance, will ask for a new trial. He was convicted in Police Court last week.

Today J. G. Rossiter, his attorney, appeared when the court was to impose sentence, and asked that the case be continued until Wednesday. It is understood that he will seek a new trial for his client.

ON PLAYHOUSE BOARD

Dr. A. H. Palmer has been been elected a member of the governing board of the Pasadena Community Playhouse Association, to take the place of Mrs. George Ellery Hale. Mrs. Hale resigned recently as she expects to spend much time abroad the coming year.

NOT EVEN BIBLES SAFE

It is not safe to leave Bibles in automobiles, where they may be stolen readily. E. H. Powell, 29 South Raymond avenue, reported to the police today that some one took his Bible from a parked automobile Sunday. The police are in doubt whether the thief was impelled by piety or rascality, or both, in purloining the book.

MORE SCHOOLS ASKED

Request will be made to the Board of Education that the McKinley elementary school, recently destroyed by fire, be replaced as soon as possible, and that the board purchase adequate land for a junior high school south of Colorado street will be asked by the Parent-Teacher associations of the Emerson, McKinley, Grant, Garfield and Arroyo Seco schools, it has been agreed.

FINISH OF DOUBLE TRAGEDY

Woman Slayer Dies as Result of Self-Inflicted Revolver Wound

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FRESNO, April 3.—James Randel, who last night shot and killed Mrs. Gertrude Holstein in the lobby of the Hotel Sierra, died today at 3 a.m., at the County Hospital. Death was the result of a bullet wound in the head which he inflicted a moment after shooting Mrs. Holstein. An inquest was conducted this afternoon by Coroner Joh Lisle.

Friends of Mrs. Holstein told the police that she had been threatened by Randol on numerous occasions. Two months ago she registered at the Belden roominghouse, 1256 Van Ness avenue, under the name of Walters, hoping that she would escape further molestation from her unwelcome suitor.

Randol's name figured several times recently in police records. On January 12, he was arrested after hurling a brick through a window at 805 Van Ness avenue, where Mrs. Holstein was living at that time. Two weeks ago he was arrested for intoxication.

Mrs. Holstein was the widow of a doctor in Marks, Miss., and was said to be wealthy, owning several thousand dollars worth of diamonds and considerable property in her native State.

A sister, Mrs. W. L. Banister, living in Marks, was notified last night and telegraphed to Coroner Lisle this morning that she was leaving at once for Fresno. It was learned today that Mrs. Holstein had planned to move to Los Angeles Wednesday.

SAN DIEGO, April 3.—Marriage licenses issued here today include: Carl K. Allen, 21, Los Angeles, and Marie S. Mayo, 21, San Diego; Claude T. Ruff, 21, Arcadia, and Ethel B. Davis, 24, San Diego.

POLICE SEEK MUSIC CLEW

Pomona Officers Listen for Strains from Records of Stolen Phonograph

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

POMONA, April 3.—Burglars with an ear for music broke into the C. H. Short music store early this morning and made away with a large number of phonograph records and several kodaks. Mr. Short stated that records valued at $500 and kodaks worth $150 were taken, as were a number of smaller articles of value.

Police are keeping a lookout for phonograph concerts, hoping to recover the stolen property.

WOMAN WAGES BATTLE

Stops Operation of Steam Roller by Falling in Pathway of Machine.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA BARBARA, April 3. — Mrs. H. E. Filipini, wife of a wealth Santa Maria man, has kept the city officials busy all day as she made repeated attempts to block efforts of laborers to roll down a fairway for aviators, on land purchased of the Filipinis a year ago.

All but the last installment on the property had been paid to the Filipini family and the final installment was being held in abeyance pending settlement of controversy concerning the dead.

The husband had stopped the city's improvement by plowing the fairway each time the city rolled down the ground. He was arrested and put under bond to keep the peace. As he could not appear on the scene without forfeiting the bond, his wife today took up the battle and time and again throughout the day has thrown herself in front of the heavy roller, defying the operator to run over her. His progress has been impeded all day by having to stop to have the woman dragged away.

Practically all Santa Maria has been in the field watching the singular battle waged by the woman against the town.

COMMUNITY PLAYERS MAKE INITIAL BOW

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WHITTIER, April 3.—The Community Players presented their first monthly entertainment at the Woman's clubhouse this evening to an exceptionally appreciative audience. There was a double bill, W. B. Yeats's "Land of Heart's Desire" and "The House Across the Way," the latter presented by Miss Hilda Carter and Floyd Hibbs.

The Community Players, which were organized at the instigation of the local Chamber of Commerce, is meeting with commendable success and plans to give a monthly entertainment free, with some five or six paid entertainments during the year. The undertaking is purely educational and artistic, and is being well sustained by the cultured people of the city.

CHURCH DEDICATION

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, April 3. — The congregations of the Venice Methodist and the Presbyterian churches joined with the Santa Monica First Methodist Church Sunday night in dedication services at the latter organization's new church. The edifice has been completely remodeled and enlarged at a cost of $45,000.

Dedication services were conducted by the pastor, the Rev. C. H. M. Southerland and the Rev. E. J. Inwood, district Sunday-school superintendent.

ENTERTAIN VETERANS

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, April 3.—Veterans at the soldiers' home, Sawtelle, will be entertained Wednesday night by a vaudeville show given by a majority of the performers, who will appear at the Municipal Auditorium Friday night, the 7th inst., in the Bay Cities Post, American Legion vaudeville performance.

The show Friday night, which is being staged by the local Legion to swell its building fund, will be assisted by the Santa Monica Muncipal Band and by Hughie Mack, film comedian, who will give a monologue.

UNCLE BUILDS MODERN HOME

Deeds Place to Relatives Who Assisted in Its Construction

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

REDLANDS, April 3.—For weeks Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Bear of West Cypress avenue, have been interested in the building of a house on Eureka street for their uncle, Alphonso E. Bell, of Los Angeles. They made many suggestions and assisted in the completion of the home.

This afternoon Mr. Bell asked them to come to the house and see the furnishings he had purchased. "How do you like it," he asked Mr. and Mrs. Bear. "It is just perfect," they told him. "Well, I'm glad you like it, for it is yours." He gave them a deed to the property. The house, furniture and site cost more than $10,000.

PLAN INVASION OF LONG BEACH

Liberals Start Campaign in Prohibition Stronghold

Possibility of New Factory in Harbor District

Elks' Lodge Installs Officers for Coming Year

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, April 3. — This city, for more than thirty-five years a stronghold of the followers of absolute prohibition, and which always polled a vote of ten to one "dry" when the liquor question came up on the municipal ballot, is agog today at the announcement that in the near future Long Beach will be visited by a number of speakers for the "Sanity League of America," an organization formed for the purpose of securing a modification of the Volstead Act.

Included in the announcement of the pending invasion of this extra dry community by representatives of an organization favoring a law permitting the manufacture and sale of light wines and beer is the declaration that mass meetings and parades will be held in the interest of developing sentiment favoring the aims of the organization.

MAY GET FACTORY

The possibility of the location here of a branch plant of the Hurley Machine Company of Chicago of which E. N. Hurley, former head of the United States Shipping Board is president, was voiced by Mr. Hurley here today at a luncheon at the Hotel Virginia, at which he was a guest.

"The Hurley Machine Company which occupies a ten-acre tract in Chicago and does a business of $1,800,000 a year, is seeking a location in the West for a branch plant," Mr. Hurley said. If this plant is located in Southern California as now seems possible, it will be erected in this harbor district. Water transportation is absolutely essential to any such plant.

"Climate, geographic and other conditions here are ideal," Mr. Hurley said.

LODGEMAN WEDS

News of the marriage in Los Angeles Saturday of Miss Margaret L. Burke and Ed M. Jones was just learned by their friends here today. The popular young couple had hoped to keep the event a secret for two weeks. A former officer of the Elks Lodge of this city, Mr. Jones is also a Knight Templar and a Shriner. He is a member of the famous Knights Templar drill team that will exemplify the opening ceremony at the national conclave in New Orleans. Mr. and Mrs. Jones have taken up their residence at 1630 Appleton street.

ELKS ELECT OFFICERS

George H. Stevenson, Harvard student, local newspaper man and a resident of Long Beach for the last fifteen years, was installed as exalted ruler of the local lodge of Elks tonight at an elaborate ceremony. M. G. Potts, past exalted ruler of the Pasadena lodge, was installing officer.

The list of officers installed includes: George H. Stevenson, Exalted Ruler; Newton M. Todd, Esteemed Leading Knight; Clovis W. Cadieux, Esteemed Loyal Knight; William Malin, Esteemed Lecturing Knight; A. J. Strachan, Secretary; Charles H. Tucker, Treasurer; W. L. Lynda, Trustee and Richard Scoenberger, Tiler.

OFFICERS IN PURSUIT

Sheriff's Men Close in on Man Who Shot Policeman.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIVERSIDE, April 3.—Sheriff Wilson's deputies are following a clew this afternoon which may lead to the apprehension of Jack Meyers, the Mexican, who yesterday afternoon shot Chief of Police Frank E. Redans of Corona. It was learned today a man resembling Meyers was seen riding a horse through Hagador Canyon, south of Corona.

Redans, although shot three times, is resting comfortably at the Riverside Community Hospital and is expected to be able to return to his home within ten days.

Today the Corona City Council offered a reward of $1000 for the arrest and conviction of the gunman.

ORNAMENTAL SPAN TO CROSS RIVER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIVERSIDE, April 3.—Plans for the Rubidoux bridge, a handsome concrete structure to be erected over the Santa Ana River, were adopted by the Board of Supervisors this morning. The sketches were drawn by Houghton & Bonte, San Francisco engineers. The bridge will be in seventy-two spans. Towers will top each span and tall towers will grace each entrance of the structure, which will be equipped with ornamental lights and mission features conforming to the picturesque background of Mt. Rubidoux and the landscape adornment lavished upon the historic mountain.

Congestion Problem is the Subject of Discussion

English Lecturer Speaks to Ebell Women

League of Voters Will Meet on Thursday

BY MYRA NYE

"No more Hamburger!"

No, this is not a patriotic edict of some anti-German organization of meat eaters trying to change Hamburger into liberty steak. It was the authoritive voice of the presiding officer at the Woman's City Club, Mrs. J. B. Stearns speaking yesterday. In a discussion of "The Traffic Problem," the name of Hamburgers would persistently creep into the discussion. Mrs. Herman Darling began it when she asked of George M. Babcock, managing director of the Business Men's Co-operative Association, who was the first speaker:

"Were not merchants like Hamburgers just exhibiting wise foresightedness when they moved away from what used to be the congested district?"

Then Mr. Babcock began:

"Well, since you mention Hamburgers, I'll just naturally use them to show you what I mean," and then, after a dissertation on the rise in value of real estate on Broadway, Mrs. E. R. Brainerd rose in the back part of the room and began:

"I just want to say concerning Hamburger's—"

It was then that Mrs. Stearns, who is not half so severe as her name implies, let her gavel fall.

"No. We will have no more of Hamburger's," she said.

The whole session was one jolly little row like this after another with so much blame put on the women for the ills of the city that they began to look for red "exit" ways out.

"You can lead a woman shopper to the stores via automobile, but you cannot make her buy before 2 p.m.," was the gist of Mr. Babcock's talk. Seventy-five per cent of all the shopping in Los Angeles, he said, was done between the hours of 3 and 5 p.m., and the no-parking ordinance was a "pernicious nad unwarranted" hindrance to good business.

The speaker saved certain members of the City Council not at all.

"They are opposed to what they call big business," he said, "and they are entirely unfitted for the responsibilities placed upon them. They forget that the business men of Los Angeles contributed 90 per cent of all the taxes. Last year alone they paid $1,600,000 in occupational taxes and yet the Council—these certain members of it—will not heed the business men at all when they ask for a conference with them. They come to the conference with their minds made up and nothing can change them. We ask only that the no-parking ordinance may be lightened merely between the hours of 4 and 5 p.m.

"It is not in the congested district that the most accidents occur. There were 500 automobile accidents in Los Angeles in March and only 20 per cent of them were in downtown districts. There were thirty-five deaths from accidents and none of them on Broadway, Spring, Main or Hill. The solution to the difficulty is in making outlets by leveling Bunker Hill north of Sixth street so that there may be an outlet of traffic.

Ivan Kelso, attorney, took the opposite side of the parking question, upholding in the debate, the present system.

"It's up to the merchant to provide parking facilities for his customer," he said. "Parking downtown hinders the street railways, the patrons of the street railways, pedestrians, the fire department and the police department."

Fire Chief Scott also seemed to have it in for the women yesterday and he assumed the attitude of a big brother and gave some advice.

"If just a little common sense had been used last year 97 per cent of the fires in Los Angeles could have been prevented," he said. "What do you think I've seen women do? I've seen a woman actually heat the gasoline in which she was going to clean her gloves. There is as much potential danger in one gallon of gasoline as there is in 200 pounds of dynamite. Yet a woman will keep a bottle of gasoline on her kitchen shelf while she would run from dynamite. Twelve women have been burned to death while I have been fire chief from gasoline alone. If you must use the stuff, use it on the lawn and don't put the gloves on when you clean them."

Chief Scott gave the danger from fire in the order of its greatest contributing causes: Electricity, gasoline cleaning, smoking, gas heaters, burning of rubbish and the use of "strike-anywhere" matches.

The Ebell Club

"You women were never so interesting, never so adventurous, never so mysterious, never so charming as now when you have the vote," said John Cowper Powys, English author and lecturer speaking before the Ebell Club yesterday on "England, or the Secret of Individualism." His little tribute was forced from him, almost with reluctance, after he had heard Mrs. John Stearns Thayer's report on the convention at Santa Monica last week.

"I am amazed at what this lady's report reveals—the tremendous influence you clubwomen exert on shifty politicians, the formidable influence you have on public opinion, steering it in an ethical direction. You have had the daring to introduce morality into politics—politics of all places—with what success you best know," and when he added the last clause, the women burst into prolonged laughter as if they knew they had had very little success.

"I'm ashamed to admit there is nothing like this in England who are "the objects of interest to mankind in general' she is probably right.

All the same, it is a fearsome thought. When we are putting off sweeping under the beds till tomorrow, or standing dishes over the slits in the tablecloth, or postponing the darning of the family stockings until after the convention, or hastily patronizing the delicatessen instead of the kitchen range, or letting Johnny come to the table without washing his hands, or letting father call in the services of a safety pin where a button ought to be—ahem—we really ought to be careful to pull down the shades. Why can't these peoples of all nations mind their own business?

I see Louisville, Ky., is trying to get an appropriation of $100,000 for a "receiving home," where women released from the jail can be aided in reinstatement. The Churchwomen's Federation is reported, however, as "not taking an active step in the matter because of the expense."

But our Big Sister's League, founded by Mrs. Minnie Barton, did not wait for any official $100,000 appropriation. We have had such a home in Los Angeles for years, without one penny of cost to the city, supported and maintained triumphantly on love, voluntary labor and contributions. It was started on nothing at all but faith. A lease on a lot, a building put up with gifts of material and free labor, furniture collected piece by piece, a kind patroness always ready to step into a breach—added to year by year, little by little—and the great work always growing, improving, extending until today, under the presidency of Mrs. Harriet Works, it is one of the most effective benefactions in the city, reaping grateful results from its charges.

Don't wait, Louisville. Take a chance. The Lord will probably be with you.

The young woman who engineered that preview of "Hail the Woman," by which prominent club women were invited to give their frank opinion upon the Ince production, is complaining because said club women consider they have been deceived.

"They must have known it was 'publicity,' that when they were invited to see a free show, it was for advertising purposes. And how could they expect any producer to publish their adverse opinions. Of course, he selected any complimentary remarks and ignored the rest—what would they suppose? Of course, the completely adverse opinions were ignored—naturally. And, of course, she was paid to get them there, why not? It was all perfectly legitimate."

Of course. How silly. Absurd, ridiculous that any intelligent club woman should suppose that any film producer really wanted her candid opinion—unless it was complimentary. Club women can be so naive.

Don't you love that "it was all perfectly legitimate." We are so ill-informed on legitimacy.

Serve more FISH

Not Only on Friday

Fish should be eaten often, not only on Friday. There are many varieties of delectable fish which, because of the public's unfamiliarity with their value, both from the point of food and excellent flavor, are overlooked.

Learn the kinds of fish and the many ways of preparing them. In this way their real importance in the daily diet will be appreciated.

It often happens that the best known varieties are scarce and high priced, while a good supply of lesser known, more tasty and better flavored fish are offered at low prices, as cheap as 8 or 10 cents a pound.

TO BROIL FISH. Split the fish, place on greased gridiron, flesh side toward fire. Done, turn and brown skin side. Serve with chopped parsley and butter, or with tomato sauce, or with special chopped parsley, juice of half a lemon, salt, paprika, tiandles ingredient.

Fish Is Caught Fresh Every Day.

THE LAST WORD.

BY ALMA WHITAKER

That defunct Women's Legislative Council opened the coffin-lid at the club federation convention at Santa Monica in resolutions time and proved to be a very lively corpse. The resolutions committee had heard its tappings but righteously decided to ignore it. It had been decently buried at Yosemite last year and they felt it should stay dead. But its friends are a bit spiritualistic, and, in response to astral messages, opened the grave. With the aid of Mrs. Gleason, Mrs. Emma Reed and Mrs. Berenice Johnson, the ghost walked. Mrs. Johnson feared the poor thing had been buried with unrighteous haste and hinted at an indecent speed in the Yosemite interment. A vote was forced to see if the necessary two-thirds majority of the delegates could be secured for a resolution for official resurrection. It lost by 66 to 76. Thereafter Mrs. Robert Burdette arose to ask permission from the chair to refute the Johnson insinuations. She succeeded in explaining to the satisfaction of the convention that a proper autopsy had been held, that the patient had received all due consideration at the hands of the coroner's committee, and the "mediums" magnificently squashed.

So far so good. But the victors feared wicked machinations on the part of the opposition. It appears there are parliamentary spiritualistic methods of suddenly "materializing" dead issues. Slick "mediums" can, with expert finesse, raise them under certain conditions in "a committee of the whole house" towards the close of a convention. But one has to be a very experienced capable medium to achieve it. So the victors were afraid to go home until the bitter end—husbands and dinners and babies might be awaiting the return of absentee mammas but they had to be sacrificed on the altar of the possible friskiness of that indecently defunct and restless corpse. But the sacrifice was in vain—it never stirred again.

Still, it was inspiring, tragically pathetic, to hear those triumphant but uneasy victors conferring in sepulchral whispers in the lobby and valiantly covenanting to "stand by," to defend the cause to the last ditch. Peace hath her victories no less than war—and they are equally exacting. The troops in occupation on the Rhine and all that sort of thing, you know.

Mrs. J. S. Trewhella, federation chairman of the home department, has some profound remarks to make in the Los Angeles District News. As she is in line for the district presidency, her words must necessarily carry potent weight.

So when she says that "the eyes of the peoples of all nations are focussed upon the United States and its activities" and especially upon "we intelligent and representative women who have been intrusted with the making and keeping of the American home"

SOCIETY

BY VIRGINIA WOODS

In Compliment to Mrs. Thom

Mrs. Cameron Erskine Thom, who has been ill for more than a month, is to greet a few friends at a luncheon at which Mrs. Francis G. Gephard of South Figueroa street is to entertain on Thursday. She is to have a company of twelve.

Will Celebrate Signing of Pact With Canadians

Celebration of the signing of the Rush-Bagot agreement between Great Britain and the United States for disarmament along the Great Lakes border will be held this week by the Kiwanis clubs throughout the United States and Canada.

The local Kiwanis Club has arranged for a special program to be given at the Clark at noon Wednesday, according to announcement made yesterday by William R. Baker, president of the club.

The speaker for the Wednesday celebration will be Rev. Thomas Ferrier of Brandon, Man. British and American flags will be displayed and the national anthems of England and America will be sung. The chairman will be Frank L. Murdoff, who said yesterday that invitations to the affair have been sent to the British Vice-Consul, to publishers of Los Angeles newspaper and to representatives of various organizations of Los Angeles.

"Since the signing of the famous agreement we have had 104 years of perfect peace between Americans and their northern neighbors and it is fitting that we should celebrate the anniversary of this great event with programs of interest to the people of both countries," said Mr. Baker.

Where hospitality begins

The first thing you feel as you enter the doors of the Hotel St. Francis is the warmth of its welcome. A feeling of "We're glad to have you" meets you at the threshold and merges with a feeling of "I'm glad to be here."

How comforting, in this high tension age of hurry and scurry, to find a huge hotel that takes time to be human and friendly and sincere in its desire to serve you. For hospitality is an art that has been ingrained and imbedded into the Hotel St. Francis. You find it reflected in the attitude of every attache—from lowliest bellboy up!

A lead pencil is drawn from a pocketbook or purse, although the purse is scarcely half as long as the pencil.

The pencil is really held in the hand and is partly concealed by the wrist (Figure 1.) The purse has a small hole cut in the bottom, through which the point of the pencil is pushed. The purse is held in the left hand with the pencil arranged as described. Then, when the right hand opens the pocketbook, the pencil is mysteriously drawn out of it.

William found a pocketbook But the string jerked it back

It looked like a happy discovery as it lay there on the sidewalk—until the discoverer reached to pick it up. Then the hidden string jerked it away. All William got was disappointment.

That's the way a good many people have found it to be with the comfort and cheer they thought they had secured in tea and coffee. When they came to depend on it—there was a hidden string, and nothing left but disappointment.

The drug, caffeine, in tea and coffee, is a nerve stimulant. Constant stimulation of the nerves often produces rebellion that takes the form of sleeplessness, headaches, irritability, high blood pressure. That's the string to tea and coffee.

Postum, that wholesome delightful cereal beverage, is completely satisfying and there's no harmful quality whatsoever, to take away the comfort which you find in this splendid table drink. Any member of the family may enjoy Postum with any meal—and there will be no after-regrets.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages for larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the beverage while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes. Sold by grocers.

BURCH JURORS' VISITOR NAMED

District Attorney's Employee Accused of Error

Woolwine Asks Investigation of Affair be Made

Defense Counsel to Help Conduct Inquiry

Announcement by Superior Judge Reeve that the identity has become known of the man who, it is charged, attempted to influence prospective jurors in the trial of Arthur C. Burch, together with the admission by Dist.-Atty. Woolwine that it was an employee of his office who visited the Whittier home of Miss Zoe Rutherford to talk concerning the guilt of Burch served to bring to an abrupt halt yesterday morning the trial of the young man charged with killing J. Belton Kennedy.

The prospective jurors in the box, together with the entire panel drawn a week ago, were dismissed by the court.

The dismissal and the order for investigation of every circumstance surrounding the alleged tampering came after a morning of conferences between the court, Mr. Woolwine, Mr. Keyes and Attorney Paul W. Schenck of the defense. For days Mr. Schenck had endeavored to get an investigation into the charges of jury members that they or their families had been talked to concerning Burch's guilt. He had been advised that the court could not act. Yesterday Mr. Woolwine's admission, together with his request that an investigation be conducted, brought forth the announcement of postponement.

COURT IS QUIET

Yesterday's court scene, contrary to expectations, was extremely quiet. It was the first appearance of Mr. Woolwine in court at the retrial of Burch. Mr. Keyes has been conducting the case. A personal tilt between the District Attorney and Mr. Schenck followed Mr. Woolwine's statement that he resented the personal implications that had been made by the defense counsel.

Mr. Schenck denied that Mr. Woolwine had been mentioned in a derogatory manner and after considerable argument on this point, the proceedings continued.

At the opening of the court session Mr. Schenck stated that as had been advised that it would be useless to ask Presiding Judge Willis for an investigation, as the court held that it was impossible to make such an investigation without charges first being made. As the identity of the alleged tamperer was not known to Mr. Schenck, he stated that he could not make the request.

CASE CONTINUED

The court then stated that it had once ruled that the jury could not be dismissed on the challenge Mr. Schenck had offered. But, Judge Reeve stated, in view of the investigation, he would continue Burch's trial until next Monday, dismiss the entire jury and panel and order a court investigation into the conduct of the alleged representatives of the District Attorney. The court then asked Mr. Woolwine his opinion on the matter.

FAVORS INQUIRY

Mr. Woolwine stated that he was heartily in favor of an exhaustive investigation into all the charges that have been made by the defense. He stated that if anyone from his office had been guilty of misconduct, he wanted them punished.

The District Attorney explained that his office in the past has hired the Malcom McLaren Detective Agency to investigate jury panels. Mr. McLaren is an old investigator for the county, he stated, and had been employed to survey other juries.

"If any of these detectives has exceeded his authority or has attempted to influence prospective jurors," Mr. Woolwine declared, "I want him summoned to this court and dealt with. He is guilty of contempt and should be punished."

Mr. Woolwine then told of the orders given the detectives, that they were to make inquiries of neighbors or friends concerning the talesmen's standing in the community and other general questions, but that the investigators had been warned that they must not approach or enter the home of any man or woman who had been drawn.

VISITOR IDENTIFIED.

"Since arriving here this morning," he stated, "I have learned definitely of a man who went to the home of one jurywoman and talked to her mother. He has declared that he did not know the young woman was within hearing distance during the conversation. He had no business in the woman's house and I want all offenders brought here, identified, and cited for contempt of court."

Following this, Judge Reeve dismissed the jury panel, but told the members to hold themselves in readiness to come to court to testify in the contempt proceedings. He then issued an order to draw a new jury panel of 150 names. This was done at the close of court.

Tomorrow the investigation into the activities of the detectives will be begun. The District Attorney will have charge of the investigation, but, because of Mr. Schenck's interest in the affair, he was appointed an associate by the court.

among women, although there is shortly to be introduced a bill into Parliament giving the women the vote on exactly the same terms as the men. But up to this time women have had to break windows, throw themselves in front of horses and smash mail boxes to attract any attention of the lazy conceited individualistic Englishman."

So far the compliments to the clubwomen went very well but at his next point his audience began to see that Mr. Powys was strong on language to bring out both contrast and point. He continued:

"The reason for the whole difference is that you have a public opinion here in America on which you women can work. You can mould it, you can guide it, you can force it. Not so in England. We haven't the ghost of a public opinion. We are individualistic. We are the nation of the enclosed garden.

"You do not like enclosed gardens, you take down the walls and hedges. To an Englishman, that takes away all the pleasure of having a garden. Why, the most radical suffragette in England wants to plant her pansy seeds out of sight of every other suffragette.

"We have a mania for privacy. Every man's garden is every woman's boudior, and we want it so the public can't get over the wall and a place where we can do what we jolly well please.

"We are hedged in by traditions, but let me warn you right here, this public opinion of yours may lead you where you least expect. It may become your master, instead of your servant, I suspect it got a little ahead of you when it got you prohibition and suffrage."

Mrs. James Adams, Mrs. Thomas Jefferson and Miss Ada Dryden, were chosen to serve on the board for the election, which will take place in June. These were in addition to Mrs. Charles S. McKelvey and Mrs. Edwards Tufts, who were appointed by the executive board, the former to serve as chairman. Mrs. W. W. Orcutt has withdrawn from the race to serve on the directorate, and there remains two candidates, Mrs. Charles Toll, whose term as president expires, and Mrs. A. B. Cook.

Mrs. Charles D. Burt, who is now curator of the French department, will be in the race for the general curatorship, and Mrs. Grantland Beaton Long is the only candidate for chief executive, of the club, her petition being the first to be filed. Mrs. Oscar A. Trippet, first vice-president; Mrs. Emerson Clyde Gates, second; Mrs. Leslie R. Hewitt, third, and Mrs. John Stears Thayer, fourth vice-president, are in the race to succeed themselves with very little opposition so far developed.

Petitions are out for Mrs. Birney Donnell and Mrs. Edward Crumley to serve as recording and corresponding secretaries respectfully. The primary election will take place the first Monday in May, after which time no petitions may be signed.

Philanthropy and Civics Club

Last Tuesday's luncheon proved especially interesting to the members of the Philanthropy and Civics Club. The luncheon speakers were five past presidents of other clubs, who now hold membership in this organization. Mrs. O. P. Clark spoke briefly on "Books for Summer Reading;" Mrs. Nichols Milbank on the work of the Y.W.C.A.; Mrs. Benjamin Goldman on "The Value of Women's Clubs;" Mrs. Arnold Burkelman on "Philanthropy Among Catholic Women," and Mrs. Frank Parent on "The Contribution of Women to the Community."

The birthday luncheon was in the hands of Mrs. Harriet Scofield and Mrs. Clarence Pyle and the table was gay with quince blossoms, daffodils, stock and primroses; the place cards were blue birds, for happiness, and the musicale and tea, which followed in the auditorium, were much enjoyed by a large audience.

Mrs. Goldsmith, president, announced a half-dozen new members, among them Mrs. Albert D. Lasker, wife of the chairman of the United States Shipping Board, at Washington, D.C., and Mrs. Herbert A. Cable, past president of the California State Federation.

The program for today, is in the hands of Mrs. Mary Workman, who will speak at 2:15 p.m., on "The Social Problem and Social Service," and Mrs. Ernest K. Foster of the Juvenile Protective Association, who will have for her subject at luncheon, "The Delinquent Child."

Jewish Council of Women

Mrs. E. H. Lauer, who was delegate to the recent conference of Jewish women in San Francisco, will make her report tomorrow before the Los Angeles section of the Council of Jewish Women meeting at the Ebell clubhouse, at 2:30 p.m. The nominating committee will also report the candidates for office. Judge H. N. Wells will deliver an address, "The History of the Ideal—Its Development and Practice," and Harold Ostrom, basso, will sing a group accompanied at the piano by Mrs. William Berman.

Fancy and useful articles, including children's dresses, will be on sale, and the proceeds will go into the auxiliary to the general fund.

Mrs. H. C. Garrett, Mrs. M. Minchen and Mrs. Wilcox Stoddard will have charge of the tables of articles made by the girls in the home; Mrs. J. G. Lynch of the aprons and other articles made by members of the organiation; Mrs. F. E. Shaw and Mrs. J. H. Buchanan of the handkerchief table.

Mrs. Henry H. Hurd will have charge of a nursery baby booth with sixteen babies. Tea will be served.

For the woman who's too busy to listen to reams of advice

MOST women have had about all the housekeeping advice they can stand.

Now for some real help with the housework.

If you have ever used a Hotpoint Electric Iron, you know by experience something at least of what electricity can do toward taking the drudgery out of housework.

But the Hotpoint people have met the American woman's needs at other places besides the ironing-board.

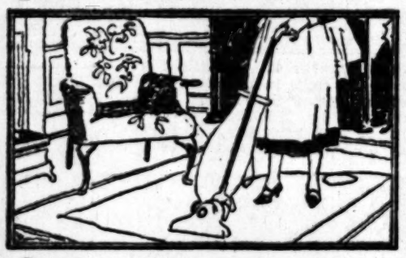
The story is better told in pictures in this particular instance.

And it might be said also, that the following scenes have been drawn with utmost care as to practical fidelity.

7 a.m. The Hedlite Heater with its glowing heat for bedroom or bath.

7-15 a.m. The Immersion Heater, for heating shaving water or the baby's milk.

7-30 a.m. The Percolator—uniformly good coffee day after day.



9 a.m. The Vacuum Cleaner—equally effective on carpets, rugs and bare floors.

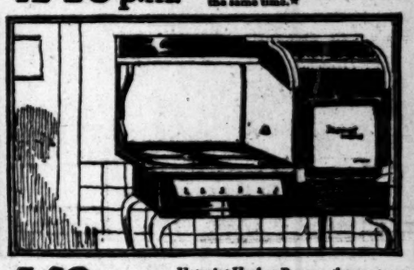
12-20 p.m. The Radiant Grill—boils, broils, fries and toasts, any two operations at the same time.*

3 p.m. The Curling Iron—the hair lies flat in the iron and a uniform wave is assured. The only electric iron that gives a true Marcel Wave.

4 p.m. The Teapot—continuous heat. Tea is served without jumping up to reheat the water.



5-30 p.m. Hotpoint-Hughes Range—the most responsive cooking equipment a woman ever had in her kitchen.

The Hotpoint Utility Set

It might have been called "The Intimate Set"—so personal is its service. The three-pound Iron finds many opportunities to help—freshening up a blouse, for instance, or pressing out a vestee. The Curling Iron is quickly heated in the place provided for it in the iron. While for heating a little water in a hurry, one simply reverses the Iron in the Stand—and it becomes a hot-plate. The whole comes in a Cretonne-covered case which opens out into a compact Ironing Board.

ROONEY A SWEEP

NEW ACT CARRIES OFF BLUE RIBBON AT ORPHEUM

By Grace Kingsley

There's much stirring this week at the Orpheum, with Pat Rooney and Marion Bent e sweep.

Since we saw this couple last, they have been putting on their own musical show in New York. They bring a new act, "Rings of Smoke," to the Orpheum this season, and it's as much superior to their old act as champagne is to beer. Consummate showmanship marks this new offering, which alone is worth more than the price of admission. It is a little young revue, with seven scenes and a succession of dances, songs and musical numbers by Rooney, Miss Bent, Edward and Miriam Root, Colleen Bawn, Anita Nieto, Helen Johnson, Marguerita Rainsford and jazz band. Lyrics are by Edgar Allan Woolf, music by Santly and Hess.

There's a thin thread of story, sufficient to hang on it the sparkling gems of song and dance. Rooney is in his old-time form when it comes to dancing, and Miss Bent is as pretty as ever.

The staging of "Rings of Smoke" is beautifully effective and the routine smooth and charming.

A distinctly different personality is registered by Helen Broderick, Lester Crawford's partner. She starts out as a glum boob type, getting laughs on her nonchalant sarcasm. The two wind up in an amusing dance number.

A regular peach is Peggy Parker, who, with her "Four Musketeers," put over some neat singing, dancing and kidding. It doesn't register much for wit, but the act is pleasing and nicely staged, though the set looks a bit soiled.

If you want to observe somebody understudying Julius Caesar by doing four or five things at a time, go see Harry Kahne, who performs this feat, or at least seems to do so, though a part of it may be accomplished by means of "plants" in the audience. He recites a poem, writes something he reads from a paper, and adds figures all at the same time. It's a little too painfully reminiscent of school to please some of us, but he gets a big hand.

A pleasing turn is that of Walter Daniels and Minna Walters in "The Old Timer," in which both flit from youth to age and back again in the twinkling of an eye. Of course, only youth can do this. The girl sings nicely.

Opening the proceedings is Alanson, acrobatic pantonimist, who serves to put everybody in good humor, while Davis and Pelle close the bill with strong-man handbalancing feats.

Fairbanks Begins Work Today.

Douglas Fairbanks is to start work today in "The Spirit of Chivalry," and the first scenes will be made at the Pickford-Fairbanks studio in Hollywood.

A falcon is one of the props which will be used, and the bird, to be used by Fairbanks, and which the English use in hunting, was imported from England at a cost of $250. He has an English accent, and is otherwise entirely correct.

Enid Bennett is playing Maid Marion and Allan Dwan is directing.

Mary Pickford and Fairbanks returned yesterday morning from spending the week-end at San Diego and Tijuana.

Tong Gets Excited.

A near riot occurred in Chinatown, in Los Angeles last Saturday, when Irving Cummings's company went down there to film scenes for his current picture. It seems that the site selected was a front view of one of the rival tong headquarters. There has been much trouble down there of late, and the Chinese tongs are touchy about things connected with their headquarters. Of course, the Cummings company didn't know the place was the tong headquarters when they settled there with their cameras.

But they soon found out. A dozen excited Chinese rushed out of the place, upset the cameras, and precipitated a near-riot, which it took a squad of police to quell.

New Griffith Production to Show Tomorrow

David Wark Griffith's latest film spectacle, "Orphans of the Storm," founded on D'Ennery's melodrama, "The Two Orphans," and uniting for the first time in years the two Gishes, Lillian and Dorothy, will be given its Los Angeles premiere at the Mission Theater tomorrow.

Noteworthy in the presentation of "Orphans of the Storm" is the fact that this is the first Griffith superproduction, which has had its local premiere in any save a road-show theater, and that the Mission has not raised its admission prices.

While Griffith has faithfully followed the story of "The Two Orphans," he has transformed the Paris of the play into a Paris of the turbulent hours surrounding the fall of the Bastille and the reign of terror. Mob scenes, flashes into the homes of the poor and the gardens of the nobility, provide adequate settings for the story of the two girls who come to Paris to meet only disappointment and woe, until at last a kinder fate overtakes them.

MINSTREL SHOW

Final Rehearsal for Big Charity Show Friday Night

Final rehearsals for the big minstrel show which the dramatic critics of Los Angeles are staging as the opening attraction at the Children's Exposition Saturday evening, will be held Friday night on the mammoth stage erected opposite the Exposition Park grand stand especially to care for the 200 footlight and film favorites who are to take part.

Robert E. Wells, director-general of the exposition, has a crew of workmen putting the finishing touches on the big stage, which will be three times as large as the largest theatrical stage in Los Angeles.

The seat sale is going strong at the B. H. Dyas Company, while the boxes are being sought by the filmland stars, not cast in the minstrel show.

Each day sees new stars added to the list of those who are giving their services for this twentieth century version of the old-fashioned minstrels.

POPPY .. MAID .. WINS .. APPLAUSE

Beauty Contest Star at Grauman's

Hillstreet Still Plays Up to Form

If the Hillstreet Theater keeps on the way it has started out, it is likely to become quite as much of a habit as the senior Orpheum over on Broadway. Barring the fact that their shows are dreadfully long, you get a very nice package of entertainment for your money there, and the shining new house, comfortable and pleasantly reticent in decoration, serves as the red string to tie it up with. It's a good place to acquire a Christmas feeling out of season.

This week's bill is the best yet. It begins with a fast combination of comedy and melodrama, "Chivalrous Charley," in which Eugene O'Brien does the hero stuff, and ends with "The Storm," dragged over, fire and all, from Broadway. In between are several things which are better than either of these—chief among them being Nash and O'Donnel's sketch, "Almost Single," which also has been on Broadway in its time, and was never out of place there.

Kinzo is a very clever Japanese juggler. Ann Gray sings and plays her own accompaniments on that most picturesque of all instruments—the harp. Gilbert Wells is a jazz artist with both voice and legs. And Ray and Emma Dean are a patter team, one of whom wears a red necktie and does his best to live down to it. Not so bad, is it?

But "The Storm"—why are things like that, anyway? This spectacular piece of clap-trap has been seen in thousands of theaters for many years under many aliases, but it does not improve with time. When the curtain comes down, and they are dragging out the bodies, one does have a momentary pang of curiosity about who's killed and why; but it's not acute.

And, by the way, why is it called "The Storm?" Unless it's because the thing got too well known under the old title, there is no conceivable answer.

OPERA LECTURES

Bruce Gordon Kingsley Speaks on Garden Work

Choral Hall on the second floor of Philharmonic Auditorium was crowded yesterday afternoon by ticket purchasers for the forthcoming engagement of the Chicago Grand Opera Company. Dr. Bruce Gordon Kingsley of the University of California gave a lecture recital on "The Love of Three Kings," which is to be produced next Monday night by the Chicago organization.

The purpose of this lecture series, which is to continue every afternoon this week at 4 o'clock in Choral Hall, is to acquaint opera patrons (free of charge) with such an understanding of the various operas they are to see and hear later as to enable them to enjoy them in fullest possible measure. This afternoon the subject will be "The Jewels of the Madonna," the tuneful and bright opera to be sung a week from tonight by a brilliant cast headed by Rosa Raisa.

Dr. Kingsley related the story, "The Love of Three Kings," in very engaging narrative, at the same time illustrating the musical features. He pointed out the particular portions of the opera in which each star shines to best advantage—Mary Garden, Muratore, Baklanoff and Lazzari. He also indicated what an important part the orchestra will have under the baton of the Conductor Polacco.

Near Mystery and Revue Win at Pantages

A picture that starts out like a mystery story, and ends up like a romantic comedy, and Will Morrissey's overseas revue are the merriest part of the Pantages bill this week.

The picture is "At the Sign of the Jack O' Lantern," a Renco Film Company production. Morrissey's revue has been seen in town before, and needs no special introduction. If you haven't seen it once, you should; if you have, a second dose won't hurt you—especially as there are some new things in it.

Why doesn't Morrissey get busy and put on some "big-time" stuff?—is the question the reviewer asks himself every time he sees this clever comedian. The boy is clever; he proved that once some months ago, when he went over to Pantages, acted as general disturber of other people's acts, and put over with a bang a show that would have been commonplace without assistance.

This overseas show proves it. But it looks as if things come too easy to Morrissey. The ad-lib habit is hard to break, in all probability. But, at that, he needn't break it. All he really needs to do is make full use of it; and it is to be wished that he would.

Del Baity's dog act, featuring Jap, contains a couple of "cute" stunts, but in general belongs no further up the bill than the place it occupies. Nan Gray's Scotch accent is questionable; but her personality attracts and her work is a clever rehandling of the stereotyped. Some of it seemed a shade too subtle for yesterday's audience, which is a serious fault that should be remedied at once.

"Play Ball" is average entertainment; and so, if you care for that kind of thing, is the study in equilibrium promoted by the Pasquali Brothers. But "Coontown Divorcons," in which King and Irwin shine, is a scream—a shrill one, if you like, but a scream should be heard, shouldn't it? This one is, emphatically.

REVIEWS

REAL COMEDY IN THIS

"IS MATRIMONY A FAILURE" IS CLEVER FILM FARCE

By Edwin Schallert

No, it's not a problem play. The title sounds as if it were, but the only problem anyone has to solve while watching "Is Matrimony a Failure?" is how to keep a straight face, if he should happen to want to.

"Is Matrimony a Failure?" promises to succeed very brilliantly. It's showing at Grauman's this week, and the audience had several fits of laughter, and registered fifty-seven different kinds of smiles while it was unreeling. It is the best combination of amusing people and clever direction that has been seen on the screen since our old friend Hector learned to say bow-wow.

Who wrote it? Well, it happens to be an adaptation. But it is a good one. Of the play "The Open Door."

The scenario is by Walter Woods, and the direction by James Cruze. The cast looks like a sort of filmland revue. It includes T. Roy Barnes, Lila Lee, Lois Wilson, Walter Hiers, Zasu Pitts, Arthur Hoyt, Tully Marshall, Otis Harlan and Charles Ogle among others. Altogether there are sixteen names mentioned as headliners. And that doesn't include the extras. Not to the canine performances alone, speak of the dogs.

They might bill the picture as an animal comedy on the strength of it. But that isn't the half of it.

The best part of the show is where Barnes says ta-ta to his trousers and elopes in his X.Y.Z.'s. And where all the married men in the picture find out that they are suddenly free because the licenses were illegal.

How it all comes out is better seen than told. But the picture is funny, every bit of it. Probably quite as funny as the original play, "The Open Door," and maybe more so.

The program holds its interests through a series of interesting novelties, chief among which is the appearance of Rhea le Fort, The Times' Beauty Quest winner, who is presented in a very classily-staged act, by Sid Grauman.

Miss le Fort wears a costume typical in color of the poppy and orange. She does an attractive dance number. She reveals a fine and delicate grace in the use of her arms. Her posing is also effective.

Much applause went to Harry Van Antwerp for his presentation of some tunes, using as prop instruments a broom and a saw.

FILM FIRM DISSOLVES

With the termination of a year's contract the motion-picture producing firm of Selig-Rork has been dissolved, it was announced today. During the past year these producers made such pictures as "The Rosary," a seven-reel special, released through Associated First National; four two-reel dramas with all-star casts, and a wild animal serial, "The Jungle Goddess," which has just been completed.

TO CONSIDER DISTRICT PLAN

The Association for District Representation will meet today at 8 p.m., in Music Hall, 232 South Hill street. Harry Lyons, chairman of the legislation committee, will present the report on the division of the city into district, and criticisms will be invited. The meeting is open to the public.

PORT NOTES.

Announcement has been made of the sale of the British steamer Melville Dollar to the Kishimoto Kaisha of Kobe. The terms of the sale were not made public. The Melville Dollar was the first large freighter built for Capt. Robert Dollar. She was launched at Glasgow in 1905 at an approximate cost of $185,000. She will make but one more trip in the Dollar service before being turned over to her new owners at Kobe. The freighter Celestial, one of the four Chinese ships bought recently by the Dollar interests, has been named the Melville Dollar.

Substantial reductions in west-bound trans-Pacific freight rates on various commodities have been announced by the Pacific Intercoastal Conference. They became effective April 1. Tonnage rates are based on carload lots and are as follows: Hosiery, sweaters, underwear, from $2.10 to $1.80; vehicles, tractors, trucks, from $2.80 to $2; tobacco in bulk and cases, $1.25 to $1; bath tubs, enameled, from $1.50 to $1.25; carpet, linoleum, oil cloth, from $1 to 90 cents.

Word was received at the local port yesterday that the steam schooner Port Angeles lost her propeller when 1120 miles northwest of San Francisco. She was picked up by the steamer Washington and towed to San Francisco. The Port Angeles formerly several weeks ago in a collision at Los Angeles Harbor with the steam schooner Willie A. Higgins.

With the advent of the big motorship in the Pacific Coast-European trade, steamship lines offering that type of service are destined to secure a considerably larger share of the movements of cargoes from the Pacific Northwest to Europe, it is indicated in local shipping circles. The Lewis Hartford and her sister ship, the Dorothea B., two of the largest motorships in existence, have been placed in the Pacific Coast-European service, and these ships, because of their excellent refrigeration service, will be given a large share of the apple shipment business. A large portion of this business has been going overland to the Atlantic seaboard heretofore.

Cargo offerings to Australia and New Zealand at Pacific Coast ports are extremely heavy just now, according to R. J. Whitemarsh, traffic manager for the General Steamship Corporation. All vessels of the Transatlantic Steamship Company, Ltd., for which the General Steamship Corporation are Pacific Coast agents, are filled up for the Antipodes to July 1, he announced. Java-Pacific vessels are leaving Coast ports with good cargoes, an indication of increased activity in the Dutch East Indies markets.

The Matson line steamer Enterprise on Saturday completed forty years of service on the seas. Her master, Capt. J. G. Youngren, and purser, in command of the vessel for the last twenty-two years in the Hilo-San Francisco service, and he has been with the Matson line thirty-one years. Her arrival on this Coast Friday night last marked the completion of her one hundred and ninety-ninth round trip. The craft was built at Newcastle, Eng., in 1883, and was the first vessel to be bought and operated by the late Capt. William Matson when he entered the coastwise trade.

News of Ships and Sailings in Pacific Ports

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TACOMA, April 3.—Business at Tacoma today centered about the Milwaukee and port docks, where a number of big carriers were loading in the intercoastal and offshore trade. Two Japanese steamers arrived this morning, while several coasters were expected during the day.

At the Milwaukee dock there were four steamers, the Williaro, Melville Dollar, Kinkasan Maru and Motic berthed. The Kinkasan Maru, a Mitsui steamer, arrived this morning and will be here several days loading.

The Kaisho Maru was a Monday morning arrival at the port dock. At this dock there is the Eastern Prince, also loading for the Orient. The Kaisho will be here several days taking on lumber, while the Eastern Prince will get away Wednesday or Thursday.

The Henry Villard, in tow of the steamer Gridley, is due at the smelter tomorrow from British Columbia ports with ore from the Tacoma plant.

Considerable freight is on the Rainier, of the Nelson Line, due at the Baker dock Wednesday from San Francisco. The Rainier has freight to load out at the Sperry mill.

The Dakotan of the United American Line is listed for an arrival here Friday to load for Furness. The Dakotan has cargo at the Milwaukee elevator and Sperry mills to load for Europe.

It is expected that the Africa Maru of the Osaka Shoshen Kaisha Line will return here from Vancouver Thursday to finish loading for the Orient.

The Williaro, Capt. Howard Brest, of the Williams Line, now in port, will not sail for New York until tomorrow night or Wednesday morning. The steamer has considerable freight to load here, including copper from the Tacoma smelter.

After being laid up at Seattle and Victoria for about three months while undergoing repairs, the Admiral Farragut is back on the California run from Tacoma. The steamer berthed here Sunday, sailed today for the south after loading here. The vessel came in all spruced up and carrying a coat of green and buff that would have delighted a native of Erin, local marine men declare. In respect to the memory of Capt. H. C. Thomas, old-time master of vessels on this line, flags on the Farragut were at half mast. Capt. Thomas, master of the Wenatchee, died in Manila a few days ago.

The City of Rangoon, loading at the Balfour dock for Bremen, will not sail until Tuesday evening, it was stated at the dock. The steamer is taking four out from Tacoma.

The Luckenbach Line vessels will be numerous at Tacoma within the next few days, the schedule received by F. H. Hewson, Tacoma agent of the big intercoastal line, shows. There is the Julia Luckenbach, Capt. Ole Smith, due Wednesday from New York. The vessel has lumber to load at the St. Paul and other mills. The Julia will be followed April 8 by the Florence Luckenbach, and on April 10 the Edgar Luckenbach is due. The vessels of this line run very close to schedule and have been handling large amounts of freight out from Tacoma.

VANCOUVER, April 3.—The second of the four new ships of the Dollar fleet has arrived in port and is loading at the Canadian Pacific docks. She is the Mandarin, Capt. Payne, a sister ship to the Cathay. Waterfront men declare her to be one of the finest cargo carriers to enter the port.

The longshore labor situation is still undecided. No word has been received of the result of the Puget Sound negotiations with the International Longshoremen's Association organizations there.

The Japanese steamer Erie Maru sails for Nanaimo to complete with lumber for the Far East. She is loading for the H. R. McMillan Export Company.

The liner Empress of Japan, Commander Heaven, will sail Thursday for the Far East. The Norwegian steamer Bruisbury sails tonight for Astoria to commence loading for the Far East.

VICTORIA, April 3.—Completing her inward voyage from the Far East, the Blue Funnel Line steamship Ixion, Capt. Ogden, made Williamhead at 11:30 o'clock this morning. She carried no Asiatic steerage passengers owing to the Hongkong strike. Her cargo was stored away in the holds. Some heavy weather was experienced on the voyage from the Far East. Capt. Ogden reports that the Ixion this voyage and will be succeeded by Capt. Price, who came out from Liverpool to take over the ship. Capt. Ogden has served a year on the Ixion and is now entitled to one of the company's ships operating out of a home port.

The radio compass stations on this coast are highly spoken of by Capt. T. Onada, master of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Kaga Maru, in port today from the Far East. Capt. Onada stated that the wireless directional finding apparatus proved of great assistance to him yesterday, when his ship was enveloped in fog off Cape Flattery. Capt. Onada thinks that the Canadian government's proposal to establish radio compass stations on the Vancouver Island Line would be of inestimable value to trans-Pacific shipping.

SEATTLE, April 3.—Capt. Roald Amundsen's exploration ship, the Maud, was towed out of Lake Union here today and taken to Eagle Harbor, where she will be hauled out on the ways and her hull inspected prior to outfitting for her northern trip.

The Norwegian steamship Hellen, under charter to J. J. Moore & Co. of San Francisco, has been under command of Capt. R. J. Berg. She is loading a deckload of lumber after filling her holds at Aberdeen, Everett, Bellingham and British Columbia ports. When she sails for Kobe and Yokohama she will carry 8,000,000 feet of lumber.

The steamer Cores of the Alaska Steamship Company fleet, went to Smith Cove here today where one of the three new passenger coaches built for the Northern Pacific Railroad by the Alaska Railroad Commission, for use on the government railroad in Alaska was loaded aboard. The coach balanced in a cradle, was swung from the pier to the well deck of the vessel by a giant crane. Although there was but four inches total clearance at the end, the coach was put in place without touching either end.

The rigged iron ship Falls of Clyde, owned by the Gulf Refining Corporation, is reported proceeding to this port. Within a few days she will be towed from here to Ketchikan, Alaska, where she will be used as an oil barge by the corporation.

The Blue Funnel liner Ixion, Capt. Ogden, arrived in port today.

The Nippon Yusen Kaisha's first intermediate type ship, the Kaga Maru, arrived here today with 35 first-cabin and 100 steerage passengers.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—The Admiral Line expects to buy four vessels from James Botts, president of the Western International Steel Company, within a few days, it became known here today. On the arrival in San Francisco of H. F. Alexander, president of the Pacific Steamship Company (Admiral Line).

The vessels in question are the gasoline schooners Dawnlite, Bubble, Moonlite and Daylite. Their approximate dimensions are 252 feet in length, 45.7 beam and 21.2 deep. The vessels are 1001 tons net and built of steel. What trade the vessels will be in was not determined.

The new offices of the Toyo Kisen Kaisha were opened today. The entire force moved from the old quarters in the Mercantile National Bank Building to 916-920 Market street. The opening was marked by informal reception to shippers.

The Pacific Mail steamer Creole State was towed over to the Bethlehem Ship Plant at the Potrero today where work started on the installation of steerage quarters. The Creole State has been on the Oriental-San Francisco run, calling at Calcutta, India. On its next trip it will run from San Francisco to Manila direct.

The marine department of the Chamber of Commerce today received word from London that the Japanese liner Chichibu Maru will ashore twenty-five miles from Kobe with her rudder disabled.

The Shinyo Maru of the T. K. K. is listed to arrive Tuesday morning from Hongkong. The Pacific Mail liner Empire State is due from the Orient Thursday. The steamer San Juan from Cristobal is due Friday.

Tonnage movements through the port of San Francisco for March showed a decided increase over the preceding month and shipping men say they indicate conditions are getting back to normal. A total total of 410,000 tons arrived at this port in March. That was an increase of 68,856 tons over the preceding month. Tonnage departures for the month totaled 419,819 tons, as compared with a February total of 729,773.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—All the shipping Board's passenger vessels, except the George Washington and the America, and the four ships in the South American service will be named after Presidents of the United States, Chairman Lasker announced today.

The individual designations have not yet been made, nor have all the Presidential names been selected. The board, however, after agreeing on nine vessels, has authorized Mr. Lasker to complete the list.

Those already decided on but not assigned to the ships are Warren G. Harding, Woodrow Wilson, William Howard Taft, Theodore Roosevelt, William McKinley, Grover Cleveland, Abraham Lincoln, Andrew Jackson and Thomas Jefferson.

The decision to rename the vessels, it was explained, was reached after many complaints had been received against the present names of the Shipping Board's vessels, in which the regular names of States have been used. The ships to be renamed are the Creole State, Granite State, Panhandle State, Wolverine State, Centennial State, Blue Hen State, Bay State, Peninsular State, Keystone State, Empire State, Lone Star State, Hoosier State, Hawkeye State, Buckeye State, Pine Tree State, Sunflower State, Hoosier State, Cyprine State, Golden State, Silver State and the Wenatchee and the Lewisthan.

QUARTET CLUB FEATURE

The Gamut Club's dinner tomorrow night will be featured by vocal and instrumental selections from the Golden West Ladies' Quartette; Tracy Cheatham, baritone; Evelyn Lane, soprano; Ray McFeeters, accompanist and piano soloist; Samuel Glass, tenor, and others. Joseph Dupuy, who is in charge of the program, promises several unusual features.

CALIFORNIA GIRL WILL WED AT SEA

Ceremony Will be Read by Liner's Captain Off Central American Coast.

The tones of a church organ will be supplanted by the roar of ocean waves when Miss Elvira Coburn, prominent San Francisco society girl, is joined in wedlock to Lawrence Jordan of San Salvador, representative for W. R. Grace & Co., steamship concern, there.

The wedding ceremony is to be performed on the high seas by Capt. C. M. Cochrane, aboard the Pacific Mail liner Santa Ana, which sailed last night for New York, via the Panama Canal.

The ocean wedding has been planned by Miss Coburn and her mother, Mrs. Ira W. Coburn, to escape the double marriage ceremony, which is obligatory under the laws of the Central American Republic where the bridegroom-elect is stationed. Miss Coburn and her mother boarded the Santa Ana at San Francisco and they will be joined at La Libertad by Mr. Jordan. After the departure of the Santa Ana from La Libertad the ceremony will be performed at sea. The couple will leave the ship further south and Mrs. Coburn, the bride's mother, will continue on to New York.

An elaborate card tray of hammered silver, destined as a wedding gift from the officers of the Santa Ana, was purchased at Los Angeles today and will be presented following the wedding ceremony.

The Santa Ana sailed last night with a full list of cabin passengers from San Francisco and Los Angeles, bound for Havana, Baltimore and New York.

Largest Bark Will Set Sail for Honolulu

The Danish five-masted bark Kobenhavn, largest vessel of her type in the world, in command of Baron Jules Niels Brockdorf of the Danish royal navy, is scheduled to sail tomorrow for Honolulu after a stay of more than a week at Los Angeles Harbor. During the visit of the big ship here thousands of visitors viewed the lofty reaches of her great masts and spars.

On Sunday the Kobenhavn's officers and the eighteen cadets under training were the guests of Capt. Paulson of the Los Angeles Stevedoring Company on an automobile trip through Long Beach, Los Angeles, Pasadena and Sierra Madre Canyon. Ten automobiles were provided by Capt. Paulson for the sightseeing trip and luncheon was served the visiting Danish sailor men at Busch Gardens.

U. S. Dist.-Atty. Burke Divides Office Duties

Beginning next week there will be a division of labor in the office of U. S. Dist.-Atty. Burke, which, it is believed, will concentrate the work for proper and swift administration of justice in the local Federal courts.

Assistants Maeder and Layng will have exclusive charge of the liquor prosecutions. Assistant Herron will have charge of the smuggling and narcotic cases and Assistants Camarillo and Lissner will have charge of the civil department.

Mr. Burke left last night for San Diego to spend the rest of the week in Federal court.

WOMAN IS HELD FOR AUTO THEFT TRIAL

Having surrendered herself to the police in order that her brother-in-law, B. O. Affeld, might have a chance for release from San Quentin prison, Anna Fulton yesterday was held to answer by Justice Follette on a charge of stealing an automobile. Bail was fixed at $3000.

Dep. Dist.-Atty. McDaniel adduced testimony relating to the ownership of the car and as to its sale to persons in this city after it was altered. The automobile was the property of Frances Bourland, 121½ West Thirty-second street. It was stolen last September 7.

The defendant is said to have stated that Arthur and Wallie Baecker, defendants in other cases, are heads of a ring of automobile thieves who steal cars in this State and sell them in another.

cess flow during the daytime, and to be emptied between the hours of midnight and 6 a.m., into the outfall sewer, when that pipe could handle it.

The City Engineer also recommended, so as to carry out Judge Wood's suggestions, that the city proceed at once to spend at least $542,000 in building a treatment plant on the west side of Moynier Lane, between Higuera Road and the Southern Pacific Air Line right of way. This plant, he said, should have a capacity of 6,000,000 gallons each twenty-four hours, through which the excess flow could pass and after filtration, pass safely and without odor or nuisance into Ballona Creek.

The City Engineer said that if an activated sludge plant were desired, instead of $542,000 for filters an outlay of $700,000 would be required. The construction—of the plant would require six months, the City Engineer said, but after it was in operation the reservoir would not be required.

"So we would be throwing our money away, if we had it," said President Criswell. "In building the reservoir. No court can make me vote for wasting $102,000."

"Can't we appeal from the court's decision?" asked Councilman Musbet.

"No," replied Deputy City Attorney Stahl.

At an executive session held after the day's regular meeting, the Council talked for more than an hour about the sewage disposal situation and what to do about Judge Wood's injunction.

"All we can do," said President Criswell, "is to do the best we can with the money we have. We can do no more. If the court tries to haul us up for contempt a writ of prohibition can be applied for in a higher court to prevent Judge Wood from acting against us."

SHY AT SUGGESTION

Both the Board of Public Works and the City Council have fought shy of adopting the suggestion made by the State Board of Health and by Judge Wood that all new house connections with the present sewer system be prohibited until the present emergency problem is solved. This action would necessitate the use of cesspools, which the Councilmen assert would arouse the people of the city to the serious conditions due to the overtaxing of the city's sewer system, and do much to carry a bond issue for a new outfall sewer or treatment plants.

City Engineer Griffin has recommended that new house connections to the sewer system be prohibited and that industrial waters be kept out of the sewers and poured into storm drains or the gutters, but neither the Board of Public Works, nor the City Council has yet adopted these recommendations.

COULD SAVE WATER

R. W. Hadden, consulting engineer, in his recent article in The Times on the sewage disposal situation, pointed out that much could be accomplished in reducing the burden on the present sewer system by readjusting the amount of water used in flushing toilets. Six gallons of water is the usual amount used each time a toilet is flushed. By readjusting the apparatus, this could be cut to three gallons, equally efficient results would be obtained, and 9,600,000 gallons of water could thus be eliminated from the sewer each twenty-four hours. City Engineer Griffin and the Councilmen yesterday strongly indorsed this plan for cutting down the burden in the sewer, and urged all householders to make the simple adjustments in the toilet apparatus required.

The question of making this adjustment compulsory by ordinance was discussed at yesterday's Council conference, but no action was taken. Engineers who are urging this plan declared that the city could pass the necessary ordinance, and then at a cost of $60,000 employ 100 inspectors to visit the homes in the city and make the necessary adjustments. It was estimated that 100 men could readjust 2400 toilets per day, and could thoroughly cover the city in four months.

DAMAGES DEMANDED

Ten Thousand Dollars Asked on Slander Charges

A suit for $10,000 damages for asserted slander was filed yesterday by Emile Levy against Will Metsger. Mr. Levy declares that the defendant accused him of a mental disorder which rendered him incompetent. This Mr
